

Relational Epistemologies for a Living Planet

How do we go about arriving at “truths”, together? Not “timeless” truths, but useful truths, situated ones, something that helps this group, this organization, this community, find its own way forward? As a practitioner of group facilitation, I have developed certain practical knowledge about this; as a theorist and researcher-in-training, I have begun to explore long-standing questions about how our conventional cognitive habits might create difficulties for this work. In this essay, I will be exploring a variety of academic theorists who question our ingrained cultural assumptions about argumentation, while also pointing to some useful alternatives.

Forty years ago, in Metaphors We Live By, cognitive linguist George Lakoff and philosopher Mark Johnson invited us to become more conscious of our cultural patterns by observing how arguments, one aspect of our society’s search for truth, are organized through the metaphor of “war” (he “attacked” my position, she “defended” her thesis):

ARGUMENT is partially structured, understood, performed, and talked about in terms of WAR. [...] The language of argument is not poetic, fanciful, or rhetorical; it is literal. We talk about arguments that way because we conceive of them that way – and we act according to the way we conceive things. (1980, p. 5)¹

Lakoff and Johnson point out that even “rational argument”, the specialized subset of argument that prevails in the worlds of academia, law, and diplomacy, is still structured by war. Ostensibly restricted to stating premises, citing evidence, and drawing logical conclusions, “there is still a position to be established and defended, you can win or lose, you have an opponent whose position you attack and destroy and whose argument you try to shoot down” (p. 64). Their examples show how there is often present, in a subtle form, “the ‘irrational’ and ‘unfair’ tactics that rational arguments in their ideal form are supposed to transcend” (p. 65).

On the whole, academic culture as a whole still lacks a coherent alternative to the culture of argumentation. Here is the experience of AnaLouise Keating, multicultural women’s and gender studies professor:

¹ Lakoff and Johnson’s work on the metaphorical foundations of language was part of their invitation to move beyond the “myth of objectivism” and the “myth of subjectivism” to “the experientialist alternative” where “understanding emerges from interaction” (1980, p. 230).

Relational Epistemologies:

Decentering Epistemologies and Challenging Privilege Sophie Bourgault, Maggie FitzGerald, Fiona Robinson, 2024-09-13 Care ethics first emerged as an attempt to decenter ethics feminist scholars like Carol Gilligan argued that women's moral experiences were not reflected in the dominant masculinist approaches to ethics which were centered on a rational disembodied atomistic moral subject Care ethics challenged this model by positing ethics as relational contextualized embodied and realized through practices rather than principles Over the past decades many care ethics scholars have sought to further this project by considering care politically and epistemologically in relation to various intersecting hierarchies of power and knowledge This book advances this project by discussing the ways care ethics contributes to the decentering of dominant epistemologies and to the challenging of privilege and by considering how to decenter care ethics itself via an encounter with non Western philosophical traditions and alternative epistemologies Written by scholars from different countries disciplines and intellectual traditions the volume offers original care ethics contributions on epistemic injustice privileged irresponsibility ecofeminism settler colonialism social movements such as BLM and various racialized and gendered inequities tied to care work

Theory and Practice of Dialogical Community Development

Peter Westoby, Gerard Dowling, 2013-07-18 This book proposes that community development has been increasingly influenced and co opted by a modernist soulless rational philosophy reducing it to a shallow technique for solving community problems In contrast this dialogical approach re maps the ground of community development practice within a frame of ideas such as dialogue hospitality and depth For the first time community development practitioners are provided with an accessible understanding of dialogue and its relevance to their practice exploring the contributions of internationally significant thinkers such as P Freire M Buber D Bohm and H G Gadamer J Derrida G Esteva and R Sennett What makes the book distinctive is that first it identifies a dialogical tradition of community development and considers how such a tradition shapes practice within contemporary contexts and concerns economic social political cultural and ecological Second the book contrasts such an approach with technical and instrumental approaches to development that fail to take complex systems seriously Third the approach links theory to practice through a combination of storytelling and theory reflection ensuring that readers are drawn into a practice theory that they feel increasingly confident has been tried and tested in the world over the past 25 years What Is Structural Injustice? Jude Browne, Maeve McKeown, 2024 What is Structural Injustice is the first edited collection to bring together the voices of leading structural injustice scholars to provide an overview of this profoundly important concept The volume features specially selected original and essential works on structural injustice providing a range of disciplinary ontological and epistemological perspectives on what structural injustice is and includes feminist and post colonial theories to interrogate how structural injustice exacerbates and reproduces existing inequalities and relations of power This is an open access title available under the terms of a CC BY NC ND 4 0 International licence It is free to read at Oxford Scholarship Online and offered as a free PDF download from OUP and selected open access locations

Searching for the Way Jana Rošker, 2008 The search for knowledge has been the driving force behind mankind's existence since the dawn of civilization and different cultures have developed their own theories of knowledge Searching for the Way Theory of Knowledge in Premodern and Modern China deals with the analyses and interpretations of modern Chinese philosophical discourses especially those concerning theories of knowledge The author looks at how contemporary Chinese philosophy is awakening from a long slumber and substantiates the hypothesis that this new awakening is fully prepared for fruitful confrontations with the new challenges presented by a globalized world The study of 20th century Chinese philosophy has not been the subject of any extensive and systematic discussion in neither the West in general nor in Western Sinology in particular Hence this book will be of immense interest to those who are interested in the emerging fields of comparative philosophy Chinese studies and theology The Routledge Handbook of Research Methods in the Study of Indigenous Religions Afe Adogame, Graham Harvey, 2025-03-31 Exciting developments in research among with and by Indigenous scholars and communities are enriching a wide range of disciplines methodologies and trans disciplinary conversations This growing field offers important insights and provocations about methods and approaches Key issues such as relationality decolonisation research ethics pedagogy and collaboration necessarily require improvements both in scholarly description and in scholarly practice Similarly critical themes for Indigenous people intersect strongly both with recent scholarly turns such as embodiment gender performance place ontology and materiality The Routledge Handbook of Research Methods in the Study of Indigenous Religions reflects on appropriate approaches and methods with over 28 chapters by a team of international contributors The Handbook is divided into three parts Core themes and critical issues in research and debate about Indigenous Religions Disciplines and methods focusing on ways in which researchers gain and share understanding about Indigenous religions Recent scholarship about broad regions of the world Within these sections central issues debates and problems are examined including cosmology diaspora bodies and materiality witchcraft and divination ritual studies ethnography and fieldwork heritage studies ecology feminist methodologies decolonial methods and Indigenist methods research ethics activism health and peoplehood kinship and relations The Routledge Handbook of
