accompaniment to Marshall's first solo show in five years the artist presents a multi media range of new work that demonstrates the evolution of his ideas and his ongoing commitment to issues of construction and interpretation of meaning. The body of work Marshall is developing for the book and exhibition centers on the idea of ambiguity surrounding the representation of African Americans in our culture. Stemming in part from the Rythm Mastr comic strip project first developed for the 2000 Carnegie International exhibition the monumental paintings in this new body of work portray figures in the urban landscape of the South Side of Chicago inspired by the tradition of old master paintings especially the townscapes of Canaletto. Marshall is also creating several photographic series depicting urban settings along with a group of figurative works based on African tribal sculptures.

HairStories, 2003. The cultural significance of black hair is reflected in all aspects of contemporary American culture from popular music and hip hop fashion to Hollywood films and professional sports. HairStories explores the history, style, and meaning of black hair as seen through the eyes of three generations of major African American artists. Inspired by the Urban Bush Women's performance HairStories the exhibition showcases more than 60 works by 27 artists and spans nearly a century of visual art, pop culture, music, and literature. HairStories considers hair as a reflection of history, identity, and race relations in America from the days of segregation to today. The exhibition is organized around four themes: the syndrome of good hair vs. bad hair, the importance of the barbershop and beauty salon as a center of the African American community, the social and political symbolism of hairstyles, and hair as an expression of individuality.
