W. Ratter, 2019-06-07 Human perceptions decision making and pro environmental behaviour are closely connected This Research Topic focuses on bringing together perceptions and behaviour for sustainable coastal and island marine resource use systems Management and governance of large and small scale coastal marine resource use systems function in highly complex social and ecological environments which are culturally embedded economically interest led and politically biased Management processes therefore have to integrate multiple perspectives as well as perception driven standpoints on the individual as well as the decision makers levels Consequently the analysis of perceptions has developed not only as part of philosophy and psychology but also of environmental science anthropology and human geography It encompasses intuitions values attitudes thoughts mind sets place attachments and sense of place All of these influence human behavior and action and are collected or are available within the respective marine resource use system which may support the livelihood of a large part of the local population Management and governance are not only about mediating between resource use conflicts or establishing marine protected areas they deal with people and their ideas and perceptions Understanding the related decision making processes on multiple scales and levels hence means much more than economically assessing the available marine resources or existing threats to the associated system Over the past decade there has been a growing inter and transdisciplinary international community becoming interested in research which integrates perceptions of coastal and inland residents local and regional stakeholder groups as well as resource and environmental managers and decision makers By acknowledging the importance of the individual perspective and interest led personal views it became obvious how valuable and important these sources of information are for coastal research An increase of research effort spent on the link between perceptions and behaviour in marine resource use systems is thus both timely and needed By offering a diversity of inspiring and comprehensive contributions on the link between perceptions and behaviour this Research Topic aspires to critically enlighten the discourse and applicability of such research for finding sustainable locally identified anchored and integrated marine resource use pathways Marxism and Phenomenology Bryan Smyth, Richard Westerman, 2021-10-25 Marxism and Phenomenology The Dialectical Horizons of Critique edited by Bryan Smyth and Richard Westerman offers new perspectives on the possibility of a philosophical outlook that combines Marxism and phenomenology in the critique of capitalism Although Marxism s focus on impersonal social structures and phenomenology s concern with lived experience can make these traditions appear conceptually incompatible the potential critical force of a theoretical reconciliation inspired several attempts in the twentieth century to articulate a phenomenological Marxism Updating and extending this approach the contributors to this volume identify and develop new and previously overlooked connections between the traditions offering new perspectives on Marx Husserl and Heidegger exploring themes such as alienation reification and ecology and examining the intersection of Marxism and phenomenology in figures such as Michel Henry Walter Benjamin and Frantz Fanon These glimpses of a productive reconciliation of the respective strengths of phenomenology and Marxism offer promising possibilities for illuminating and resolving the increasingly intense social crises of capitalism in the twenty first century

Neurophenomenology and Its Applications to Psychology Susan Gordon, 2013-06-12 This book explores the meaning and import of neurophenomenology and the philosophy of enactive or embodied cognition for psychology It introduces the psychologist to an experiential non reductive holistic theoretical and practical framework that integrates the approaches of natural and human science to consciousness In integrating phenomenology with cognitive science neurophenomenology provides a bridge between the natural and human sciences that opens an interdisciplinary dialogue on the nature of awareness the ontological primacy of experience the perception of the observer and the mind brain relationship which will shape the future of psychological theory research and practice

Race as Phenomena Emily S. Lee, 2019-07-09 This book introduces and explores the relation between race and phenomenology through varied African American Latina Asian American and White American perspectives Phenomenology is best known as a descriptive endeavor to more accurately describe our experience of the world These essays examine the ways in which this relation between phenomenology and race acts as a site of racial meaning Philosophy of race conceives race as a social construction Because of the sedimentation of racial meaning into the very structure and practices of society the socially constructed meanings about features of the body are mistaken as natural Hence although racial meaning is theoretically recognized as socially constructed during an every day interaction racial meaning is mistaken as inevitable and natural Ideal for advanced students in phenomenology and philosophy of race this volume pushes the phenomenological method forward by exploring its relation to questions within philosophy of race

Seeing Style Niklas Woermann, 2024-12-23 How do social practices prefigure experiences and how does embodied experience organize the performance of practices This book suggests that the classic concept of style offers a fresh answer to the question how doings and sayings are linked into practice bundles Based on a rich ethnographic study of the visual practices of the German speaking freeskiing subculture this work develops a theory of phenopractices or embodied cultural practices dedicated to apprehending and expressing style Focusing on the visual dimension it extends the thought of Garfinkel and Schatzki using recent insights from science and technology studies and research at the intersection of neuroscience and phenomenology This offers a new perspective on fundamental practice theoretical questions about the nature of practice elements social order in the context of rules and regularity or action and practical intelligibility Each chapter discusses and develops foundational concepts such as time space action emotion or perception based on an analysis of freeskiing practices such as planning a route in the backcountry testing a new ski model or judging freestyle contests The central argument is that cultural styles of conduct are not only symbolic structures but a functional resource which organizes situational intelligibility and thus enables social order based on aligned and managed embodied routines Because the stabilization dissemination and evolution of such styles happens via different media practice change is primarily influenced by media rather than symbolic rational or functional needs or ends A rich ethnography and provocative theoretical argument of interest to anyone working on contemporary practice thought advancing phenomenology the sociology of vision lifestyle sports media or practice evolution Whitaker's Books in Print ,1998 Phenomenological Inquiry ,1996 Feeling Together and Caring with One Another Héctor Andrés Sánchez Guerrero,2016-07-07 This book examines the human ability to participate in moments of joint feeling It presents an answer to the question concerning the nature of our faculty to share in what might be called episodes of collective affective intentionality The proposal develops the claim that our capacity to participate in such episodes is grounded in an ability central to our human condition our capacity to care with one another about certain things The author provides a phenomenologically adequate account of collective affective intentionality that takes seriously the idea that feelings are at the core of our emotional relation to the world He details a form of group emotional orientation that relies on the fact that the participating individuals have come to share a number of concerns Readers will learn that at the heart of a collective affective intentional episode one does not merely find a set of shared concerns but also a particular mode of caring In the end the argument presented in this monograph makes plausible the idea that the emotions through which humans participate in moments of affective intentional community express our nature In addition it shows that the debate on collective affective intentionality also permits us to better understand the relationship between two conflicting philosophical pictures of ourselves the idea that we are essentially social beings and the claim that we are creatures for whom our personal existence is an issue Thus aiming at an elucidation of the nature of our ability to feel together the book offers a detailed account of what it is to situationally express our human nature by caring about something in a properly joint manner
