Johnson, Burgee, Architecture Nory Miller, 1979 Philip Johnson, Architect Philip Johnson, 1983 Buildings and projects of Philip Johnson and John Burgee; Johnson Burgee : architecture N. Miller, Philip Johnson/John Burgee Philip Johnson, John Burgee, 1985

The past decade has witnessed the realization of Philip Johnson and John Burgee's most innovative buildings in their eighteen year professional collaboration. No single architectural team has had a stronger impact on the shape of the American skyline. Their impressive output makes an updated volume on their work timely and welcome both to the architectural community and to the interested public. The twenty five projects featured in this volume include high rise office buildings and urban complexes, colleges and cultural centers, commercial and religious monuments. A distinctive and highly varied repertory emerges: the Romanesque ensemble of the New Cleveland PlayHouse, the neoclassical AT&T mansard roofed skyscraper in San Francisco adorned with classical statues, the Dutch gabled Republic Bank Center in Houston, Boston's village of skyscrapers, International Place at Fort Hill, and that major twentieth century space in Garden Grove, California, the steel and glass Crystal Cathedral. The volume also features buildings currently in production and under construction, such as the triple tiered oval shaped office building on Fifty third Street and Third Avenue in New York, a very creative manipulation of the New York City zoning laws and the new home of John Burgee Architects with Philip Johnson. The illustrated main text is supplemented by a chronological index providing in capsule form a history of their major built projects from dust jacket.

Philip Johnson/John Burgee architecture 1979-1985, 1989 Philip Johnson Franz Schulze, 1996-06-15

In this critically acclaimed biography, Franz Schulze probes the private and professional life of one of the most famous architects and architectural critics of the twentieth century. The only child of a wealthy Midwestern family, Philip Johnson was a millionaire by the time he graduated from Harvard, and in 1932 he helped stage the historic International Style exhibition at the Museum of Modern Art. A patron of the arts and a political activist who flirted with the politics of Hitler, Huey Long, and Father Coughlin, he went on to create controversial and historical structures such as the Glass House, the Roofless Church, the AT&T Building, the Crystal Cathedral, and many more. Johnson's personal charms paired with his manipulative ploys like his borrowing of designs shine through in this biography. Drawing on Johnson's correspondence, personal photographs, and speeches, and on interviews with his friends and contemporaries, Schulze fills the biography with fascinating information on the architect's family, travels, friends, and lovers, and his many buildings and spaces themselves. Franz Schulze is a professor of art at Lake Forest College. He is the author of Fantastic Images, Chicago Art since 1945, One Hundred Years of Chicago Architecture, and Mies van der Rohe: A Critical Biography.

Photographs The Man in the Glass House Mark Lamster, 2018-11-06 A smoothly written and fair minded Wall Street Journal biography of architect Philip Johnson a finalist for the National Book Critics Circle Award When Philip Johnson died in 2005 at the age of 98 he was still one of the most recognizable and influential figures on the American cultural landscape The first recipient of the Pritzker Prize and MoMA's founding architectural curator Johnson made his mark as one of America's leading architects with his famous Glass House in New Caanan CT and his controversial AT T Building in NYC among many others in nearly every city in the country but his most natural role was as a consummate power broker and shaper of public opinion Johnson introduced European modernism the sleek glass and steel architecture that now dominates our cities to America and mentored generations of architects designers and artists to follow He defined the era of starchitecture with its flamboyant buildings and celebrity designers who esteemed aesthetics and style above all other concerns But Johnson was also a man of deep paradoxes he was a Nazi sympathizer a designer of synagogues an enfant terrible into his old age a populist and a snob His clients ranged from the Rockefellers to televangelists to Donald Trump Award winning architectural critic and biographer Mark Lamster's The Man in the Glass House lifts the veil on Johnson's controversial and endlessly contradictory life to tell the story of a charming yet deeply flawed man A rollercoaster tale of the perils of wealth privilege and ambition this book probes the dynamics of American culture that made him so powerful and tells the story of the built environment in modern America

Philip Johnson and His Mischief Christian Bjone, The Images Publishing Group, 2014-04-04 In the world of modern art the idea of appropriation or the conscious manipulation of the recognised world of another artist has long been accepted as a legitimate strategy in criticism of the tradition of art authorship challenging the context of viewing contemporary work and the manipulation of omnipresent media images The world of art itself is fair game to be pillaged or mined in the production of new art but there is almost no recognised equivalent aesthetic in architecture Philip Johnson consistently dealt with the concept of appropriation and used it as a design strategy from the very beginning of his illustrious career A singular taste maker Philip Johnson influenced art architecture and design during the second half of the 20th century Philip Johnson and His Mischief Appropriation in Art and Architecture looks at the concept of appropriation and how Johnson's style was influenced first by his mentor Mies van der Rohe and then by post modern ideas and artists This title serves to review Johnson's body of work and show that far from being a weakness his use of appropriation was a major part of his innovative success
