Meyer, 2008-12-18 The Cristero movement is an essential part of the Mexican Revolution When in 1926 relations between Church and state old enemies and old partners eventually broke down when the churches closed and the liturgy was suspended Rome Washington and Mexico without ever losing their heads embarked upon a long game of chess These years were crucial because they saw the setting up of the contemporary political system The state established its omnipotence supported by a bureaucratic apparatus and a strong privileged class Just at the moment when the state thought that it was finally supreme at the moment at which it decided to take control of the Church the Cristero movement arose a spontaneous mass movement particularly of peasants unique in its spread its duration and its popular character For obvious reasons the existing literature has both denied its reality and slandered it Latin America's Radical Left Aldo Marchesi, 2018 This

Although generally ignored in recent revolution centered versions of the Latin American independence processes their story is an essential part of the history of the period In Indian and Slave Royalists in the Age of Revolution Marcela Echeverri draws a picture of the royalist region of Popayán modern day Colombia that reveals deep chronological layers and multiple social and spatial textures She uses royalism as a lens to rethink the temporal spatial and conceptual boundaries that conventionally structure historical narratives about the Age of Revolution Looking at royalism and liberal reform in the northern Andes she suggests that profound changes took place within the royalist territories These emerged as a result of the negotiation of the rights of local people Indians and slaves with the changing monarchical regime The Struggle for
