Recovering the Orient Andrew Gerstle, Anthony Milner, 2024-11-01 Much recent writing about Asian societies and Asian Histories adopts a homogenising vision of humanity It views the definition of cultural difference as an Orientalist project serving colonial or neo colonial purposes This unusual collection of essays written by leading specialists in a range of disciplines re appraises and expands the Orientalism debate Several authors examine the ways in which the Asian other acts as a creative stimulus for the European artist composer and playwright The work of Monet Debussy and Brecht for instance is explored to suggest a subtle and complex circulation of idea between the Orient and the West Other essays investigate the scholar's own encounter with the exotic in particular they ask to what extent Western concepts and categories can be used in the analysis of Asian societies and cultures Among the concepts considered are space in Chinese art landscape high art low art and opera in Indonesia and tragedy the book concert music and subjectivity in Japan Furthermore the implications of orality and literacy are examined in the case of Malay society Like discredited orientalists the authors of this volume are in most cases based in the West in universities in Europe United States and Australia but their investigations are not grounded in confident assumptions about Western power and civilisation Recovering the Orient probes the Asian other at a time of conceptual uncertainty when foundational tenets of Western civilisation have come under question

The Art of Copying Art Penelope Jackson, 2022-08-26 This book is a study of the history role and significance of copying art Copies have enjoyed a different status from authentic artworks and though often acknowledged very rarely have they been considered collectively as a genre in their own right This volume showcases a variety of examples from copies of famous artworks made and used as props in movies to those made innocently by student artists as part of their training Examining the motivations for making copies and reflecting on the reception of copies is central to this book Copies have historically filled voids in collections where some sadly languish and have become a curatorial burden In other cases having a copy assists in conservation projects and fills the place of a lost work Ultimately by interrogating a copy s role and intent we might ask ourselves if viewing a copy changes our experience and perception of an artwork A Catalogue of the Mammalia in the Museum of the Hon. Timothy,2025-04-15 In the contemporary world of guaranteed change shopping remains a constant in the tourism experience even though its forms measures functions and manifestations are continuously evolving This book offers traditional perspectives on shopping and tourism and updates current thinking in relation to experiences and internal and external forces that affect retail change and shopping behaviour It also examines how technology and changes in travel create new retail spaces virtual spaces and retailscapes in tourism contexts The volume provides a global perspective with empirical examples being utilised from many parts of the world in a series of conceptually driven chapters on current issues opportunities challenges and paradigms in the relationship between shopping and tourism

British Naturalists in Qing China Fa-ti FAN,Fa-ti Fan,2009-06-30 In the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries Western scientific interest in China focused primarily on natural history Prominent scholars in Europe as well as Westerners in China including missionaries merchants consular officers and visiting plant hunters eagerly investigated the flora and fauna of China Yet despite the importance and extent of this scientific activity it has been entirely neglected by historians of science This book is the first comprehensive study on this topic In a series of vivid chapters Fa ti Fan examines the research of British naturalists in China in relation to the history of natural history of empire and of Sino Western relations The author gives a panoramic view of how the British naturalists and the Chinese explored studied and represented China s natural world in the social and cultural environment of Qing China Using the example of British naturalists in China the author argues for reinterpreting the history of natural history by including neglected historical actors intellectual traditions and cultural practices His approach moves beyond viewing the history of science and empire within European history and considers the exchange of ideas aesthetic tastes material culture and plants and animals in local and global contexts This compelling book provides an innovative framework for understanding the formation of scientific practice and knowledge in cultural encounters Table of Contents Acknowledgments Introduction I The Port 1 Natural History in a Chinese Entrep t 2 Art Commerce and Natural History II The Land 3 Science and Informal Empire 4 Sinology and Natural History 5 Travel and

Fieldwork in the Interior Epilogue Appendix Selected Biographical Notes Abbreviations Notes Index Fa ti Fan s study of the encounter between the British culture of the naturalist and the Chinese culture of the Qing is both a delight and a revelation The topic has scarcely been addressed by historians of science and this work fills important gaps in our knowledge of British scientific practice in a noncolonial context and of Chinese reactions to Western science in the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries In addition to the culture of Victorian naturalists and Sinology Fan shows an admirable grasp of visual representation in science Chinese taxonomic schemes Chinese export art British imperial scholarship and journeys of exploration His treatment of the China trade and descriptions of Chinese markets and nurseries are especially welcome I learned a great deal and I strongly recommend this book Philip Rehbock author of Philosophical Naturalists Themes in Early Nineteenth Century British Biology By focusing on the experiences of British naturalists in China during a time when it was gradually being opened up to foreign influences Fan makes at least two important contributions to history of science He gives us an authoritative study of British naturalists in China as far as I know the only one of its kind and he forces us to rethink some of our categories for doing history of science including how we conceive of the relationship between science and imperialism and between Western naturalist and native Fan s scholarship is meticulous with careful attention to detail and his prose is clear controlled and succinct Bernard Lightman editor of Victorian Science in Context
