At the Edges of Vision

Ren?ande Vall, 2017-07-05 In At the Edges of Vision Ren van de Vall re-examines the aesthetics of spectatorship in terms of new media art and visual culture The aesthetic experience of visual art has traditionally been described in terms of the distanced contemplation and critical interpretation of the work's form and representational content Recent developments in installation video and computer art have foregrounded the bodily and affective engagement of the spectator and in retrospect throw into question the model of spectatorial distance for more traditional art forms as well But what does this development entail for art's potential for reflective imaginative and experiential depth Is art still capable of providing a critical counterpoint to the ubiquitous presence of sensational yet short-lived media imagery when it speaks to the senses rather than to the mind In a thorough examination of examples from painting film installation art and interactive video and computer art Van de Vall argues for a tactile and affective conception of reflection linking philosophy and art Looking at a Rembrandt self portrait and navigating through an internet art work have in common that both types of work rely on a playful rhythmically structured sensuous and embodied reflexivity for the articulation of meaning This sensuous dimension of playful reflexivity is just as important in philosophical thought however as the transcendental condition for genuine open-ended reflection Drawing on the philosophy of Merleau-Ponty Levinas Lyotard and Deleuze on the one hand and on new media theory on the other Van de Vall develops a performative phenomenology of aesthetic reflection visually and visual art in order to rethink art's ethical and political relevance in present-day digital media culture

The Social Context of James Ensor's Art Practice Susan M. Canning, 2022-10-20 Vive la Sociale This rousing revolutionary statement written on a bright red banner across the top of James Ensor's Christ's Entry into Brussels in 1889 served as a visual manifesto and call to action by the Belgian artist 1860-1949 one that announced with an insistent public voice the centrality of his art practice to the cultural discourse of modern Belgium This provocative declaration serves as the title for this new study of Ensor's art focusing on its social discourse and the artist's interaction with and at times satirical encounter with his contemporary milieu Rather than the alienated and traumatized Expressionist given preference in modern art history Ensor is presented here as an artist of agency and purpose whose art practice engaged the issues and concerns of middle class Belgian life society and politics and was informed by the values and class race and gendered perspectives of his time Ensor's radical vision and oppositional strategy of resistance self-fashioning and performance remains relevant This book with its timely nuanced reading of the art and career of this often misunderstood artist's artist invites a re-evaluation not only of Ensor's social context and expressive critique but also his unique contribution to modernist art practice
