Commerce and Wireless Computing Systems Geoffrey Elliott, Nigel Phillips, 2004 As content delivery over wireless devices becomes faster and more secure it is thought that mobile commerce m commerce will overtake tethered e commerce as the medium of choice for digital commerce transactions As well as the obvious effect on financial services mobile banking telecommunications and retail and information services such as video delivery of sports results it is also likely to have a profound effect on the way a wide variety of businesses arrange for people to meet and interact This book explores the theory and practice of both the technical and business domains of m commerce particularly wireless networking and mobile commerce applications as well as discussing the what why and how of m commerce The book starts by covering the theoretical underpinning of the subject before going on to put the theory into practice covering the technologies approaches applications and design issues Features Explains the fundamentals of mobile commerce and wireless systems design and implementation Applications oriented showing how good systems design leads to efficient and effective m commerce systems Balances enthusiasm for the technological capabilities with wider social and political implications through discussion of security and ethical issues Tutorial approach with exercises student activities short case studies and technical reports to enhance learning This book is intended for anyone wishing to find out more about the theory and practice of commercially exploiting these exciting and ground breaking new technologies About the authors Geoffrey Elliott is Head of Division for Information Systems at London South Bank University Nigel Phillips worked in the computer industry for 10 years before joining London South Bank University consulting on the application of complexity theory Telecom Management Crash

Course P. J. Louis, 2002 Shows service providers how to efficiently manage their technology advantages and back end operations to survive in this challenging economic climate Challenges of Expanding Internet: E-Commerce, E-Business, and E-Government Matohisa Funabashi, Adam Grzech, 2006-06-08 2 1 E Government e Governance and e Democracy The term Electronic Government e Government as an expression was coined after the example of Electronic

Commerce In spite of being a relatively recent expression e Government designates a field of activity that has been with us for several decades and which has attained a high level of penetration in many countries² What has been observed over the recent years is a shift on the broadness of the e Government concept The ideas inside e Governance and e Democracy are to some extent promising big changes in public administration The demand now is not only simply delivering a service line It is to deliver complex and new services which are all citizen centric Another important demand is related to the improvement of citizen s participation in governmental processes and decisions so that the governments transparency and legitimacy are enforced In order to fulfill these new demands a lot of research has been done over the recent years see Section 3 but many challenges are still to be faced not only in the technological field but also in the political and social aspects

Cross-Media Service Delivery Diomidis Spinellis, 2012-12-06 The digitisation of traditional media formats such as text images video and sound provides us with the ability to store process and transport content in a uniform way This has led the formerly distinct industries of media telecommunications and information technology to converge Cross media publishing and service delivery are important new trends emerging in the content industry landscape Mass media organizations and content providers traditionally targeted content production towards a single delivery channel However recent economic and technological changes in the industry led content providers to extend their brands to cover multiple delivery channels Following the content industry trend to create once and publish everywhere COPE a number of architectures technologies and tools are currently being developed and deployed to facilitate the automatic conversion of content to multiple formats and the creation of innovative multi platform services This new approach enables the seamless access to information over different network infrastructures and client platforms This work aims to bring together a cross disciplinary core of contributors to address the technical and business issues of cross media publishing and service delivery The volume is based on papers presented at the conference on Cross Media Service Delivery CMSD 2003 that took place in Santorini Greece in May 2003 Each contribution was reviewed by at least two reviewers typically three From the 30 papers that were submitted 20 were selected for presentation at the conference Those were further shepherded by programme committee members to be improved according to the review suggestions
