Leigh Hunt's London Journal ,1835      Early Modern English Lives Ronald Bedford,Lloyd Davis,Philippa Kelly,2016-12-05 How did early modern English people write about themselves and how do we listen to their voices four centuries later The authors of Early Modern English Lives Autobiography and Self Representation 1500 1660 argue that identity is depicted through complex subtle and often contradictory social interactions and literary forms Diaries letters daily spiritual reckonings household journals travel journals accounts of warfare incidental meditations on the nature of time death and self reflection as well as life stories themselves these are just some of the texts that allow us to address the social and historical conditions that influenced early modern self writing The texts explored in Early Modern English Lives do not automatically speak to our familiar patterns of introspection and self inquiry Often formal highly metaphorical and emotionally restrained they are very different in both tone and purpose from the autobiographies that crowd bookshelves today Does the lack of emotional description suggest that complex emotions themselves in all the depth and variety that we now understand and expect of them are a relatively modern phenomenon This is one of the questions addressed by Early Modern English Lives The authors bring to our attention the kinds of rhetorical and generic features of early modern self representation that can help us to appreciate people living four hundred years ago as the complicated composite figures they were people whose expression of identity involved an elaborate interplay of roles and discourses and for whom the notion of privacy itself was a wholly different phenomenon      The Review of Reviews ,1890      American monthly review of reviews ,1890      The Review of Reviews Albert Shaw,1890      Relics of the Christ Joe Nickell,2007-03-16 Religious relics defined as either portions of or objects connected with the body of a saint or other holy person are among the most revered items in the world Christian relics such as the Holy Grail the True Cross and the Lance of Longinus are also the source of limitless controversy Such items have incited people to bloodshed and some say have been a source of miracles Relics inspire fear and hope among the faithful and yet are a perennial target for skeptics both secular and Christian To research the authenticity of numerous Christian relics Joe Nickell takes a scientific approach to a field of study all too often tainted by premature conclusions In this volume Nickell investigates such renowned relics as the Shroud of Turin the multiple heads of John the Baptist and the supposedly incorruptible corpses of saints first examining the available evidence and documented history of each item From accounts of true believers to the testimony of the relics alleged fabricators Nickell then presents all sides of each story allowing the evidence to speak for itself For each relic Nickell evaluates both the corroborating and contradictory bodies of evidence and explores whether the relic and attributed miracles can be reconstructed In addition to his own experiments Nickell presents findings from the world's top scientists and historians regarding these controversial objects of reverence and ire explaining the circumstances under which each case was examined Radiocarbon dating and tests to determine the validity of substances such as blood or patina indicate a variety of possible origins Nickell even reveals some of the techniques used to create archaeological forgeries and explains how investigators have exposed them Each relic is a mystery to be solved guided by the maxim extraordinary claims require extraordinary proof Nickell seeks only the truth
