

The Noumenon and the Phenomenon of It All

Phenomenon is the brain's sensing/perception of the what is, within and out of the body, such as hominin brain's can have information about the thing-in-itself as distinct from the thing as it appears to an observer.

The 10 senses used to tell stories, construct worldviews.

Modern humans use their storytelling brains to construct ideology (abstracted systems of belief), i.e. the obfuscation (bewitchment) of our intelligence by means of language.

On the Distinction Between Phenomenon and Noumenon in the History of Philosophy Joseph Evans Sagebeer,1891

Problems from Kant James Van Cleve,2003-09-25 This rigorous examination of Kant's Critique of Pure Reason provides a comprehensive analysis of the major metaphysical and epistemological questions of Kant's most famous work. Author James Van Cleve presents clear and detailed discussions of Kant's positions and arguments on these themes as well as critical assessments of Kant's reasoning and conclusions. Expansive in its scope, Van Cleve's study covers the overall structure of Kant's idealism, the existence and nature of synthetic a priori knowledge, the epistemology of geometry, and the ontological status of space, time, and matter. Other topics explored are the role of synthesis and the categories in making experience and objects of experience possible, the concepts of substance and causation, issues surrounding Kant's notion of the thing in itself, the nature of the thinking self, and the arguments of rational theology. A concluding chapter discusses the affinities between Kant's idealism and contemporary antirealism, in particular the work of Putnam and Dummett. Unlike some interpreters, Van Cleve takes Kant's professed idealism seriously, finding it at work in his solutions to many problems. He offers a critique in Kant's own sense, a critical examination leading to both negative and positive verdicts. While finding little to endorse in some parts of Kant's system that have won contemporary favor, for example the deduction of the categories, Van Cleve defends other aspects of Kant's thought that are commonly impugned, for instance the existence of synthetic a priori truths and things in themselves. This vital study makes a significant contribution to the literature while at the same time making Kant's work accessible to serious students.

Buddhism and Postmodernity Jin Y. Park,2008-01-01 Through a close analysis of Zen encounter dialogues, gong'an, and Huayan Buddhist philosophy, Buddhism and Postmodernity offers a new ethical paradigm for Buddhist postmodern philosophy.

Philosophy and Myth in Karl Marx,2001-01-01 In Karl Marx's early writing, first made available many years after his death, his economic interpretation of history and his concept of communism were set in a comprehensive philosophical framework. Marx's main preoccupation at this time was with man estranged from himself in an alienated world, a subjective, almost religious theme. Taking full account of these earlier writings, Robert Tucker critiques and reinterprets Marx's thought. He shows how its origins can be located in earlier German philosophers, in particular Kant, Hegel, and Feuerbach. Reconstructing the genesis of Marxism in its founder's own mind, he clarifies Marx's mystifying contention that Marxism represented Hegelianism turned on its head. He then presents a new interpretation based on close textual analysis of the relation between Marx's early philosophical system and the subsequent materialist conception of history as expounded in the later and best known writings of Marx and Engels. Against this background, Tucker presents Das Kapital as a work belonging to the post-Hegelian mythical development of German philosophy. Considering in turn the genesis of Marxism and the underlying continuity of his thought from the early writings to Das Kapital, Tucker shows the theme of alienation is central throughout. In the years since the book was first written, comments and criticism have encouraged Tucker to change his position somewhat. This is explained in a new introduction that goes beyond the interpretative enterprise of the rest of the book to assess Marx in relation to contemporary concerns: first it presents a critique of Marx's treatment of alienation and then it comments on the moot problem of the continuing relevance of his social and economic thought. On the latter point, his views have matured and altered during the intervening years and he now finds the economic and social aspects of Marx's thought considerably more relevant than he did before.

The Essence of Other-Emptiness Taranatha, 2007-02-09 Jeffrey Hopkins continues his groundbreaking exploration of the Jo nang ba sect of Tibetan Buddhism with this revelatory translation of one of the seminal texts from that tradition. Whereas Dol po ba's massive Mountain Doctrine authenticates the doctrine of other-emptiness through extensive scriptural citations and elaborate philosophical arguments, Taranatha's more concise work translated here situates the doctrine of other-emptiness within the context of schools of tenets, primarily the famed four schools of Tibetan Buddhism, through comparing the various schools' opinions on the status of the noumenon and phenomena. Also included is a supplementary text by Taranatha which presents the opinions of a prominent fifteenth-century Sakya scholar, Shakya Chok den, and contrasts them with those of the leading Jo nang ba scholar Dol po ba.

Time, Embodiment and the Self Andros Loizou, 2017-11-22 This title was first published in 2000. Beginning with a sustained argument against the new tenseless theory of time and against McTaggart's A-series/B-series distinction, the author of this essay goes on to provide a non-paradoxical, tensed, phenomenologically based account of the going on or taking place of events in time that escapes the paradoxes endemic to passage as understood via the A-series/B-series distinction. The author then turns his attention to the other main aim of the essay, which is to seek an understanding of time adequate to those more embodied conceptions of the self that place character and with it the constitutive attachments or ground projects of individual life circumstance at the centre of the self. This involves a redrawing of the self informed by a wider conception of the will than the one we have inherited via Descartes and Kant, by an account of ground projects and by the theory of the tripartite psyche in Plato's Republic. It also involves extending the account of time developed in the second chapter in a way that draws on the notion of ecstatic temporality that originates with Heidegger. The essay will be of use to philosophers and advanced students interested in the nature of the self, time, temporality and phenomenology.

Noumenon Marina J. Lostetter, 2017-08-01 A centuries-long mission to reach a mysterious star unfolds through a series of vignettes across generations in this spectacular epic sci-fi novel. Kirkus starred review In 2088 humankind is finally able to explore beyond Earth's solar system. The interstellar missions will depend on cloning technology that allows a single crew to replicate itself across eons and astrophysicist Reggie Straifer knows exactly where to send them. Having discovered an anomalous star that appears to defy the laws of physics, he proposes a deep space mission to determine if the star is a natural phenomenon or something manufactured. Reggie himself is among the hundreds of elite experts cloned for the convoy. But a clone is not an exact copy and each new generation has its own quirks, desires, and neuroses. As the centuries fly by, the society living aboard the nine ships changes and evolves, but their mission remains the same: to reach Reggie's mysterious star and explore its origins and implications. A mosaic novel of discovery, Noumenon in a series of vignettes follows the men and women and even the AI as they are born again and again into a thousand new lives. With the stars, their home, and the unknown, their destination, they are on an odyssey to understand what lies beyond the limits of human knowledge and imagination. Buddhism Gereon Kopf, Jin Y. Park, 2009-08-13 Merleau-Ponty and Buddhism explores a new mode of philosophizing through a comparative study of Maurice Merleau-Ponty's phenomenology and philosophies of major Buddhist thinkers such as Nagarjuna, Chinul, Dogen, Shinran, and Nishida Kitaro. Challenging the dualistic paradigm of existing philosophical traditions, Merleau-Ponty proposes a philosophy in which the traditional opposites are encountered through mutual penetration. Likewise, a Buddhist worldview is articulated in the theory of dependent co-arising or the middle path, which comprehends the world and beings in the third space where the subject and the object, or eternalism and annihilation, exist independent of one another. The thirteen essays in this volume explore this third space in their discussions of Merleau-Ponty's concepts of the intentional arc, the flesh of the world, and the chiasm of visibility in connection with the Buddhist doctrine of no-self and the five aggregates. The Tiantai Buddhist concept of threefold truth, Zen Buddhist huatou meditation, the invocation of the Amida Buddha in True Pure Land Buddhism, and Nishida's concept of basho. In his philosophical project, Merleau-Ponty makes vigorous efforts to challenge the boundaries that divide philosophy and non-philosophy, the East and the West, experience and concepts, the subject and the object, and body and mind. Combining the Eastern philosophical tradition of Buddhism with Merleau-Ponty's phenomenology, Merleau-Ponty and Buddhism offers an intercultural philosophy in which opposites intermingle in a chiasmic relationship and which brings new understanding regarding the self and the self's relation with others in a globalized and multicultural world Challenges and Solutions in the Digital Economy and Finance Anna Rumyantseva, Vladimir Plotnikov, Alexey Minin, Hod Anyigba, 2022-11-04 This volume presents the proceedings of the 4th International Scientific and Practical Conference on Digital Economy and Finances DEFIN22 at the Saint Petersburg University of Management Technologies and Economics UMTE which took place in March 2022 It includes the newest research on the impact of new digital technologies on the growth and capitalization of companies and the labor market The volume discusses the problems of situational modeling of economic processes and the creation of digital twins of enterprises The contributions analyse how big data and artificial intelligence technologies are shaping the financial markets The Four Lacanian Discourses Jeanne Lorraine Schroeder, 2008-08-18 This book proposes a taxonomy of jurisprudence and legal practice based on the discourse theory of Jacques Lacan In the anglophone academy the positivist jurisprudence of H L A Hart provides the most influential account of law But just as positivism ignores the practice of law by lawyers even within the academy the majority of professors are also not pursuing Hart s positivist project Rather they are engaged in policy oriented scholarship that tries to explain law in terms of society s collective goals or in doctrinal legal scholarship that does not try to describe what law is or to supply justifications for it but which examines the internal logic of law Lacan s discourse theory has the power to differentiate the various roles of the practicing lawyer and the legal scholar It is also able to explain the striking lack of communication between diverse schools of legal scholarship and between legal academia and the legal profession Although extremely influential in Europe and South America Lacanian theory remains largely unexplored in the English speaking world outside of the field of comparative literature In taking up the jurisprudential ramifications of Lacan s work The Four Lacanian Discourses thus constitutes an original contribution to current theoretical and practical understandings of law Traces of Understanding Patrick L.
