Pheromones Reproduction In Mammals:

Pheromones and Reproduction in Mammals John Vandenberg, 2012-12-02 Pheromones and Reproduction in Mammals reviews current research findings on the role of pheromones in mammalian reproduction Drawing on both quantitative laboratory studies and selected observational field studies the book explores how animals actively deploy scent to facilitate sexual interactions and the functions of those scent signals during these interactions Organized into two sections encompassing nine chapters this volume begins with an overview of chemical signals and how they influence reproductive behavior in a variety of mammalian species It then discusses the nature of chemical signals and olfactory perception the role of chemical communication in mother young interactions and in the reproduction of primates how pheromones regulate puberty and the ovarian cycle and pregnancy blocking by pheromones The reader is also introduced to hormonal responses to primer pheromones sensory physiology of pheromone communication and the role of pheromones in the reproduction of domestic animals such as cattle swine sheep and goats Biologists and students of biology will find this book extremely informative

Pheromones and Animal Behaviour Tristram D. Wyatt, 2003-02-27 We are entering one of the most exciting periods in the study of chemical communication since the first pheromones were identified some 40 years ago This rapid progress is reflected in this book the first to cover the whole animal kingdom at this level for 25 years The importance of chemical communication is illustrated with examples from a diverse range of animals including humans marine copepods Drosophila Caenorhabditis elegans moths snakes goldfish elephants and mice It is designed to be advanced but at the same time accessible to readers whatever their scientific background For students of ecology evolution and behaviour this book gives an introduction to the rapid progress in our understanding of olfaction at the molecular and neurological level In addition it offers chemists molecular and neurobiologists an insight into the ecological evolutionary and behavioural context of olfactory communication

Pheromones, 2010-10-22 First published in 1943 Vitamins and Hormones is the longest running serial published by Academic Press The Editorial Board now reflects expertise in the field of hormone action vitamin action X ray crystal structure physiology and enzyme mechanisms Under the capable and qualified editorial leadership of Dr Gerald Litwack Vitamins and Hormones continues to publish cutting edge reviews of interest to endocrinologists biochemists nutritionists pharmacologists cell biologists and molecular biologists Others interested in the structure and function of biologically active molecules like hormones and vitamins will as always turn to this series for comprehensive reviews by leading contributors to this and related disciplines This volume focuses on insulin and IGFs Longest running series published by Academic Press Contributions by leading international authorities

Mammalian Reproductive Biology F. H. Bronson, 1989 A unique interdisciplinary overview of the way mammals reproduce this volume synthesizes research done by laboratory physiologists behaviorists population ecologists and animal breeders F H Bronson has drawn together the disparate literature in these areas to provide students and researchers with a comprehensive and biologically integrated approach to the study of mammalian reproduction Each chapter presents a wealth of issues and questions summarizing the current consensus on interpretations as well as viable alternatives under debate The book is principally concerned with how environmental factors regulate reproduction Bronson proposes that a mammal's reproductive performance routinely reflects simultaneous regulation by several environmental factors that interact in fascinatingly complex ways Environment is defined broadly and the chapters give equal weight to ecological and physiological factors when considering how variables such as food availability ambient temperature photoperiod and social cues interact to regulate a mammal's reproduction Particular attention is given to seasonal breeding and a taxonomically arranged chapter underscores the importance of comparative and evolutionary biology to an understanding of mammalian reproduction Mammalian Reproductive Biology is a powerful argument for the value and importance of interdisciplinary approaches to research Its almost 1 500 references constitute the most comprehensive bibliography to date on this topic Bronson also gives detailed consideration to promising areas for future research Well organized carefully planned and clearly written this book will become standard reading for scientists concerned with any aspect of mammalian biology

Chemical Signals in Vertebrates 4 David Duvall, Dietland Müller-Schwarze, Robert M. Silverstein, 2012-12-06 This volume reviews recent developments in our understanding of chemical signaling in vertebrates After sections dealing with general principles and chemical aspects of vertebrate pheromones it follows a taxonomic approach progressing from fish to mammals The editors asked a diverse international group of leading investigators working on a wide array of vertebrate taxa and specific issues to consider their efforts from comparative evolutionary and ecological viewpoints The relative number of manuscripts in each part does not necessarily reflect current intensity of research since the editors invited speakers who together would provide a balanced and comprehensive overview while avoiding duplication Still the part on mammals is the longest Fourth in a series dating from 1977 this volume illuminates current trends and likely future developments in the field of chemical signaling in vertebrates Going back even farther the first chapter a personal account of the past quarter century by Dr Mykytowycz recalls the most important milestones such as symposia or the founding of societies and journals He also credits those investigators who stand out by their seminal studies

Advances in Chemical Signals in Vertebrates Robert E. Johnston, Dietland Müller-Schwarze, Peter W. Sorenson, 2012-12-06 The field of olfactory research and chemical communication is in the early stages of revolutionary change and many aspects of this revolution are reflected in the chapters in this book Thus it should serve admirably as an up to date reference First a wide range of vertebrate groups and species are represented Second there are excellent reviews of specific topics and theoretical approaches to communication by odors including chapters on signal specialization and evolution in mammals the evolution of hormonal pheromones in fish alarm pheromones in fish chemical repellents the chemical signals involved in endocrine responses in mice and the controversy over human pheromones Third there are exciting new findings presented in numerous specific topic areas such as the chemis try of pheromones in a wide range of species salamanders to elephants the chemistry of proteins that control the release of pheromones the molecular biology and physiology of detection coding and response to odor signals the effects of experience on sensitivity to odors the role of genes of the immune system in odor production and in human mate choice the function and perception of scent over marks the recognition of individuals and kin by odors the influence of odors on predator prey interactions and the use of odors to help control pests This book is an offshoot of the Eighth International Symposium on Chemical Sig nals in Vertebrates held at Cornell University in Ithaca New York July 20 25 1997 hosted and organized by Bob Johnston

Chemoreception Abstracts , 1985 Science of Olfaction Michael J.

Serby, Karen L. Chobor, 2012-12-06 A book such as this one necessarily entails the effort of many individuals Its first seed was a workshop in 1988 that one of us K L C designed and directed at the City University of New York Graduate Center as part of a series of conferences and workshops on topics in neuropsychology sponsored by the Institute for Research in Behavioral Neuroscience IRBN At that time studies in the efficacy of olfaction as an alternative modality of stimulation in brain injured adults were taking place at IRBN The work shop helped to spark many new ideas among IRBN s staff leading to various projects in clinical intervention some of which are discussed in this volume We soon discovered that clinical interest in olfaction was steadily increasing and that this modality was in many ways on a par with the rest Along with progress in the clinical investigation of olfaction an abundance of work has been published in the basic science of the field Ideas such as the regeneration of olfactory neurons and the use of these neurons in transplantation took hold and were proved to be viable ones These developments along with a profusion of techniques that allow a closer look at the anatomy and physiology of olfaction have contributed to the accelerated pace with which this field is now advancing Dr Chemical Signals in Vertebrates 11 Jane Hurst, Robert J. Beynon, S. Craig Roberts, Tristram Wyatt, 2007-10-26 This volume contains the proceedings of the conference of the same name held in July 2006 at the University of Chester in the United Kingdom It includes all the latest research on chemical communication relevant to vertebrates particularly focusing on new research since the last meeting in 2003 Topics covered include the chemical ecology biochemistry behavior olfactory receptors and the neurobiology of both the main olfactory and vomeronasal systems of vertebrates Chemical Signals in Vertebrates 10 R.T. Mason, Michael P. Lemaster, Dietland Müller-Schwarze, 2006-11-09 The editors and contributors to this volume should be justifiably proud of their participation in the tenth triennial meeting of the Chemical Signals in Vertebrates International Symposium This meeting was held 27 years after the initial gathering of participants in Saratoga Springs New York from June 6 to 9 1976 Subsequent meetings have been held every three years in Syracuse New York Sarasota Florida Laramie Wyoming Oxford England Philadelphia Pennsylvania Tübingen Germany Ithaca New York and Krakow Poland This tenth anniversary symposium was held from July 29 through August 1 in Corvallis Oregon and was hosted by the Zoology Department and Biology Programs of Oregon State University This book also represents the tenth in a series of books on chemical communication chemical ecology olfactory and vomeronasal research in vertebrate species The species covered in the chapters herein range from fish to mammals including humans By taxonomic breakdown the mammals are the most represented in number of species and chapter contributions However the hosts of the meeting endeavored to have some representative contributions covering all of the major vertebrate taxa As in past years the meeting was well represented with just over 100 participants from 13 different nations Plenary talks focused on some of the non mammalian groups that have tended to be less represented in these symposia Thus we had a very nice overview of comparisons and contrasts of invertebrate chemical communication to vertebrate systems Population Sciences, 1974 The Journal of Animal
