The Democratisation Process in Zanzibar Mohammed Ali Bakari, 2001      War of Words, War of Stones Jonathon Glassman, 2011-02-21 The Swahili coast of Africa is often described as a paragon of transnational culture and racial fluidity Yet during a brief period in the 1960s Zanzibar became deeply divided along racial lines as intellectuals and activists engaged in bitter debates about their nation's future ignited a deadly conflict that spread across the island War of Words War of Stones explores how violently enforced racial boundaries arose from Zanzibar's entangled history Jonathon Glassman challenges explanations that assume racial thinking in the colonial world reflected only Western ideas He shows how Africans crafted competing ways of categorizing race from local tradition and engagement with the Atlantic and Indian Ocean worlds

Zanzibar Was a Country Nathaniel Mathews, 2024-04-09 Zanzibar Was a Country explores the transregional impact of the Zanzibar Revolution of 1964 through the historical memory of its exiles Thousands of former citizens of Zanzibar and their offspring live in Oman and are a significant contemporary example of an Arab community that maintains a living connection to Africa in diaspora These Zanzibaris as they are often known in Oman speak Swahili sustain community originally formed in Africa and continue to remember Zanzibar's history as an independent country Drawing on their life histories their historiography of Zanzibar and the archival traces of their migrations Nathaniel Mathews demonstrates how these exiles were important to nation building and economic development in Oman      Mapambano ya ukombozi Zanzibar B. F. Mrina, W. T. Mattoke, 1980      Race, Revolution, and the Struggle for Human Rights in Zanzibar G. Thomas Burgess, Ali Sultan Issa, Seif Sharif Hamad, 2009 Zanzibar has had the most turbulent postcolonial history of any part of the United Republic of Tanzania yet few sources explain the reasons why The current political impasse in the islands is a contest over the question of whether to revere and sustain the Zanzibari Revolution of 1964 in which thousands of islanders mostly Arab lost their lives It is also about whether Zanzibar's union with the Tanzanian mainland cemented only a few months after the revolution should be strengthened reformed or dissolved Defenders of the revolution claim it was necessary to right a century of wrongs They speak the language of African nationalism and aspire to unify the majority of Zanzibaris through the politics of race Their opponents instead deplore the violence of the revolution espouse the language of human rights and claim the revolution reversed a century of social and economic development They reject the politics of race regarding Islam as a more worthy basis for cultural and political unity From a series of personal interviews conducted over several years Thomas Burgess has produced two highly readable first person narratives in which two nationalists in Africa describe their conflicts achievements failures and tragedies Their life stories represent two opposing arguments for and against the revolution Ali Sultan Issa traveled widely in the 1950s and helped introduce socialism into the islands As a minister in the first revolutionary government he became one of Zanzibar's most controversial figures responsible for some of the government's most radical policies After years of imprisonment he reemerged in the 1990s as one of Zanzibar's most successful hotel entrepreneurs Seif Sharif Hamad came of age during the revolution and became disenchanted with its broken promises and excesses In the 1980s he emerged as a reformist minister seeking to roll back socialism and authoritarian rule After his imprisonment he has ever since served as a leading figure in what has become Tanzania's largest opposition party As Burgess demonstrates in his introduction both memoirs trace Zanzibar's postindependence trajectory and reveal how Zanzibaris continue to dispute their revolutionary heritage and remain divided over issues of memory identity and whether to remain a part of Tanzania The memoirs explain how conflicts in the islands have become issues of national importance in Tanzania testing that state's commitment to democratic pluralism They engage our most basic assumptions about social justice and human rights and shed light on a host of themes key to understanding Zanzibari history that are also of universal relevance including the legacies of slavery and colonialism and the origins of racial violence poverty and underdevelopment They also show how a cosmopolitan island society negotiates cultural influences from Africa the Middle East Asia and Europe

Between Social Skills and Marketable Skills Roman Loimeier, 2009 The present volume is a pioneering study of the development of Islamic traditions of learning in 20th century Zanzibar and the role of Muslim scholars in society and politics based on extensive fieldwork and archival research in Zanzibar 2001-2007 The volume highlights the dynamics of Muslim traditions of reform in pre colonial colonial and post colonial Zanzibar focussing on the contribution of Sufi scholars Qadiriyya Alawiyya as well as Muslim reformers modernists activists and a return to Islamic education It examines several types of Islamic schools Qur'anic schools madaris and Islamic institutes as well as the emergence of the discipline of Islamic Religious Instruction in colonial government schools The volume argues that dynamics of cooperation between religious scholars and the British administration defined both form and content of Islamic education in the colonial period 1890-1963 The revolution of 1964 led to the marginalization of established traditions of Islamic education and encouraged the development of Muslim activist movements which have started to challenge state informed institutions of learning

Between East and South Anna Calori, Anne-Kristin Hartmetz, Bence Kocsev, James Mark, Jan Zofka, 2019-10-21 During the Cold War alternative globalization projects were underway socialist Eastern Europe and left leaning countries in the Third World maintained close economic relations The two worlds traded and exchanged know how and technology This book examines the specific spaces of interaction of these exchanges and discusses the consequences for those projects of globalization undertaken in both world regions

Social Memory, Silenced Voices, and Political Struggle Bissell, William Cunningham, Fouere, Marie-Aude, 2018-05-28 This volume focuses on the cultural memory and mediation of the 1964 Zanzibar revolution analyzing its continuing reverberations in everyday life The revolution constructed new conceptions of community and identity race and cultural belonging as well as instituting different ideals of nationhood citizenship sovereignty As the commemoration of the 50th anniversary of the revolution revealed the official versions of events have shifted significantly over time and the legacy of the uprising is still deeply contested In these debates the question of Zanzibari identity remains very much at stake Who exactly belongs in the islands and what historical processes brought them there What are the boundaries of the nation and who can claim to be an essential part of this imagined and embodied community Political belonging and power are closely intertwined with these issues of identity and history raising intense debates and divisions over precisely where Zanzibar should be situated within the national order of things in a postcolonial and interconnected world Attending to narratives that have been overlooked ignored or relegated to the margins the authors of these essays do not seek to simply define the revolution or to establish its ultimate meaning Instead they seek to explore the continuing echoes and traces of the revolution fifty years on reflected in memories media and monuments Inspired by interdisciplinary perspectives from anthropology history cultural studies and geography these essays foreground critical debates about the revolution often conducted sotto voce and located well off the official stage attending to long silenced questions submerged doubts rumors and secrets or things that cannot be said

Communist Actors in African Decolonial Transitions Helder Adegar Fonseca, Christopher Saunders, Lena Dallywater, 2025-10-06 In the long and protracted process of decolonization in sub Saharan Africa 1957 1994 three key moments in the transitions from colonial white ruled states to independent majority ruled states can be identified 1957 1965 1974 1980 and 1988 1994 These transitional phases of decolonization in sub Saharan Africa the beginnings of the process a crucial turning point in that process and its endings are worthy of reappraisal and invite comparisons of various kinds The existing literature does not consider the roles of communist actors in these transitions from a comparative perspective This is the main focus of this volume which will be an essential work for scholars of African decolonization and will interest anyone concerned with the history of communism and the external activities of the countries of the Soviet bloc and other communist actors

The New Imperial Histories Reader Stephen Howe, 2020-07-24 In recent years imperial history has experienced a newfound vigour dynamism and diversity There has been an explosion of new work in the field which has been driven into even greater prominence by contemporary world events However this resurgence has brought with it disputes between those who are labelled as exponents of a new imperial history and those who can by default be termed old imperial historians This collection not only gathers together some of the most important influential and controversial work which has come to be labelled new imperial history but also presents key examples of innovative recent writing across the broader fields of imperial and colonial studies This book is the perfect companion for any student interested in empires and global history

India Beyond India: Dilemmas of Belonging Elfriede Hermann, Antonie Fuhse, 2018 People's transnational mobilities their activities to build homes in their countries of residence and their connectivities have resulted in multiplicities of belonging to encountered imagined and represented communities operating within various political contexts Migrants and their descendants labor to form and transform relations with their country of origin and of residence People who see their origins in India but are now living elsewhere are a case in point They have been establishing worldwide home places whose growing number and vibrancy invite reconsideration of Indian diasporic communities and contexts in terms of India's beyond India. Issues of belonging in Indian diasporas include questions of membership not only in the nation of previous and present residence and or the nation of origin but also in other communities and networks in political, economic, religious and social realms at local, regional or global levels. Yet belonging and especially simultaneous belonging to various formations is rarely unambiguous. Rather belonging in all its modes may entail dilemmas that arise from inclusions and exclusions. Bearing in mind such processes, the contributors to this volume endeavor to provide answers to the question of what kinds of difficulties members of Indian communities abroad encounter in connection with their identifications with and participation in specific collectivities. The underlying argument of all the essays collected is that members of Indian diasporas develop strategies to cope with the dilemmas they face in connection with their sense of belonging to particular communities while they are subjected to specific power relationships. Thus the volume sheds light on the ways in which dilemmas of belonging are being negotiated in intercultural fields.

Abolitionism and Imperialism in Britain, Africa, and the Atlantic Derek R. Peterson, 2010-01-05. The abolition of the slave trade is normally understood to be the singular achievement of eighteenth century British liberalism. Abolitionism and Imperialism in Britain, Africa and the Atlantic expands both the temporal and the geographic framework in which the history of abolitionism is conceived. Abolitionism was a theater in which a variety of actors—slaves, African rulers, Caribbean planters, working class radicals, British evangelicals, African political entrepreneurs—played a part. The Atlantic was an echo chamber in which abolitionist symbols, ideas and evidence were generated from a variety of vantage points. These essays highlight the range of political and moral projects in which the advocates of abolitionism were engaged and in so doing it joins together geographies that are normally studied in isolation. Where empires are often understood to involve the government of one people over another, Abolitionism and Imperialism shows that British values were formed, debated and remade in the space of empire. Africans were not simply objects of British liberals' benevolence. They played an active role in shaping and extending the values that Britain now regards as part of its national character. This book is therefore a contribution to the larger scholarship about the nature of modern empires. The novel begins with Richard Papen, a bright but troubled young man, arriving at Hampden College. Richard is immediately drawn to the group of students who call themselves the Classics Club. The club is led by Henry Winter, a brilliant and charismatic young man. Henry is obsessed with Greek mythology and philosophy, and he quickly draws Richard into his world. The other members of the Classics Club are equally as fascinating. Bunny Corcoran is a wealthy and spoiled young man who is always looking for a good time. Charles Tavis is a quiet and reserved young man who is deeply in love with Henry. Camilla Macaulay is a beautiful and intelligent young woman who is drawn to the power and danger of the Classics Club. The students are all deeply in love with Morrow, and they are willing to do anything to please him. Morrow is a complex and mysterious figure, and he seems to be manipulating the students for his own purposes. As the students become more involved with Morrow, they begin to commit increasingly dangerous acts. The Secret History is a masterful and suspenseful novel that will keep you guessing until the very end. The novel is a warning tale about the dangers of obsession and the power of evil.
