

Each day of my life,
like a carousel turns,
There are chances to take,
and lessons to learn.

Caught up in problems
that each day would bring,
Chances slip by,
to catch the brass ring.

Whenever I felt my
rib slowing down,
Your gentle hand
would push me around.

Picking me up,
each time that I fell —
You rode beside me on my carousel.

with disparate themes something in fact for everybody This is my fifteenth collection beginning with Timepieces which was largely Gothic to the present collection which are rather less bloodthirsty than those early volumes I like to think of most of the subject material as bizarre these days more subtle perhaps but just as interesting in their wayward themes The fact that most of them are written at night in a dim quiet room probably adds to the flavour There are ghost stories weird stories strange characters who inhabit eerie buildings and live lives of quiet desperation and who may only be found between the pages of this book There is the odd bit of humour as well to lighten the atmosphere if one is getting over tense You can read it in the study in bed even take it into the bathroom with you if you don't want to break the thread of a good tale But keep it away from the neighbours or you'll lose it for good ever since The Life and Poetry of Frank Stanford offers for the first time a comprehensive study of Stanford's life and work introducing to a broad readership poetry that remains both captivating to poets and in its celebration of everyday experience over academic erudition accessible to those who rarely read poetry. Stanford's poems range from one line to his 15 283 line epic The Battlefield Where the Moon Says I Love You. The vital thread running through all of his poetry is an ear for language that vies with Walt Whitman in its expansiveness and generosity. Stanford's omnivorous attraction to vernacular particularly Black and rural vernacular centered on an admiration for the marginalized and eccentric. Blending the Southern Gothic of Faulkner and O'Connor with a racially egalitarian vision, his poetry thrives on the stories and traditions of the oppressed and forgotten. The themes that preoccupied Stanford's prolific output—language, sex, death, class, geography, commercialism, surrealism, film, race—also preoccupied the poet in his daily life, which was marked by heavy drinking, philandering, mental instability, emotional abuse, and through it all, an inveterate desire for beauty. Constantly attentive to this tension, biographer James McWilliams traces the short and painfully complicated life of this hidden talent who left a lifetime's worth of poetry that through its grounding in the mundane achieved a vision of the transcendent.

The Poetry of Eavan Boland Pilar Villar-Argaiz, 2008

Pilar Villar Argiz's sustained meticulous and exacting study of Eavan Boland opens up and articulates in a fresh way the key dimensions of her poetry. It succeeds not only in tracking the far-reaching ramifications of Eavan Boland's politicized aesthetic as a postcolonial writer but in urging us to revisit the crystalline and precisely etched poems of one of the most significant artists in contemporary Irish culture. Professor Anne Fogarty, University College Dublin, from the Introduction: This monograph is an original and important contribution to the growing body of critical studies devoted to one of Ireland's major living poets, Eavan Boland. See Haberstroh 1996, Hagen Zelman 2005. It details the controversies that were prompted by the inclusion of Ireland in a postcolonial framework and then tests the application of an array of cogent theories and concepts to Boland's work. In an attempt to explore the richness and complexity of her poetry, Villar Argiz discusses the contradictory pulls in her desire to surpass and yet at the same time epitomize Irish nationality. Boland's remarkable achievement as a poet lies in her ability to stretch by constant negotiations and re-appropriations the borderlines of inherited definitions of nationality and femininity. Chapters include: Re-examining the postcolonial; Gender and Irish studies; Towards an understanding of Boland's poetry as minority postcolonial discourse; A post-nationalist or a post-colonial writer; Boland's revisionary stance on Mother Ireland; To a third space; Boland's imposed exile as a young child; The subaltern in Boland's poetry; Boland's mature exile in the US; An Orientalist writer; and Conclusion/Review. This rigorous and informative exploration of the poetry of Eavan Boland by Pilar Villar Argiz proves the validity of drawing upon the resources of postcolonial theory to illuminate her work. Through the lens of postcolonialism, the deep-seated preoccupations and complex imaginative foundations of Boland's writing are carefully excavated and interpreted. Villar Argiz moreover, in her observant close readings of poems from different phases of the author's oeuvre, reveals how recurrent issues such as the problem of national and cultural identity the ethical responsibility of engaging with the past and the quest for fluidity and openness are variously engaged with both aesthetically and philosophically Villar Arg iz s sustained meticulous and exacting study of Eavan Boland opens up and articulates in a fresh way key dimensions of her poetry It succeeds not only in tracking the far reaching ramifications of Eavan Boland s politicized aesthetic as a postcolonial writer but in urging us to revisit the crystalline and precisely etched poems of one of the most significant artists in contemporary Irish culture Professor Anne Fogarty Department of English University College Dublin Ireland About the Author Dr Pilar Villar Arg iz lectures in the Department of English Philology at the University of Granada Spain where she obtained a European Doctorate in English Studies Irish Literature She is the author of Eavan Boland s Evolution As an Irish Woman Poet An Outsider within an Outsider s Culture The Edwin Mellen Press 2007 She has also published extensively on the representation of femininity in contemporary Irish women s poetry on cinematic representations of Ireland and on the theoretical background and application of feminism and postcolonialism to the study of Irish literature In addition Dr Villar Arg iz has co edited two books on English literature Irish Research Series No 51 Granger's Index to Poetry and Recitations ,1929 Till One Day the Sun Shall Shine More Brightly Derek Pollard,2020-01-29 Since the publication of From the Abandoned Cities in 1983 Donald Revell has been among the more consistent influencers in American poetry and poetics Yet his work has achieved the status it has his honors include fellowships from the National Endowment for the Arts and the Guggenheim Foundation and awards from the PEN Center USA and American Poetry Review in a manner that has often tended to belie its abiding significance This collection of essays reviews and interviews is designed to ignite a more wide ranging critical appraisal of Revell s writing from his fourteen collections of poems to his acclaimed translations of French symbolist and modernist poets to his artfully constructed literary criticism Contributors such as Marjorie Perloff Stephanie Burt Dan Beachy Quick and Bruce Bond examine key elements in and across Revell s work from his visionary postmodernism Our words can never say the mystery of our meanings but there they are spoken and meaning worlds to us to his poetics of radical attention And so a poem has nothing to do with picking and choosing with the mot juste and reflection in tranquility It is a plain record of one s entire presence in order to enlarge our understanding of how and why that work has come to occupy the place that it has in contemporary American letters
