Religion and Change in Contemporary Asia Robert F. Spencer, 1971      Religion and Change in Contemporary Asia. Lectures ... Sponsored by the All-University Committee on Asia.) Edited by Robert F. Spencer All-University Committee on Asia (UNITED STATES OF AMERICA), 1971      Proselytizing and the Limits of Religious Pluralism in Contemporary Asia Juliana Finucane, R. Michael Feener, 2013-10-21 This volume brings together a range of critical studies that explore diverse ways in which processes of globalization pose new challenges and offer new opportunities for religious groups to propagate their beliefs in contemporary Asian contexts Proselytizing tests the limits of religious pluralism as it is a practice that exists on the border of tolerance and intolerance The practice of proselytizing presupposes not only that people are freely choosing agents and that religion itself is an issue of individual preference At the same time however it also raises fraught questions about belonging to particular communities and heightens the moral stakes involved in such choices In many contemporary Asian societies questions about the limits of acceptable proselytic behavior have taken on added urgency in the current era of globalization Recognizing this the studies brought together here serve to develop our understandings of current developments as it critically explores the complex ways in which contemporary contexts of religious pluralism in Asia both enable and are threatened by projects of proselytization      The Pursuit & Acquisition of Health & Wealth Gerard Jacobs, 2012-04-30 The pursuit and acquisition of health and wealth are part of the worldview that drives Singaporean society It encompasses a strong work ethic in the pursuit to modernise and be a key player in the global economy Health and wealth are defined in terms of an individual's well being in the sense of good health and a continued assurance of material provision and security This worldview stems from a syncretism with non Christian religions that have reconceptualised themselves with the socioeconomic and political goals of Singaporean society Subsequently they continue to be the authentic expression of the noblest longings of people that have become symbiotic with their daily expressions shaping their history and culture The book attempts to show that while Pentecostal and Charismatic Christianity have played a significant role in the growth of contemporary Singaporean churches it has inadvertently presented a gospel that appeals to the deeply embedded dominant religious secular worldview of its society in the context of health and wealth      Religions and Societies, Asia and the Middle East Carlo Caldarola, 1982 The series Religion and Society RS contributes to the exploration of religions as social systems both in Western and non Western societies in particular it examines religions in their differentiation from and intersection with other cultural systems such as art economy law and politics Due attention is given to paradigmatic case or comparative studies that exhibit a clear theoretical orientation with the empirical and historical data of religion and such aspects of religion as ritual the religious imagination constructions of tradition iconography or media In addition the formation of religious communities their construction of identity and their relation to society and the wider public are key issues of this series      Transitions and Transformations in the History of Religions Reynolds, T.H.M. Ludwig, 2018-11-13

Religious Commodifications in Asia Pattana Kitiarsa, 2007-11-09 This book addresses the growing academic concerns of the market religion convergences in Asia Bringing together a group of leading scholars from Asia Europe Australia and North America it discusses multiple issues regarding religious commodifications and their consequences across Asia's diverse religious traditions Covering key issues in the anthropology and sociology of contemporary Asian religion it draws theoretical implications for the study of religions in the light of the shift of religious institutions from traditional religious beliefs to material prosperity The fact that religions compete with each other in a market of faiths is also at the core of the analysis. The contributions show how ordinary people and religious institutions in Asia adjusted to and negotiated with the penetrative forces of a global market economy into the region's changing religious cultural landscapes. Religious Parties and the Politics of Civil Liberties Vineeta Yadav, 2021-02-12 A data driven explanation of when successful religious parties reduce the civil liberties of their citizens in Muslim majority countries and when they don't. Religious parties are increasingly common across the world. More and more they participate in elections, win legislative seats and join governments, particularly in Muslim majority countries. Since they are often founded on orthodox principles that are inconsistent with liberal democracy, their rise potentially holds consequences for the prospects of liberal democratic values and practices, and this risk has inspired much heated debate. In Religious Parties and the Politics of Civil Liberties, the award winning political science scholar Vineeta Yadav considers a question that has been central to the discussion: Will the success of religious parties lead to declines in the civil liberties of their citizens? Yadav summarizes the popular and academic sides of the conversation and addresses the weaknesses of both by presenting an original empirical analysis of religious parties actual relationship to civil liberties Many believe that if religious parties come to power they will curb civil liberties in order to realize their religious visions Academic research on religious parties however claims that the need to compete in elections incentivizes religious parties to moderate their behaviors and policies including on civil liberties Neither of these assertions has been systematically tested until now With this book Yadav adjudicates the debate using systematic data that covers all Muslim majority countries for a period of almost forty years She highlights the role that religious lobbies play in this issue and goes on to identify the specific conditions under which religious parties do or don't curb civil liberties A sweeping comparative account that combines large N analysis with focused studies of Turkey and Pakistan this book will reshape our understanding of the relationship between religious party strength and the preservation of civil liberties A Need for Religion: Insecurity and Religiosity in the Contemporary World Francesco Molteni, 2020-12-07 In A Need for Religion Insecurity and Religiosity in the Contemporary World Francesco Molteni tries to answer one of the broadest questions for scholars of religion why is religiosity declining in developed countries He does so by inspecting all the different nuances of the insecurity theory which links the feeling of security typical of modern societies with the diminished need for religion as source of reassurance support and predictability In this respect he notes that much of the evidence is far less clear than expected and that secularization processes are at an advanced stage only in a rather small group of worldwide countries
