Reinventing Aurobindo Ghose Bidyut Chakrabarty,2025-06-30 Aurobindo Ghose s ideological vision challenges traditional interpretations that divide his thought into distinct political and spiritual phases The common belief that his engagement in the nationalist movement 1893 1910 gave way to a retreat into spirituality in Pondicherry oversimplifies the complexity of his intellectual evolution This division often found in historiography suggests a shift from nationalism to spirituality but fails to recognise the underlying continuity in Aurobindo s ideas A closer examination reveals a seamless development that transcends such a simplistic bifurcation Aurobindo's nationalism was not solely political it was deeply connected to his reverence for India's ancient intellectual traditions He opposed the Westernisation of India seeing it as a force that disconnected Indians from their cultural heritage The blind imitation of Western values in his view betrayed India's spiritual and philosophical legacy This commitment to intellectual revival was evident throughout his early career during which he sought to navigate the colonial system even attempting to secure a position within the British administration Ultimately Aurobindo rejected this path and aligned himself with the nationalist movement Alongside leaders like Lal Bal and Pal he redefined Indian nationalism advocating for direct resistance to colonial rule and championing mass mobilisation that included all castes religions and genders His vision was not a transition from politics to spirituality but an integrated approach where nationalism and spirituality were inextricably linked in the pursuit of India's freedom and cultural renaissance historically philosophically and ethically If translation never replicates a source exactly what does it mean to communicate some elements and not others What or who determines what is translatable or what can or cannot be recontextualized What linguistic political cultural or historical factors condition such determinations Central to these questions is the way translation negotiates with and inscribes asymmetries among languages and cultures operations that are inevitably ethical and political as well as linguistic This book explores how approaching questions of translatability and untranslatability through premodern texts and languages can inform broader interdisciplinary conversations about translation as a concept and a practice Working with case studies drawn from the francophone cultures of Flanders England and northern France it explores how medieval texts challenge modern definitions of language text and translation and in so doing how such texts can open sites of variance and non identity within what later became the hegemonic global languages we know today
