

sails. Since European first contact, Oceanic rafts have been known to undertake only short voyages; for example, the Mangarevans travelled up to 30 miles in a single voyage (Hornell, 1970, 77).

Logboats Basic un-extended logboats are scarcely noted in Oceanic accounts, but this may be because they were overlooked. Thompson (Best, 1925, 260) recorded recent use on the rivers of New Guinea, where they were poled, and Best (1925, 5, 6, 22) claimed that simple logboats (moaka tino) were much used 'in former times' in calm New Zealand waters.

Planked craft

Although some early reports mention 'keels', it seems probable that, at first contact, the central longitudinal member of Oceanic planked boats was of logboat hull form. See, for example, Banks' drawing of a pahi of the Society Islands (Greenhill, 1976, 28, fig.1). Thus they were to some degree 'extended logboats', the logboat base being less prominent in some than others.

There were differences in detail, but the following general building method seems to hold:

- 1 Tree felled by stone axes and head burned off.
- 2 Top side of log levelled to intended sheerline and required outline sketched on it.
- 3 Log hollowed using fire and adze; boat shaped externally at bow and stern.
- 4 When log was of insufficient length, other logs were hollowed and joined end to end by sewing with roots or fibre using butted or more complex joints. Similarly, where height at ends was insufficient, bow and stern pieces were added.
- 5 Other logs were split, using fire and hardwood wedges; the resultant planks were finished with an adze.
- 6 Washstrakes fitted to obtain the height required. They were sewn edge-to-edge, sometimes through holes in the planking, sometimes through projections from the planking, holes being made by pointed bones. Where there was more than one plank per strake, they were butted. Seams were filled with, for example, dried rushes, and were sometimes rein-

Rafts, Boats and Ships from Prehistoric Times to the Medieval Era Sean McGrail, National Maritime Museum (Great Britain), 1981      The Ship: Rafts, boats and ships; from prehistoric times to the Medieval Era, 1980      The Troubadour's Song David Boyle, 2009-05-26 On his long journey home from the Third Crusade Richard the Lionheart one of history's most powerful and romantic figures was shipwrecked near Venice in the Adriatic Sea. Forced to make his way home by land through enemy countries he traveled in disguise but was eventually captured by Duke Leopold V of Austria who in turn conveyed him to Henry VI the Holy Roman Emperor. Henry demanded a majestic ransom and Richard's mother Eleanor of Aquitaine raised the historic sum one quarter of the entire wealth of England and Richard was returned. But a peculiar legend followed him that a troubadour named Blondel a friend of Richard's had journeyed across Europe singing a song he knew Richard would recognize in order to discover his secret place of imprisonment. David Boyle recreates the drama of the Third Crusade and the dynamic power politics and personalities of the late 12th century in Europe as well as the growing fascination with romance and chivalry embodied in the troubadour culture. An evocation of a pivotal era. The Troubadour's Song is narrative history at its finest.
