New Rhetoric And The Humanities Ebays On Rhetoric And Its Applications:

The New Rhetoric and the Humanities Ch. Perelman, 2012-12-06 Modern logic has undergone some remarkable developments in the last hundred years. These have contributed to the extraordinary use of formal logic which has become essentially the concern of mathematicians. This has led to attempts to identify logic with formal logic. The claim has even been made that all non-formal reasoning to the extent that it cannot be formalized no longer belongs to logic. This conception leads to a genuine impoverishment of logic as well as to a narrow conception of reason. It means that as soon as demonstrative proofs are no longer available, reason will no longer dominate. Even the idea of the reasonable becomes foreign to logic and such expressions as reasonable decisions, reasonable choice or reasonable hypotheses would be put aside as meaningless. The domain of action including methodology and everything that is given over to deliberation or controversy is foreign to formal logic. It would become a battleground where necessarily the reason of the strongest would always prevail. The New Rhetoric and the Humanities Chaïm Perelman, 1979 Virtual Knowledge Paul Wouters, Anne Beaulieu, Andrea Scharnhorst, Sally Wyatt, 2013 An examination of emerging forms of knowledge creation using Web-based technologies analyzed from an interdisciplinary perspective Arts & Humanities Citation Index, 2001 The New Rhetoric and the Humanities. Essays on Rhetoric and Its Applications. With an Introduction by Harold Zyskind Chaïm Perelman, William Kluback, 1979 The New Rhetoric Chaïm Perelman, L. Olbrechts-Tyteca, 1991-09-30 The New Rhetoric is founded on the idea that since argumentation aims at securing the adherence of those to whom it is addressed, it is in its entirety relative to the audience to be influenced, says Chaïm Perelman and L. Olbrechts-Tyteca, and they rely in particular for their theory of argumentation on the twin concepts of universal and particular audiences while every argument is directed to a specific individual or group. The orator decides what information and what approaches will achieve the greatest adherence according to an ideal audience. This ideal, Perelman explains, can be embodied for example in God in all reasonable and competent men, in the man deliberating or in an elite. Like particular audiences, then, the universal audience is never fixed or absolute but depends on the orator, the content and goals of the argument and the particular audience to whom the argument is addressed. These considerations determine what information constitutes facts and reasonableness and thus help to determine the universal audience that in turn shapes the orator's approach. The adherence of an audience is also determined by the orator's use of values, a further key concept of the New Rhetoric. Perelman's treatment of value and his view of epideictic rhetoric sets his approach apart from that of the ancients and of Aristotle in particular. Aristotle's division of rhetoric into three genres: forensic, deliberative and epideictic, is largely motivated by the judgments required for each. Forensic or legal arguments require verdicts on past action; deliberative or political rhetoric seeks judgment on future action; and epideictic or ceremonial rhetoric concerns values associated with praise or blame and seeks no specific decisions. For Aristotle, the epideictic genre was of limited importance in the civic realm since it did not concern facts or policies. Perelman in contrast believes not only that epideictic rhetoric warrants more attention but that the values normally limited to that genre are in fact central to all argumentation Epideictic oratory Perelman argues has significant and important argumentation for strengthening the disposition toward action by increasing adherence to the values it lauds These values are central to the persuasiveness of arguments in all rhetorical genres since the orator always attempts to establish a sense of communion centered around particular values recognized by the audience The Methodical Memory Sharon

Crowley,2010-08-20 In this first sustained critique of current traditional rhetorical theory Sharon Crowley uses a postmodern deconstructive reading to reexamine the historical development of current traditional rhetoric She identifies it as well as the British new rhetoric from which it developed as a philosophy of language use that posits universal principles of mind and discourse Crowley argues that these philosophies are not appropriate bases for the construction of rhetorical theories much less guides for the teaching of composition She explains that current traditional rhetoric is not a rhetorical theory and she argues that its use as such has led to a misrepresentation of invention Crowley contends that current traditional rhetoric continues to prosper because a considerable number of college composition teachers graduate students part time instructors and teachers of literature are not involved in the development of the curricula they are asked to teach As a result their voices necessary to create any true representation of the composition teaching experience are denied access to the scholarly conversations evaluating the soundness of the institutionalized teaching methods derived from the current traditional approach Landmark Essays on Contemporary Rhetoric Thomas B. Farrell,2020-10-28 This work brings together the pivotal scholarly essays responsible for the present resurgence in rhetorical studies Assembled by one of the most respected senior scholars in the field of rhetoric the essays chart a course from tradition based theory of civic rhetoric to ongoing issues of figuration power and gender Together with a lucid introductory essay these studies help to integrate the still volatile questions at the core of humanities scholarship in rhetoric The introductory student as well as the seasoned scholar will gain familiarity and footing in this oldest and still new liberal art Modern Rhetoric in Culture, Arts, and Media

Joachim Knappe,2012-12-19 The goal of this book is to formulate a modern theoretical approach for rhetorical studies in a variety of disciplines in the humanities media research and other cultural studies The discipline of rhetoric originally concerned itself with linguistic forms of communication and its basic theory was developed with such cases in mind With respect to this ancient tradition there are numerous books that provide a historical overview of the field There is also a wide array of introductory works and research contributions that deal with the practice of political rhetoric On the other hand only a few 20th century academics have attempted to theoretically rehabilitate rhetoric after its decline as an academic discipline in Europe in the 18th and 19th centuries and to give rhetorical theory a modern new and further reaching perspective Two notable examples have been Kenneth Burke and Brian Vickers The book begins with the assumption that rhetoric is not merely limited to linguistic action but rather is present everywhere in the communicative world Against this background this work develops a modern theory of rhetoric and demonstrates in twelve chapters how methodical rhetorical analysis can be done in selected practical fields of application Literature Music Images and Film The Rhetoric of the Human Sciences John S. Nelson, Allan Megill, Deirdre N. McCloskey, 1987 Opening with an overview of the renewal of interest in rhetoric for inquiries of all kinds this volume addresses rhetoric in individual disciplines mathematics anthropology psychology economics sociology political science and history Drawing from recent literary theory it suggests the contribution of the humanities to the rhetoric of inquiry and explores communications beyond the academy particularly in women's issues religion and law The final essays speak from the field of communication studies where the study of rhetoric usually makes its home

The Promise of Reason John T. Gage, 2011-11-11 No single work is more responsible for the heightened interest in argumentation and informal reasoning and their relation to ethics and jurisprudence in the late twentieth century than Cha m Perelman and Lucie Olbrechts Tyteca's monumental study of argumentation La Nouvelle Rh torique Trait de l Argumentation Published in 1958 and translated into English as The New Rhetoric in 1969 this influential volume returned the study of reason to classical concepts of rhetoric In The Promise of Reason Studies in The New Rhetoric leading scholars of rhetoric Barbara Warnick Jeanne Fahnestock Alan G Gross Ray D Dearin and James Crosswhite are joined by prominent and emerging European and American scholars from different disciplines to demonstrate the broad scope and continued relevance of The New Rhetoric more than fifty years after its initial publication Divided into four sections Conceptual Understandings of The New Rhetoric Extensions of The New Rhetoric The Ethical Turn in Perelman and The New Rhetoric and Uses of The New Rhetoric this insightful volume covers a wide variety of topics It includes general assessments of The New Rhetoric and its central concepts as well as applications of those concepts to innovative areas in which argumentation is being studied such as scientific reasoning visual media and literary texts Additional essays compare Perelman's ideas with those of other significant thinkers like Kenneth Burke and Richard McKeon explore his career as a philosopher and activist and shed new light on Perelman and Olbrechts Tyteca's collaboration Two contributions present new scholarship based on recent access to letters interviews and archival materials housed in the Universit Libre de Bruxelles Among the volume's unique gifts is a personal memoir from Perelman's daughter No mi Perelman Mattis published here for the first time The Promise of Reason expertly compiled and edited by John T Gage is the first to investigate the pedagogical implications of Perelman and Olbrechts Tyteca's groundbreaking work and will lead the way to the next generation of argumentation studies

The Principles of Rhetoric and Their Application Adams Sherman Hill, 1880

The Ends of Rhetoric John B. Bender, David E. Wellbery, 1990 The discipline of rhetoric adapted through a wide range of reformulations to the specific requirements of Greek Roman Medieval and Renaissance societies dominated European education and discourse whether public or private for more than two thousand years The end of classical rhetoric's domination was brought about by a combination of social and cultural transformations that occurred between the seventeenth and nineteenth centuries Concurrent with the theory boom of recent decades rhetoric has appeared as a center of discussion in the humanities and social sciences Rhetorical inquiry as it is thought and practiced today occurs in an interdisciplinary matrix that touches on philosophy linguistics communication studies psychoanalysis cognitive science sociology anthropology and political theory Rhetoric is now an area of study without accepted certainties a territory not yet parceled into topical subdivisions a mode of discourse that adheres to no fixed protocols It is a noisy field in the cybernetic sense of the term a fertile ground for creative innovation This volume embodies the interdisciplinary character of rhetoric The essays draw on wide ranging conceptual resources and combine historical theoretical and practical points of view The contributors develop a variety of perspectives on the central concepts of rhetorical theory on the work of some of its major proponents and on the breaks and continuities of its history The spectrum of thematic concern is broad extending from the Greek polis to the multi ethnic city of modern America from Aristotle to poststructuralism from questions of figural language to problems of persuasion and interaction But a common interdisciplinary interest runs through all the essays the effort to rethink rhetoric within the contemporary epistemological situation In this sense the book opens new possibilities for research within the human sciences
