Disability in International Human Rights Law Gauthier de Beco, 2021-08-12 This book examines what international human rights law has gained from the new elements in the UN Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities CRPD It explores how the CRPD is intricately bound up with other international instruments by studying the relationship between the Convention rights and those protected by other human rights treaties as well as the overall objectives of the UN Using a social model lens on disability the book shows how the Convention sheds new light on the very notion of human rights The book provides a theoretical framework which explicitly integrates disability into international human rights law It explains how the CRPD challenges the legal subject by drawing attention to distinct forms of embodiment before introducing the idea of the disabled subject which stems from a recognition that all individuals encounter disability related issues during their lives The book also shows how to apply this theoretical framework to several rights and highlights the consequences for the implementation of human rights treaties as a whole It builds upon the literature of disability studies and legal and political theory as well as drawing upon the recommendations of treaty bodies and reports of UN agencies and disabled people's organisations This book thereby provides an agenda setting analysis for all human rights experts by showing the benefits of placing disabled people at the heart of international human rights law A Companion to Applied Ethics R.
