Post-Liberalism Melvyn L. Fein, 2017-07-05 Liberalism is dying despite its superficial appearance of vigour Most of its adherents still believe it is the wave of the future but they are clinging to a sinking dream So says Melvyn L Fein who argues that almost none of liberalism s countless promises have come true Under its auspices poverty was not eliminated crime did not diminish the family was not strengthened education was not improved and universal peace has not been established These failures are not accidental they flow directly from liberal contradictions In Post Liberalism Fein demonstrates why this is the case Fein contends that an inverse force rule dictates that small communities are united by strong forces such as personal relationships and face to face hierarchies while large scale societies are integrated by weak forces such as technology and social roles As we become a more complex techno commercial society the weak forces become more dominant This necessitates greater decentralization in direct opposition to the centralization that liberals celebrate Paradoxically this suggests that liberalism as an ideology is regressive rather than progressive If so it must fail Liberals assume that someday under their tutelage these trends will be reversed but this contradicts human nature and history s lessons According to Fein we as a species are incapable of eliminating hierarchy or of loving all other humans with equal intensity As Emile Durkheim argued humans cannot live in harmony without appropriate forms of social cohesion

Re-imagining Hate Crime Ben Colliver, 2021-01-26 This book draws upon empirical data to offer a fresh and unique perspective on hate crime victimisation using transphobic hate crime as a case study It adopts the lens of visibility as a way of understanding hate crime victimisation and to challenge dominant theoretical and conceptual perspectives of hate crime In adopting this lens key aspects of victimisation are explored including the hierarchical nature of hate crime victimisation that afford visibility to particular types of victimisation and to particular groups of people to make them legitimate victims In challenging these notions this book highlights the pervasive everyday nature of much hate crime and introduces the concept of micro crimes as a way to conceptualise the nature of victimisation that is often overshadowed by discussions around microaggressions and more socially recognisable forms of hate crime Key ideas relating to space place and identity performance are drawn upon throughout these analyses and discussions to provide a nuanced overview and conceptualisation of hate crime victimisation

In Lies We Trust Ed Brodow, 2016-09-27 What politicians and the media don't want you to know Millions of Americans at both ends of the political spectrum are angry and fed up with being lied to by politicians and the media The emergence of outsider presidential candidates Donald Trump and Bernie Sanders is proof that people are sick and tired of Washington's culture of deception Thumbing his nose at political correctness negotiation expert and political commentator Ed Brodow exposes the outrageous lies that have been disseminated about the most important issues of our time He tells the uncensored truth about the threat of Islamic extremism global warming the welfare entitlement system Obamacare racial tension and other important things that our elected representatives don't want you to know. If you vote in national elections, the candor of In Lies We Trust will help you make decisions based on facts instead of misinformation. The Journal of the Senate During the ... Session of the Legislature of the State of California California. Legislature. Senate, 1933 Does Conquest Pay? Peter Liberman, 1998-08-23 Can foreign invaders successfully exploit industrial economies? DOES CONQUEST PAY demonstrates that expansion can in fact provide rewards to aggressor nations and suggests that the international system is more war prone than many optimists claim. Seeing the Light Samuel Schuman, 2010-01-18 Samuel Schuman examines the place of religious colleges and universities, particularly evangelical Protestant institutions, in contemporary American higher education. Many faith-based schools are flourishing. They have rigorous academic standards, impressive student recruitment, ambitious philanthropic goals, and well-maintained campuses and facilities. Yet much of the U.S. higher education community ignores them or accords them little respect. Seeing the Light considers instead what can be learned from the viability of these institutions. The book begins with a history of post-secondary U.S. education from the perspective of the religious traditions from which it arose. After focusing briefly on nonevangelical institutions, Schuman next looks at three Roman Catholic institutions: the College of New Rochelle, Villanova University, and Thomas Aquinas College. He then profiles evangelical colleges and universities in detail, discovering the factors contributing to their success. These institutions range from nationally recognized to little known, from rich to poor, with both highly selective and open admission requirements. Interviews with key administrators, faculty, and students reveal the challenges, the successes, and the goals of these institutions. Schuman concludes that these schools—Baylor University, Anderson University, New Saint Andrews College, Calvin College, North Park University, George Fox University, Westmont College, Oral Roberts University, Northwestern College, and Wheaton College, and others like them—offer important and timely lessons for the broader higher education community.
