Metanoēō and Metamelei in Greek Literature Until 100 A. D. Effie Freeman Thompson, 1908

The Six Perfections Dale Stuart Wright, 2009. Here is a lucid, accessible, and inspiring guide to the six perfections, Buddhist teachings about six dimensions of human character that require perfecting: generosity, morality, tolerance, energy, meditation, and wisdom. Drawing on the Diamond Sutra, the Large Sutra on Perfect Wisdom, and other essential Mahayana texts, Dale Wright shows how these teachings were understood and practiced in classical Mahayana Buddhism and how they can be adapted to contemporary life in a global society. What would the perfection of generosity look like today, for example? What would it mean to give with neither ulterior motives nor naiveté? Devoting a separate chapter to each of the six perfections, Wright combines sophisticated analysis with real-life applications. Buddhists have always stressed self-cultivation, the uniquely human freedom that opens the possibility of shaping the kind of life we will live and the kind of person we will become. For those interested in ideals of human character and practices of self-cultivation, The Six Perfections offers invaluable guidance.

The Theosophical Path Katherine Augusta Westcott Tingley, 1921

How to be Good Gary Cox, 2020-04-16. What is goodness? Is goodness achievable, and if so, how? If being a good person is a matter of doing the right thing, then what is the right thing to do? Is it acting rationally, promoting happiness, exercising moderation in all things, or respecting the freedom of others, or is it somehow a concoction of all these abilities, wisely adjusted to suit circumstances? In this instructive, entertaining, and often humorous book, Gary Cox, best-selling author of How to Be an Existentialist and How to Be a Philosopher, investigates the phenomenon of goodness and what, if anything, it is to be a good person and a paragon of virtue. Part easygoing exploration of the age-old subject of moral philosophy, part personal development and improvement manual, How to Be Good carefully leads you on a fascinating journey through the often strange and surprising world of ethics, with ideas from Aristotle, Kant,

Nietzsche and a host of other moral philosophers

Intergenerational Justice

Lukas H. Meyer,2017-05-15 The essays selected for this volume show how relations between past current and future generations have become a major subject of philosophical research since the 1970s The relations between people alive today with people who may exist in the future and people now deceased differ from relations between contemporaries and in ways that raise new conceptual logical and substantive questions Among the questions addressed in this volume are what is the status of people now deceased and people who may exist in the future Can the latter be harmed by the actions of people alive today What duties of justice do we have towards people with whom we can neither interact nor co operate and can people who are indirect victims of past injustices legitimately claim compensation Answers to these questions are relevant in a number of policy areas most notably in issues regarding reparations for historical injustice and responding to climate change and its consequences The Moral Psychology of Regret Anna Gotlib,2019-10-21 What kind of an emotion is regret What difference does it make whether how and why we experience it and how does this experience shape our current and future thoughts decisions goals Under what conditions is regret appropriate Is it always one kind of experience or does it vary based on who is doing the regretting and why How is regret different from other backward looking emotions In The Moral Psychology of Regret scholars from several disciplines including philosophy gender studies disability studies law and neuroscience come together to address these and other questions related to this ubiquitous emotion that so many of us seem to dread And while regret has been somewhat under theorized as a subject worthy of serious and careful attention this volume is offered with the intent of expanding the discourse on regret as an emotion of great moral significance that underwrites how we understand ourselves and each other
