New Pacific Community U S Strategic Options In Asia:

The New Pacific Community Martin L Lasater, 2019-06-26 As the political and economic landscape in the Asian Pacific continues to shift the United States must re evaluate its strategy toward the region In his book Martin Lasater explores U S interests in Asia considering strategies for attaining U S goals in the post containment era Citing numerous strategic options for the United States Lasater recommends a strategy of integration as being best suited for the region through the end of the century

Institutional Balancing in the Asia Pacific Kai He, 2009 This book examines the strategic interactions among China the United States Japan and Southeast Asian States in the context of China s rise and globalization after the cold war Engaging the mainstream theoretical debates in international relations the author introduces a new theoretical framework institutional realism to explain the institutionalization of world politics in the Asia Pacific after the cold war Institutional realism suggests that deepening economic interdependence creates a condition under which states are more likely to conduct a new balancing strategy institutional balancing i e countering pressures or threats through initiating utilizing and dominating multilateral institutions to pursue security under anarchy To test the validity of institutional realism Kai He examines the foreign policies of the U S Japan the ASEAN states and China toward four major multilateral institutions Asia Pacific Economic Cooperation APEC the Association of Southeast Asian Nations ASEAN Regional Forum ARF ASEAN Plus Three APT and East Asian Summit EAS Challenging the popular pessimistic view regarding China s rise the book concludes that economic interdependence and structural constraints may well soften the dragon s teeth China s rise does not mean a dark future for the region Institutional Balancing in the Asia Pacific will be of great interest to policy makers and scholars of Asian security international relations Chinese foreign policy and U S foreign policy

Twenty-First Century World Order and the Asia Pacific J. Hsiung, 2001-08-10 After examining the global system s political volatility at the dawn of the new millenium the book looks at how some of the identifiable system wide trends e g globalization democratization fragmentation etc may find repercussions in the Asia Pacific The book also addresses the question of comprehensive security in comparison with other regions in a wide range of areas subsuming economic security geoeconomics environmental security ecopolitics and human security In addition the book recognizes the idiosyncrasies of the region such as the defensiveness of most Asian governments toward the protection of their financial markets against external forces following the regional financial crisis of the late 1990s

Pacific Power Paradox Van Jackson, 2023-01-10 A new history of Asian peace since 1979 that considers America s paradoxical role After more than a century of recurring conflict the countries of the Asia Pacific region have managed something remarkable avoiding war among nations Since 1979 Asia has endured threats near miss crises and nuclear proliferation but no interstate war How fragile is this Asian peace and what is America s role in it Van Jackson argues that because Washington takes for granted that the United States is a force for good successive presidencies have failed to see how their statecraft impedes more durable forms of security and inadvertently embrittles peace At times the United States has been the region's bulwark against instability but America has been a threat to Asian peace as much as it has been its guarantor. By grappling with how America fits into the Asian story Jackson shows how regional stability has diminished because of U.S. choices and why America's margin for geopolitical error is less now than ever before. Asia-Pacific in the New World Order Christopher Brook, Anthony McGrew, 2013-11-05 Asia Pacific in the New World Order critically explores the notion that a distinctive regional power bloc is developing linking countries bordering the Pacific with East Asia at its core. This student friendly volume sheds light on the complex interplay between global regional and national forces which have transformed the Asia Pacific area into one of the most vibrant and economically successful regions in the world. Historical narratives alongside geopolitical and geoeconomic perspectives are deployed to examine the shifting pattern of power relations and security structures across the region set within a wider world context. Key issues addressed include what are the primary security problems of the region and how are they being resolved, does the dynamic growth of the region and particularly the rise of China pose a challenge to existing structures of world order. The text has a strong interdisciplinary flavour drawing on analytical approaches from the international relations, political economy and political geography literature. Authors have been drawn from the Asia Pacific region and the UK and all are established scholars in their specialist fields.

Security, Arms Control and Defence Restructuring in East Asia Bjørn Møller, 2019-01-22 First published in 1998 this volume examines East Asia especially Northeast Asia which has been a region of considerable political security of importance for several key reasons. It features several great and medium powers China, Japan and Russia as well as North and South Korea. Even though no arms race is yet discernible among these states with the partial exception of the two Koreas it is conceivable that one might commence. If it did the level of militarization could become quite alarming if only because of the tremendous and rapidly growing economic potential of the regional states. Even though relations among regional states except the two Koreas are currently peaceful the region features several unresolved issues e.g. concerning territory and a historical legacy of enmity between several states. To prevent such conflicts of interest from erupting into armed conflict is of the utmost importance. A stabilizing factor is that the military potentials in the region are still predominantly defensively oriented i.e. most states lack the requisite power projection or invasion capabilities to inflict serious harm on each other. However this might change in the not so distant future. Hence the importance of confidence building measures of an institutionalization of regional relations and of a strengthening of commitments to defensive military strategies and postures. Challenges to the Global Trading System Sumner La Croix, Peter Petri, 2007-03-21 International trade continues to expand robustly in East Asia and elsewhere but global trade negotiations have collapsed and globalization is widely criticized. In this book the participants of the thirtieth Pacific Trade and Development Conference including the then Director General of the World Trade Organization and leading government officials, academics and executives from a dozen major Pacific Rim economies debate whether global negotiations have ended once and for all or are suffering temporarily from globalization fatigue.

whether East Asia's new regional partnerships will advance or undermine the global trading system and whether the region's trade tensions with the United States will intensify or subside. They provide new empirical evidence on how trade affects the distribution of income, the location of pollution-intensive industries, the causes of outsourcing, the structure of the intellectual property regime, and international security. And they probe the implications of adjustment to globalization: how can countries reap the benefits of trade while controlling the risks faced by the poor and perhaps more importantly the politically strong? Challenges to the Global Trading System is an invaluable resource for students and scholars of Asia Pacific studies, international relations, and development studies, as well as those with a more general interest in Asian studies.

Changing Security Dynamics in East Asia Elena Atanassova-Cornelis, Frans-Paul van der Putten, 2016-04-30 This original and detailed collection explores how regional actors deal with uncertainties that are inherent to the current geopolitical situation in East Asia. The contributors collectively demonstrate that strategic uncertainty has become a major factor in the shaping of the security order in East Asia.

Taiwan's Security in the Post-Deng Xiaoping Era Martin L. Lasater, Peter Kien-Hong Yu, 2023-09-01 Originally published in 2000, Taiwan's Security in the Post-Deng Xiaoping Era analyses the many domestic and international factors comprising Taiwan's security situation in the late 1990s and early 21st Century. The security of Taiwan remains of international strategic concern, and the military situation in the Taiwan Strait is increasingly volatile. Nearly 25 years after this book was first published, this detailed study concludes that Taiwan's overall security will become increasingly dependent on external factors, and that the most important contribution Taipei can make to its own security, other than military preparation, is political astuteness.

The New Pacific Community in the 1990s Young Jeh Kim, 2016-09-16 With the end of the Cold War and the subsequent new regional alignments, American foreign policy and influence in the Asia Pacific region face a major turning point. In this book, ten North American specialists from various disciplines reconceptualize the forces shaping the New Pacific Community: international politics as a by-product of peaceful cooperation, the changing role of the military, the political economy as a determinant of human rights, environmental and demographic issues, and culture as an evolutionary and dynamic phenomenon in the lives of new immigrants as they make their way in American society.

The Strategic Options of Middle Powers in the Asia-Pacific Chien-Wen Kou, Chiung-Chiu Huang, Brian Job, 2022-06-23 This book analyses the responses of middle powers in the Asia Pacific toward the contemporary great powers rivalry of the United States and China through specific case studies of South Korea, Australia, Japan, India, Taiwan, and Vietnam. Presenting local perspectives from multiple middle powers as they face the task of maintaining the international order in light of the recent competition between China and the United States, it further develops theories of foreign policy, analyses forming a systematic framework through initiating crucial concepts including reluctant hedging, economic statecraft, and strategic position taking. The contributions also provide an in-depth examination of the contemporary geopolitics of the region, including the impact of both the Trump and Biden administrations, Beijing's Wolf Warrior diplomacy, cross-strait relations with Taiwan, and the influences of Japan Vietnam Australia and South Korea revealing that regional middle powers do indeed exert influence on the direction of regional cooperation in the Asia Pacific Providing comprehensive studies of many regional powers in the Asia Pacific this will be a valuable resource for scholars and students of International Politics Asian Politics Asian Studies as well as policy makers on Asia Pacific relations Institutionalizing Security Kai He,2007 America's Strategic Choices, revised edition Michael E. Asia's role in US security policy toward the region during the Bill Clinton and George W Bush administrations. It delves into the US security approach toward regional institutions like ASEAN and the ARF and hones in on specific ASEAN member states including the Philippines, Thailand, Singapore, Indonesia, and Malaysia, as well as the interaction between the US and these countries regarding security. Despite Southeast Asia not being a primary priority in US foreign policy since the end of the Cold War, the region has consistently held significance in Washington's security strategy. Given the goal of establishing a New Pacific Community, it is critical for the United States to ensure a peaceful and stable Southeast Asia, thereby avoiding the emergence of any potential future rivals to the United States. To effectively implement the Clinton Doctrine's security pillar, the United States has taken measures such as providing military aid and increasing military activities with ASEAN member countries. During President George W Bush's administration, Southeast Asia gained increased significance for the United States economically and geostrategically. Since September 11, 2001, Southeast Asia has emerged as a crucial player in the US security strategy. The US recognises the region as a second front in its global war on terrorism. Furthermore, the US has been actively enhancing its ties with ASEAN and the ARF while prioritising the development of bilateral relations with crucial ASEAN member countries including the Philippines, Thailand, Singapore, Indonesia, and Malaysia. Looking ahead, the United States aims to ensure that no potential competitors arise in the region that could challenge its future dominance. When examining the dynamics between the US and Southeast Asia, it becomes evident that the influence of China has consistently been significant. During the 1990s and 2000s, China played an important role in shaping US security policy in the region and influencing the relationship between the US and ASEAN member countries. The rise of China's economic and military power compelled the United States to shift its regional policy towards cooperation and competition to increase its interests in Southeast Asia. Meanwhile, the US security relationship with each ASEAN member country has many nuances depending on each country's role and interests towards the US. To provide readers with a comprehensive perspective and enhance their understanding of US security policy towards the Southeast Asia region, particularly in light of the growing emphasis on the Indo-Pacific region with Southeast Asia at its core, we would like to introduce the book US Security Engagement with Southeast Asia during the Clinton and Bush Administrations, authored by Pham Cao Cuong. This research comprehensively analyses the relationship between the United States and Southeast Asia. It is included in the research work catalogue on US President Bill Clinton. It can be found at the William J Clinton Library and Museum in the Clinton Presidential Park and Centre, Little Rock, Arkansas. Furthermore, this research work on terrorism is included in the Bibliography: Terrorism by Region Southeast Asia, compiled and selected by the Terrorism Research Initiative, Terrorism Research Centre, TRC. The book highlights the importance of studying the history of US security policy towards Southeast Asia and the security relations between the US and ASEAN member countries. Research on the security relations between the US and this region indicates that historical issues significantly impact the US's relations with the area. The foundations that the US has established in Southeast Asia play a crucial role in shaping these relations U.s. Foreign Policy And Asian-pacific Security William T Tow, 2019-06-04 The Reagan administration has indicated clearly that the United States will reassert its strategic presence in Asia and the Pacific at levels not equalled since the close of the Vietnam conflict The implications of this policy bear careful examination in light of the growing divergence between U S security perceptions and those of our European an The European Union, United States and Asean K. S. Nathan, 2002 This book examines the political cultural social economic and strategic dimensions of EU US Asean interactions in the new millenium The fifteen essays focus on the challenges and prospects for cooperative engagement by all three actors as they attempt to shape their regional strategic environments to address both traditional and non traditional security issues in the 21st century While there is a greater need for sensitivity to the individual interests and challenges faced by each actor there is also a consensus that long term solutions to regional and global stability and prosperity are better founded on strategies based on comprehensive security It concludes on the note that the enhancement of trilateral interactions in a transforming strategic context requires bold new approaches that enable cooperative engagement to achieve common security at the national regional and global levels BOOK JACKET Title Summary field provided by Blackwell North America Inc All Rights Reserved Asia-Pacific Security David W Lovell, 2003 Since September 11 2001 our newspapers have been filled with the war on terror our governments have mobilized their resources for homeland security and people everywhere are braced for more terrorist attacks Yet while the new threat is genuine w Russian arms transfers to East Asia in the 1990s Александр Анатольевич Сергунин, Sergei V.
