A History of the World in 12 Maps Jerry Brotton,2013-11-14 A New York Times Bestseller Maps allow the armchair traveler to roam the world the diplomat to argue his points the ruler to administer his country the warrior to plan his campaigns and the propagandist to boost his cause rich and beautiful Wall Street Journal Throughout history maps have been fundamental in shaping our view of the world and our place in it But far from being purely scientific objects maps of the world are unavoidably ideological and subjective intimately bound up with the systems of power and authority of particular times and places Mapmakers do not simply represent the world they construct it out of the ideas of their age In this scintillating book Jerry Brotton examines the significance of 12 maps from the almost mystical representations of ancient history to the satellite derived imagery of today He vividly recreates the environments and circumstances in which each of the maps was made showing how each conveys a highly individual view of the world Brotton shows how each of his maps both influenced and reflected contemporary events and how by considering it in all its nuances and omissions we can better understand the world that produced it Although the way we map our surroundings is more precise than ever before Brotton argues that maps today are no more definitive or objective than they have ever been Readers of this beautifully illustrated and masterfully argued book will never look at a map in quite the same way again A fascinating and panoramic new history of the cartographer s art The Guardian The intellectual background to these images is conveyed with beguiling erudition There is nothing more subversive than a map The Spectator A mesmerizing and beautifully illustrated book The Telegraph      The Atlas of Atlases Philip Parker,2022-09-20 This beautiful book is a lavishly illustrated look at the most important atlases in history and the cartographers who made them Atlases are books that changed the course of history Pored over by rulers explorers and adventures these books were used to build empires wage wars encourage diplomacy and nurture trade Written by Philip Parker an authority on the history of maps this book brings these fascinating artefacts to life offering a unique lavishly illustrated guide to the history of these incredible books and the cartographers behind them All key cartographic works from the last half millennium are covered including The Theatrum Orbis Terrarum considered the world s first atlas and produced in 1570 by the Dutch geographer Abraham Ortelius The 17th century Klencke one of the world s largest books that requires 6 people to carry it The Rand McNally Atlas of 1881 still in print today and a book that turned its makers William H Rand and Andrew McNally into cartographic royalty This beautiful book will engross readers with its detailed visually stunning illustrations and fascinating story of how map making has developed throughout human history      Great Maps Jerry Brotton,2014-09-01 The whole world is mapped out for your viewing pleasure in this captivating compendium ranging from past to present through diverse themes of transport and technology to discoveries and development Covering the classical maps of the ancient world and traveling through time to reach Google Earth in the 21st century this unprecedented history of more than 60 maps opens up our planet as never before Great Maps showcases early Medieval maps like including mappae mundi iconic transport maps such as the London Underground important travel maps including Dr Livingstone's version of Africa maps of natural wonders such as the ocean floor and momentous moments including the marks on the Moon left by the lunar landings There are maps that show the way to heaven depict lands with no sunshine and the mysterious home of the people with no bowels on this mind blowing journey Much more than just geographical data maps are an accurate reflection of the culture and context of different time frames in history British historian Jerry Brotton tells the amazing secret stories behind many of the most significant maps ever unearthed revealing key features and innovative techniques in incredible detail The unique insight into how mapmakers have expressed their world views results in this treasured book that makes a welcome addition to any bookshelf or home library Maps and Politics Jeremy

Black, 2000-09-01 We all rely on the apparent accuracy and objectivity of maps but often do not see the very process of mapping as political Are the power and purpose of maps inherently political Maps and Politics addresses this important question and seeks to emphasize that the apparent objectivity of the map making and map using process cannot be divorced from aspects of the politics of representation Maps have played and continue to play a major role in both international and domestic politics They show how visual geographical representations can be made to reflect and advance political agendas in powerful ways The major developments in this field over the last century are responses both to cartographic progression and to a greater emphasis on graphic imagery in societies affected by politicization democratization and consumer and cultural shifts Jeremy Black asks whether bias free cartography is possible and demonstrates that maps are not straightforward visual texts but contain political and politicizing subtexts that need to be read with care A History of the World in Twelve Maps

Jerry Brotton, 2012-09-06 Jerry Brotton is the presenter of the acclaimed BBC4 series Maps Power Plunder and Possession Here he tells the story of our world through maps Throughout history maps have been fundamental in shaping our view of the world and our place in it But far from being purely scientific objects world maps are unavoidably ideological and subjective intimately bound up with the systems of power and authority of particular times and places Mapmakers do not simply represent the world they construct it out of the ideas of their age In this scintillating book Jerry Brotton examines the significance of 12 maps from the mystical representations of ancient history to the satellite derived imagery of today He vividly recreates the environments and circumstances in which each of the maps was made showing how each conveys a highly individual view of the world whether the Jerusalem centred Christian perspective of the 14th century Hereford Mappa Mundi or the Peters projection of the 1970s which aimed to give due weight to the third world Although the way we map our surroundings is once more changing dramatically Brotton argues that maps today are no more definitive or objective than they have ever been but that they continue to make arguments and propositions about the world and to recreate shape and mediate our view of it Readers of this book will never look at a map in quite the same way again Drawing the Line Mark

S. Monmonier, 1995 Argues that maps can be manipulated to distort the truth and shows how they have been used for propaganda in international affairs political districting and finding toxic dump sites

The Oxford Illustrated History of the World Felipe Fernández-Armesto, 2019 The Oxford Illustrated History of the World is the story of humanity itself from earliest times to the present day and the changes good and bad which have shaped our world

Rediscovering the World Benjamin Hennig, 2012-12-14 We need new maps is the central claim made in this book In a world increasingly influenced by human action and interaction we still rely heavily on mapping techniques that were invented to discover unknown places and explore our physical environment Although the traditional concept of a map is currently being revived in digital environments the underlying mapping approaches are not capable of making the complexity of human environment relationships fully comprehensible Starting from how people can be put on the map in new ways this book outlines the development of a novel technique that stretches a map according to quantitative data such as population The new maps are called gridded cartograms as the method is based on a grid onto which a density equalising cartogram technique is applied The underlying grid ensures the preservation of an accurate geographic reference to the real world It allows the gridded cartograms to be used as basemaps onto which other information can be mapped This applies to any geographic information from the human and physical environment As demonstrated through the examples presented in this book the new maps are not limited to showing population as a defining element for the transformation but can show any quantitative geospatial data such as wealth rainfall or even the environmental conditions of the oceans The new maps also work at various scales from a global perspective down to the scale of urban environments The gridded cartogram technique is proposed as a new global and local map projection that is a viable and versatile alternative to other conventional map projections The maps based on this technique open up a wide range of potential new applications to rediscover the diverse geographies of the world They have the potential to allow us to gain new perspectives through detailed cartographic depictions

The Power of Maps Denis Wood, John Fels, 1992-01-01 This volume ventures into terrain where even the most sophisticated map fails to lead through the mapmaker's bias Denis Wood shows how maps are not impartial reference objects but rather instruments of communication persuasion and power Like paintings they express a point of view By connecting us to a reality that could not exist in the absence of maps a world of property lines and voting rights taxation districts and enterprise zones they embody and project the interests of their creators Sampling the scope of maps available today illustrations include Peter Gould's AIDS map Tom Van Sant's map of the earth U S Geological Survey maps and a child's drawing of the world THE POWER OF MAPS was published in conjunction with an exhibition at the Cooper Hewitt Museum the Smithsonian Institution's National Museum of Design

The Power of Projections Arthur Jay Klinghoffer, 2006-04-30 Why is Europe at the top half of maps and Africa at the bottom Although we are accustomed to that convention it is in fact a politically motivated almost entirely subjective way of depicting a ball spinning in space As The Power of Projections teaches us maps do not portray reality only interpretations of it To begin with they are two dimensional projections of a three dimensional spherical Earth Add to that the fact that every map is made for a purpose and its design tends to reflect that purpose Finally a map is often a psychological projection of the historical political and cultural values of the cartographer or of the nation person or organization for which the map was created In this fascinating book Klinghoffer examines the world perceptions of various civilizations and the ways in which maps have been formulated to serve the agendas of cartographers and their patrons He analyzes the recent decline of sovereignty the spread of globalization the reassertion of ethnic identity and how these trends affect contemporary mapmaking Peters-Atlas ,2002 The Oxford History of the World Felipe Fernández-Armesto,2023-05-10 Histories you can trust Imagine the planet as if from an immense distance of time and space as a galactic observer might see it with the kind of objectivity that we who are enmeshed in our history can t attain The Oxford History of the World encompasses the whole span of human history It brings together some of the world s leading historians under the expert guidance of Felipe Fernandez Armesto to tell the 200 000 year story of our world from the emergence of homo sapiens through to the twenty first century the environmental convulsions the interplay of ideas good and bad the cultural phases and exchanges the collisions and collaborations in politics the successions of states and empires the unlocking of energy the evolutions of economies the contacts conflicts and contagions that have all contributed to making the world we now inhabit Rhumb Lines and Map Wars Mark Monmonier,2010-11-15 In Rhumb Lines and Map Wars Mark Monmonier offers an insightful richly illustrated account of the controversies surrounding Flemish cartographer Gerard Mercator s legacy He takes us back to 1569 when Mercator announced a clever method of portraying the earth on a flat surface creating the first projection to take into account the earth s roundness As Monmonier shows mariners benefited most from Mercator s projection which allowed for easy navigation of the high seas with rhumb lines clear cut routes with a constant compass bearing for true direction But the projection s popularity among nineteenth century sailors led to its overuse often in inappropriate non navigational ways for wall maps world atlases and geopolitical propaganda Because it distorts the proportionate size of countries the Mercator map was criticized for inflating Europe and North America in a promotion of colonialism In 1974 German historian Arno Peters proffered his own map on which countries were ostensibly drawn in true proportion to one another In the ensuing map wars of the 1970s and 1980s these dueling projections vied for public support with varying degrees of success Widely acclaimed for his accessible intelligent books on maps and mapping Monmonier here examines the uses and limitations of one of cartography s most significant innovations With informed skepticism he offers insightful interpretations of why well intentioned clerics and development advocates rallied around the Peters projection which flagrantly distorted the shape of Third World nations why journalists covering the controversy ignored alternative world maps and other key issues and how a few postmodern writers defended the Peters worldview with a self serving overstatement of the power of maps Rhumb Lines and Map Wars is vintage Monmonier historically rich beautifully written and fully engaged with the issues of our time      Maps and History Jeremy Black,2000-01-01 Explores the role development and nature of the atlas and discusses its impact on the presentation of the past      Multiculturalism in the College Curriculum Marilyn Lutzker,1995-03-18 Emphasizing that diversity in the curriculum is as much about a way of thinking as it is about specific information Lutzker presents a compendium of innovative and practical classroom strategies and widely available information resources which will enable faculty to increase the multicultural content of their courses without necessarily making major changes in their accustomed methods of teaching This is a handbook for college faculty in all disciplines who would like to increase the multicultural content of their courses but have been reluctant to do so for a variety of reasons including an already overloaded syllabus a lack of background in the subject uncertainty about student reactions or lack of time to make substantial changes in an existing syllabus Administrators anxious to increase diversity in the curriculum of their institutions but unable to fund large scale curriculum revision projects will also find this volume useful Part I is concerned with classroom strategies and with student research projects Starting with discussions of objectives and priorities the underlying role of critical thinking and the importance of language sensitivity the book then describes specific classroom strategies useful for increasing diversity The subsequent chapters are devoted to discussions of general guidelines for developing student projects with a multicultural perspective innovative alternatives to the traditional term paper and suggestions for multicultural student projects which do not require library research Part I concludes with a discussion of possible student reactions to increased multiculturalism and suggested approaches to those reactions Part II is concerned with information resources which will be useful to instructors and to students Fully annotated lists are provided in a variety of areas including widely available primary sources specialized biographical directories sources for sample syllabi in all disciplines guides to ethnic and foreign press to films and videos and to electronic resources Part II concludes with a discussion designed to increase efficiency in using the library catalog to locate information in multicultural subject areas Appendices provide sample research worksheets a list of small publishers and distributors of multicultural books and an annotated bibliography      Recommended Books in Spanish for Children and Young Adults Isabel Schon,2004 Whether used for the development and support of an existing collection or for the creation of a new collection serving Spanish speaking young readers this outstanding resource is an essential tool Following the same format as the highly praised 1996 1999 edition Schon presents critical annotations for 1300 books published between 2000 and 2004 including reference nonfiction and fiction One section is devoted to publishers series and an appendix lists dealers who carry books in Spanish Includes author title and subject indexes      Regional Oceanography Matthias Tomczak,J. Stuart Godfrey,2013-10-22 Covers the traditional range of topics in regional oceanography An important aspect of work is its novel approach to a description of the features which give each ocean region its character The two core principles are the use of the most modern database for all maps of regional distributions of properties and a discussion of all observed features within a frame of reference developed from ocean dynamics rather than based on the simple geographical approach The ocean s role in climate variability and climate change is described in detail The book also includes an evaluation of all major international research projects such as FGGE IIOE and TOGA The SI system is used throughout The use of modern data and inclusion of the oceanographic literature up to 1992 and early 1993 make it a useful reference text     Mapping Daniel Dorling,David Fairbairn,2013-10-08

Illustrates how maps tell us as much about the people and the powers which create them as about the places they show
Presents historical and contemporary evidence of how the human urge to describe understand and control the world is presented through the medium of mapping together with the individual and environmental constraints of the creator of the map
