Ainsworth, 1994-09 An important account of the Flemish master Petrus Christus focuses on the physical characteristics of his works for the development of his technique and style Petrus Christus Maryan Wynn Ainsworth, Petrus

Albrecht Dürer and the Venetian Renaissance Katherine Crawford Lubert, Albrecht Dürer, 2005-05-30 Publisher Description Charles the Bold and Italy (1467-1477) Richard J. Walsh, 2005-01-01 This is a definitive study of Charles the Bold's diplomatic and military relations with the Italian states taking full account of economic policy The book makes extensive use not only of the great mass of diplomatic correspondence in the archives of Florence Mantua Milan Modena and Venice but also of Charles financial records in the archives of Brussels and Lille The author's mastery of these primary sources is complemented by judicious use of a wide range of secondary material Aspects of Charles the Bold's relations with Italy have been considered in earlier literature but no study has before dealt with them comprehensively at any length This book fills that gap and places Charles reign in its wider European context A Short History of the Renaissance in Northern Europe Malcolm Vale, 2020-04-02 The concept of a Renaissance in the arts in thought and in more general culture North of the Alps often evokes the idea of a cultural transplant which was not indigenous to or rooted in the society from which it emerged Classic definitions of the European Renaissance during the 14th 15th and 16th centuries have seen it as what was in effect an Italian import into the Gothic North Yet there were certainly differences divergences and dichotomies between North and South which have to be addressed Here Malcolm Vale argues for a Northern Renaissance which while cognisant of

Italian developments displayed strong continuities with the indigenous cultures of northern Europe But it also contributed novelties and innovations which often tended to stem from and build upon those continuities A Short History of the Renaissance in Northern Europe while in no way ignoring or diminishing the importance of the Hellenic and Roman legacy seeks other sources and different uses of classical antiquity for a rather different kind of Renaissance if such it was in the North "Women, Manuscripts and Identity in Northern Europe, 1350?550 " JoniM. Hand,2017-07-05 Author Joni M Hand sheds light on the reasons women of the Valois courts from the mid fourteenth to the mid sixteenth century commissioned devotional manuscripts Visually interpreting the non text elements portraits coats of arms and marginalia as well as the texts Hand explores how the manuscripts were used to express the women s religious political and or genealogical concerns This study is arranged thematically according to the method in which the owner is represented Recognizing the considerable influence these women had on the appearance of their books Hand interrogates how the manuscripts became a means of self expression beyond the realm of devotional practice She reveals how noblewomen used their private devotional manuscripts as vehicles for self definition to reflect familial political and social concerns and to preserve the devotional and cultural traditions of their families Drawing on documentation of women s book collections that has been buried within the inventories of their fathers husbands or sons Hand explores how these women contributed to the cultural and spiritual character of the courts and played an integral role in the formation and evolution of the royal libraries in Northern Europe

Animal Sightings Jodi Cranston,2024-10-08 Animal Sightings challenges two common ideas about the depiction of animals in early modern European court art first that the human figure relegated animals to peripheral and often symbolic roles both compositionally and conceptually and second that the representation of animals during this period was predominantly tied to a growing interest in naturalism derived from scientific study and discovery Art historian Jodi Cranston considers the diversity of art representing animals common to that time and place including dogs stags falcons and even insects She discusses how early modern European courts primarily in northern Italy Tyrol Saxony and southern Germany where the preponderance of European courtly activity related to animals occurred acquired and kept living animals sponsored hunts in purpose cultivated forests and fostered trade in animal products The diverse works created by artists associated with those courts reveal an ambivalent and complex view of animals as beings who shared and shaped the world alongside humans Ultimately Animal Sightings explores how early modern artists and viewers thought about human animal interactions how visual representation facilitated and inhibited knowledge about animals and how animals could reveal the limits and possibilities of visual representation It should be of special interest to scholars of early modern studies art history and animal studies Opening Doors Lynn F. Jacobs,2012 A study of Netherlandish triptychs from the early fifteenth century through the early seventeenth century covering works by Jan van Eyck Rogier van der Weyden Hugo van der Goes Hieronymus Bosch and Peter Paul Rubens Explores how the triptych format structures and generates meaning Provided by

be understood only in the context of the intellectual climate of the day Concentrating on landscape painting as the careful depiction of the visible world Bakker's analysis takes in the thought of figures seldom consulted by traditional art historians such as the fifteenth century philosopher Dionysius the Carthusian the sixteenth century religious reformer John Calvin the geographer Abraham Ortelius and the seventeenth century poet Constantijn Huygens Probing their conception of nature as the first Book of God and art as its representation Bakker identifies a world view that has its roots in the traditional Christian perceptions of God and creation Landscape and Religion from Van Eyck to Rembrandt imposes a new layer of interpretation on the richly varied landscapes of the great masters In so doing it adds a new dimension to the insights offered by modern art historical research Further Bakker's explorations of early modern art and literature provide essential background for any student of European intellectual history

The Viewer and the Printed Image in Late Medieval Europe David S.

Areford, 2017-07-05 Structured around in depth and interconnected case studies and driven by a methodology of material contextual and iconographic analysis this book argues that early European single sheet prints in both the north and south are best understood as highly accessible objects shaped and framed by individual viewers Author David Areford offers a synthetic historical narrative of early prints that stresses their unusual material nature as well as their accessibility to a variety of viewers both lay and monastic This volume represents a shift in the study of the early printed image one that mirrors the widespread movement in art history away from issues of production style and the artist toward issues of reception function and the viewer Areford's approach is intensely grounded in the object especially the unacknowledged material complexity of the print as a portable malleable and accessible image that depended on a response that was not only visual but often physical emotional and psychological Recognizing that early prints were not primarily designed for aesthetic appreciation the author analyzes how their meanings stemmed from specific functions involving private devotion protection indulgences the cult of saints pilgrimage exorcism the art of memory and anti Semitic propaganda Although the medium's first century was clearly transitional and experimental Areford explores how its potential to impact viewers in new ways both positive and negative was quickly realized
