Seed Policy and Programmes in the Near East and North Africa , 2000-01-01 This publication presents the proceedings of the Regional Technical Meeting on Seed Policy and Programmes in the Near East and North Africa held in Larnaca Cyprus from 27 June to 2 July 1999 The meeting was organised by the Agricultural Research Institute in Nicosia Cyprus in collaboration with the Seed and Plant Genetic Resources Service of the FAO In line with the Rome Declaration on World Food Security and the World Food Summit Plan of Action the meeting recognised that one of the major challenges facing most countries in the Near East and North Africa is the need to invest significant resources in strengthening their capacity to increase the availability of good quality seeds of a wider range of plant varieties This will contribute to the maximisation of both agrobiodiversity and productivity in order to achieve national food security while reducing environmental degradation and the depletion of natural resources The meeting proposed and agreed to establish a Regional Consultative Forum on Seed Policy and Programmes for the Near East and Africa CFS NENA The forum will facilitate intercountry scientific and technical co operation on seed production and supply and promote crop genetic resources evaluation conservation and utilisation in the region

Routledge Handbook of Agricultural Biodiversity Danny Hunter,Luigi Guarino,Charles Spillane,Peter C. McKeown,2017-10-03 The world relies on very few crop and animal species for agriculture and to supply its food needs In recent decades there has been increased appreciation of the risk this implies for food security and quality especially in times of environmental change As a result agricultural biodiversity has moved to the top of research and policy agendas This Handbook presents a comprehensive overview of our current knowledge of agricultural biodiversity in a series of specially commissioned chapters It draws on multiple disciplines including plant and animal genetics ecology crop and animal science food studies and nutrition as well as social science subjects which explore the socio economic cultural institutional legal and policy aspects of agricultural biodiversity It focuses not only on the core requirements to deliver a sustainable agriculture and food supply but also highlights the additional ecosystem services provided by a diverse and resilient agricultural landscape and farming practices The book provides an indispensable reference textbook for a wide range of courses in agriculture ecology biodiversity conservation and environmental studies

New Directions for Smallholder Agriculture Peter B. R. Hazell,Atiqur Rahman,2014-03-06 The majority of the poor and hungry people in the world live on small farms and struggle to subsist on too little land with low input low yield technologies At the same time many other smallholders are successfully intensifying and succeeding as farm businesses often in combination with diversification into off farm sources of income This book examines the growing divergence between subsistence and business oriented small farms and discusses how this divergence has been impacted by population growth trends in farm size distribution urbanization off farm income diversification and the globalization of agricultural value chains It finds that policy makers need to differentiate more sharply between different types of small farms than they did in the past both in terms of their potential contributions towards achieving national economic growth poverty alleviation and food security goals and the types of assistance they need The book distinguishes between smallholders that are business oriented subsistence oriented and at various stages of transition to the non farm economy and discusses strategies appropriate for assisting each type The book draws on a wealth of recent experience at IFAD and elsewhere to help identify best practice approaches

Community Seed Production Sustainability in Rice-Wheat Farming Narayan Prasad Khanal, Keshav Lall Maharjan, 2015-05-07 This book analyzes the sustainability of community seed production under a rice wheat farming system from microeconomic perspectives considering how seed producers benefit from community seed production and how those benefits continue into the future Seed producers performance in resource management governance and marketing strategies indicates current benefits whereas soil conservation and risk management practices provide the basis for future benefits Community seed production is a local level seed management system owned by farmers This system provides the institutional mechanism to supply diversified seed demands of open pollinated varieties of food crops in a cost effective way in rural regions Being able to address the concerns of food insecurity poverty climate stress and biodiversity loss in programs and policies of development agencies community seed production is gaining popularity among the farmers and the policy makers in developing countries This book discusses the issues of organizational governance of the community seed producers groups and links them with household level benefits to understand the organizational dynamism and the probable development paths of such organizations in the future It also highlights the necessity to institutionalize lessons learned in community seed production in the stakeholders programs and policies These understandings provide a basis for formulating policies for strengthening the system in developing countries Students researchers policy makers and donor agencies working with CSP in the developing world will find this book useful in broadening their understanding of CSP in general and its sustainability in particular
