Methods in Philosophy of Education Frieda Heyting, Dieter Lenzen, John White, 2002-11 This book gives a comprehensive account of methods in philosophy of education it also examines their application of education in the real world It will therefore be of interest to philosophers and educationalists alike Discussions in Science Tim puzzles methodological concerns and issues relating to science beyond the classroom Notes exercises discussion guides and suggestions for follow up activities show you how to deepen your teaching of science and to lead students into a more thorough exploration of scientific concepts methods and implications Stimulating Civic Virtue in Students Frank Th. M. Willems, 2013 During the last two decades interest in children's development of good citizenship has grown among political and educational theorists in the Western world leading to much debate about the concept of citizenship education In this study a specific approach to citizenship education is proposed namely a virtue ethical approach which explicitly links citizenship education to moral education From the virtue ethical point of view citizenship education is aimed at developing the civic virtues attitudes that enable citizens to contribute to society such as justice tolerance and solidarity Since this study focuses on teachers in Catholic education these three virtues have been interpreted from a community centred active perspective which is supposed to fit the normative framework of Catholic schools The central question of this study is to what extent teachers in Dutch Catholic primary education possess the qualities that are needed to stimulate students civic virtues and in what way these qualities can be improved Two kinds of moral pedagogical teacher behaviour are central the teachers modelling behaviour and the way teachers arrange their moral classroom discussions These two kinds of behaviour will be studied as well as their relationship with the teachers moral beliefs Furthermore a teacher course that is designed to stimulate these two kinds of moral pedagogical behaviour is evaluated Frank Willems 1979 Boxmeer lived in Vierlingsbeek a small town in the south eastern part of the Netherlands the first twenty two years of his life After finishing Teacher Training College in 2002 he moved to Nijmegen to study educational sciences at the Radboud University The next year he also started studying philosophy of education at the same university In 2007 he finished both studies Since that time he had been working as a junior researcher at the IKO Institute for Catholic Education which is connected to the Radboud University He was involved in research and he developed tools for schools for the implementation of the insights of his study Currently Frank is working as a product coordinator at Examenadviesburo a small company in Nieuwegein near Utrecht He is involved in the development of exams for all kinds of professions brokers insurers accountants and others Education in a

Post-Metaphysical World Christopher Martin, 2012-11-02 What does it mean to say that a person has been educated This question forms the basis of global education policy debates from the way governments establish funding for national school systems to the way children are treated in the classroom Should there be a common ethical core to such policies What kind of educational process should aboriginal groups in Labrador Canada have a moral right to and should this process be different from what children in New York's boroughs have claim to Should a school based curriculum such as the UK's National Curriculum make well being a central concern or are there other ethical dimensions to be addressed Christopher Martin explores these questions and argues that the best way to consider them is to view education as a matter of public moral understanding He brings together traditions of thought central to philosophy of education such as R S Peters and connects this tradition to the moral philosophy and critical theory of Jurgen Habermas whose theory of Discourse Morality has previously been given little attention in education circles Habermas, Critical Theory and Education Mark Murphy, Ted Fleming, 2010-04-26 This book delivers a definitive contribution to the understanding of Habermas's oeuvre as it applies to education The authors examine Habermas's contribution to pedagogy learning and classroom interaction the relation between education civil society and the state forms of democracy reason and critical thinking and performativity audit cultures and accountability Neuroscience and Education Clarence W. Joldersma, 2016-03-02 This volume makes a philosophical contribution to the application of neuroscience in education It frames neuroscience research in novel ways around educational conceptualizing and practices while also taking a critical look at conceptual problems in neuroeducation and at the economic reasons driving the mind brain education movement It offers alternative approaches for situating neuroscience in educational research and practice including non reductionist models drawing from Dewey and phenomenological philosophers such as Martin Heidegger and Merleau Ponty The volume gathers together an international bevy of leading philosophers of education who are in a unique position to contribute conceptually rich and theoretically framed insight on these new developments The essays form an emerging dialogue to be used within philosophy of education as well as neuroeducation educational psychology teacher education and curriculum studies Education, Science and Truth , Anarchism and Education Judith Suissa, 2006-09-27 This book explores the neglected tradition of anarchist education showing how the ideas associated with this tradition can lend a valuable depth to philosophical debates on education and a motivating vision for teachers and educational policy makers Education, Professionalization and Social Representations Mohamed Chaib, Berth Danermark, Staffan Selander, 2012-01-26 This book scrutinizes how social common sense knowledge is shared transmitted and transformed in different social and psychological contexts particularly in research related to education social work and communication Education, Professionalism and the Quest for Accountability Jane Green, 2011-05-20 Today workers based in institutions designed to serve the public teachers nurses social workers community officers librarians civil servants etc are expected to reorganize their thoughts and practice in accordance with a performance management model of accountability which encourages a rigid bureaucracy one which translates regulation and monitoring procedures into inflexible and obligatory compliance This book shows how and why this performance model may be expected paradoxically to make practices less accountable and in the case of education less educative Moral Responsibility, Authenticity, and Education Ishtiyaque Haji, Stefaan E. Cuypers, 2008-06-25 The primary purpose of this book is to explain the distinction on the one hand between indoctrination and education and on the other between responsibility subverting manipulation and mere causation Both are elucidated by an appeal to common ground an account of when our motivations and other springs of action are truly our own or authentic The book progresses from analyses of the sort of agency that responsibility requires and the authenticity of our motivations together with a discussion of the relevance of these analyses to manipulation and related problems in the philosophy of education to a defense of the thesis that responsibility from love's standpoint is of vital significance and the implications of this thesis for what the authors deem to be legitimate goals of education and other issues in free will. Philosophers and advanced students working in free will, moral psychology and the philosophy of education will find this text to be extremely useful. Systems of Reason and the Politics of Schooling Miguel Pereyra, Barry Franklin, 2014-06-27 The 1980s were an important decade for educational inquiry. It was the moment of the linguistic turn with its emphasis on the role of language as a constructor of reality, a structuring agent for institutions such as schools and a medium for translating knowledge into elements of power for processes of social regulation. Drawing on the work and insights of educational researcher Thomas S. Popkewitz, this book shows how the linguistic turn provided an alternative to both mainline educational research grounded in the ideals of political liberalism and the effort of neo-Marxists to challenge liberal thinking in favor of a scholarship based on class conflict and economic determinism.

Levinas and Education Denise Egea-Kuehne, 2008-04-02 This first book-length collection on Levinas and education gathers new texts written especially for this volume providing an introduction to some of Levinas's major themes of ethics, justice, hope, hospitality, forgiveness and more. Geometry as Objective Science in Elementary School Classrooms Wolff-Michael Roth, 2011-05-09 This study examines the origins of geometry in and out of the intuitively given everyday lifeworlds of children in a second-grade mathematics class. These lifeworlds though pre-geometric are not without model objects that denote and come to anchor geometric idealities that they will understand at later points in their lives. Roth's analyses explain how geometry as an objective science arises anew from the pre-scientific but nevertheless methodic actions of children in a structured world always already shot through with significations. He presents a way of understanding knowing and learning in mathematics that differs from other current approaches using case studies to demonstrate contradictions and incongruences of other theories: Immanuel Kant, Jean Piaget and more recent forms of radical social constructivism, embodiment theories and enactivism and to show how material phenomenology fused with phenomenological sociology provides answers to the problems that these other paradigms do not answer. Higher Education in Liquid Modernity Marvin Oxenham, 2013-10-28 Based in sociologist Zygmunt Bauman's theory of liquid modernity, this volume describes and critiques key aspects and practices of liquid education: education as market-driven consumption, short life span of useful knowledge, overabundance of information through a systematic comparison with ancient Greek paideia and medieval university education producing a sweeping analysis of the history and philosophy of education for the purpose of understanding current higher education, positing a more holistic alternative model in which students are embedded in a learning community that is itself embedded in a larger society. If liquid modernity has left a vacuum where, according to Bauman, the pilot's cabin is empty, this volume argues that no structure is better positioned to fill this vacuum than the university and outlines a renewed vision of social transformation through higher education. Education and the Common Good John Gingell, 2013-11-20 Robin Barrow has been one of the leading philosophers of education for more than forty years. This book is a critical but appreciative examination of his work by some of the leading philosophers of education at work today with responses from Professor Barrow.
