Petticoat Pioneers North Island Women Of The Colonial Era:

Petticoat Pioneers; North Island Women of the Colonial Era Miriam Florence Macgregor,1973 Petticoat Pioneers Miriam Florence Macgregor,1973 Petticoat Pioneers : North Island Women of the Colonial Era M. Macgregor,1973 Ngā Mōrehu: The Survivors (2nd Edition) Judith Binney,2013-06-11 For much of women s history memory is the only way of discovering the past Other sources simply do not exist This is true for any history of Maori women in this century All the women in this book have lived through times of acute social disturbance Their voices must be heard Judith Binney 1992 In eight remarkable oral histories NGA MOREHU brings alive the experience of Maori women from in the mid twentieth century Heni Brown Reremoana Koopu Maaka Jones Hei Ariki Algie Heni Sunderland Miria Rua Putiputi Onekawa and Te Akakura Rua talked with Judith Binney and Gillian Chaplin sharing stories and memoires These are the women whose voices must be heard The title the survivors reflects the women s connection with the visionary leader Te Kooti Arikirangi Te Turuki and his followers who adopted the name Nga Morehu during the wars of the 1860s But these women are not only survivors they are also the chosen ones the leaders of their society They speak here of richly diverse lives of arranged marriages and whangai adoption traditions of working in both Maori and Pakeha communities They pay testimony to their strong sense of a shared identity created by religious and community teachings Petticoat Pioneers Barbara Harper,Miriam Macgregor,1980 Brief biographies of 40 women The Origins of an Experimental Society Erik Olssen,2025-04-10 In this major work one of our leading historians offers a new account of the origins of New Zealand how Pakeha settlers a Better Britain While both experiments were first conceived by savants and philosophers they gained ongoing support by lodging in the hearts and minds of the settlers whalers and missionaries mothers and farmers In turn Maori adapted these new ideas to their own ends giving up slavery and inter tribal warfare and adapting the institutions of the colonisers in ways that would re define the experiments This then is an ethnography of tangata Pakeha a people of European descent changed by their encounters with tangata Maori and their land just as Maori were themselves changed and the story of the society they built together Ranging across intellectual and cultural history from the beach at Paihia to the coffee houses of Paris Olssen enables us to understand the origins of New Zealand anew Trial of Strength Shona Riddell,2018-10-01 The world s subantarctic islands circle the lower part of the globe below New Zealand Australia Africa and South America in the Roaring Forties and Furious Fifties latitudes They are filled with unique plants and wildlife constantly buffeted by lashing rain and furious gales and surrounded by a vast powerful ocean New Zealand and Australian subantarctic islands in particular have a rich and fascinating human history from the early 19th century explorers and sealers through to modern day conservation and adventure tourism And yet the subantarctic islands are often called our forgotten islands because so few people know of their existence despite their status since 1998 as World Heritage sites Trial of Strength is a history book filled with compelling photos for a modern audience and one that for the first time includes women

s stories as more than just a footnote. Balanced and engaging, it features classic tales of infamous shipwrecks, lesser known stories of intrepid pioneers, as well as more recent stories of adventure, tourism, conservation, wins and dramatic helicopter rescues. Written by the descendant of two 19th century British colonial settlers who attempted to create a home for their young family in this bleak environment, Trial of Strength will leave you with an appreciation for the tenacity of the human race and the forbidding forces of nature. Te Puna - A New Zealand Mission Station Angela Middleton, 2009-03-01

Evangelical missionary societies have been associated with the processes of colonisation throughout the globe, from India to Africa and into the Pacific. In late 18th century Britain, the Church Missionary Society for Africa and the East (CMS) began its missionary ventures and in the first decade of the 19th century sent three of its members to New South Wales, Australia, and then on to New Zealand, an unknown little explored part of the world. Across the globe, a common material culture travelled with its evangelizing and later colonizing settlers, with artefacts appearing as cultural markers from Cape Town in South Africa to Tasmania in Australia and the even more remote Bay of Islands in New Zealand. After missionization, colonization occurred. Additionally, common themes of interaction with indigenous peoples, household economy, the development of commerce and social and gender relations also played out in these communities. This work is unique in that it provides the first archaeological examination of a New Zealand mission station and as such makes an important contribution to New Zealand historical archaeology and history. It also situates the case study in a global context, making a significant contribution to the international field of mission archaeology. It informs a wider audience about the processes of colonization and culture contact in New Zealand, along with the details of the material culture of the country's first European settlers, providing a point of comparison with other outposts of British colonization. Whare Korero Gavin McLean, 2007

I doubt people of my age would have grown up with such a strong sense of New Zealandness if it hadn't been for Reed Books. Publication by Reed's was a source of great pride. Historian Michael King believed for generations of Kiwis, a raupo on the spine of a book has been as much a part of living in New Zealand as quarter-acre sections, hokey pokey, ice cream or jandals. In this eclectic sampling, historian Gavin McLean blows the dust from New Zealand publishing's greatest backlist to serve up more than 80 selections from the Reed vault. The iconic writers Herbert Guthrie-Smith, Janet Frame, Barry Crump, Denis Glover, Frank Sargeson, Peter Wells, Witi Ihimaera rub shoulders with the forgotten C. R. Allen, F. W. G. Miller, Peter Newton, Ruth Gilbert. There's light relief from Pat Lawlor, Mary Scott, Helen Brown, Bob Jones, and Richard Hadlee, and searing gritty writing from R. A. K. Mason, Mary Findlay, Bill Payne, and David Brown. We look back at tumultuous events, wars, shipwrecks, the 1981 Springbok tour, examine social issues such as juvenile delinquency, bodgies and gangs, explore Maori culture, popular music, and even sample the odd recipe. As Whare Korero shows, Reed is the voice of New Zealand. May the People Live Raeburn Lange, 1999. This is a study of the Young Maori Party led by Peter Buck (Apirana Ngata) and Maui Pomare and its remarkable success in halting the decline of the Maori population and improving Maori health at grass roots level. Racial Crossings Damon Ieremia

Salesa,2011-05-19 Moving away from conventional theories about Victorian attitudes towards race Salesa focuses on an array of equally influential yet seemingly opposite ideas where racial crossing was seen as a means of improvement a way to manage racial conflict or create new societies or even a way to promote the rule of law I Got His Blood on Me

Lawrence Patchett,2012-10-01 The short stories in this collection follow characters that are plucked away from their normal lives to face wildly abnormal situations An old coachman must face the death of his passenger a missionary loses a colleague in the swollen waters of the Turakina River a cranky ghost wreaks havoc on a Kapiti train and a bloodied figure travels through time From a reimagined history to a future where holograms walk the streets these stories traverse time and genre to explore adventurous frontiers in the past present and future Women's History Bronwyn Labrum,1993 A Southern Gentry Stevan Eldred-Grigg,1980 Keeping a Low Profile Brigitte Bönisch-Brednich,2002 This oral history of German immigration to New Zealand is based on extensive field research including 102 life history interviews and in depth study of archival sources and secondary literature Issues of national and individual identity are also addressed A Women's Picture Book Marian Evans,Bridie Lonie,Tilly Lloyd,1988 Strangerland Helena Drysdale,2006 In 1834 when Isabella Campbell was twenty four she left England for India where she met the man that would become her husband Charles Gascoyne Life settled into a routine but there was upheaval ahead on a scale no one could have expected after twenty six years in India Charles decided the family would leave for New Zealand Isabella who was unwell would return to England and rejoin her husband and children later In fact it would be over a year before Isabella was reunited with her family or not as it turned out Arriving in New Zealand Isabella discovered the children s governess had become her husband s lover Charles blamed Isabella for the failure of their marriage a marriage she had not even realized was under threat It was not just Isabella who found herself in crisis however the country itself was in turmoil as British settlers warred with native Maoris For Isabella events came to a head and the public became personal when some of her own relatives were slaughtered New Zealand National Bibliography ,1980 The German Connection James N. Bade,1993 The German connection with New Zealand during the nineteenth century is an important part of New Zealand s heritage but for various reasons it has remained a neglected part of New Zealand history James Bade and his team of contributors seek to redress the balance with this generously illustrated volume which examines not only early German settlement but also the contribution of German and Austrian scientists artists musicians businessmen and missionaries to the New Zealand way of life Historical Journal ,2003
