New Means of Financing International Needs Eleanor B. Steinberg, Joseph A. Yager, Gerard Marion Brannon, 1978

Reforming the United Nations: New Initiatives and Past Efforts Joachim Müller, This three volume set describes and brings together 50 key reform proposals originating inside and outside the United Nations The documentation contained in this publication touches upon all aspects of the United Nations and covers the full spectrum of proposals and initiatives It is hoped that the information provided will assist those involved in current efforts in reassessing and reshaping the Organization and will serve as a useful reference set for policy makers researchers and the interested public Finance And Development Michael DaCosta, 2019-03-04 Although commercial banks have played an increasingly important role in providing capital to developing nations many analysts argue that private financing poses risks both to borrowing nations and the stability of the international economic system In response Mr DaCosta demonstrates that developing nations that adopt appropriate policies can gain substantially by drawing on private sources of capital His analysis indicates that many criticisms of the role of commercial banks are unfounded and that debt problems in LDCs typically are related to inadequate reserve and external debt management policies in the borrowing countries themselves Emphasizing that economic growth in LDCs often is constrained by balance of payment deficits Mr DaCosta shows that nations relying on private capital frequently experience higher than average growth rates and argues that the advantages of unconditional or untied aid generally outweigh the constraints imposed by the multilateral aid agencies In conclusion he outlines specific policies developing nations can adopt to reduce financial risk and turning to the needs of the poorest of the LDCs examines a variety of proposals aimed at increasing the flow of concessional assistance to those countries that cannot qualify for commercial bank funds

Science And Technology In A Changing International Order Volker Rittberger, 2019-06-21 As part of its contribution to the 1979 United Nations Conference on Science and Technology for Development IUNCSTD the United Nations Institute for Training and Research UNITAR organized an informal research group to assess various aspects of applying science and technology to development through the United Nations system This research group was constituted in early 1978 at the initiative of Dr Robert S Jordan former Director of Research at UNITAR and was headed by Professor Volker Rittberger a UNITAR Special Fellow One of the activities of this group has been the production of a series of working papers on science and technology These papers seek to provide preliminary analyses rather than definitive conclusions Their purpose is to facilitate the access of others to the ongoing work of the group and to stimulate critical comments and reactions leading to further improvement of this work FY 1981 Foreign Assistance Legislation United States.
