New Times The Changing Face Of Politics In The 1990s:

New Times Stuart Hall, Martin Jacques, 1989 Capital, Interrupted Vinay K. Gidwani, The central Gujarat region of western India is home to the entrepreneurial landowning Patel caste who have leveraged their rural dominance to become a powerful global diaspora of merchants industrialists and professionals Investigating the Patels intriguing ascent Vinay Gidwani analyzes its broad implications for the nature of labor and capital worldwide With the Patels as his central case Gidwani interrogates established concepts of value development and the relationship between capital and history Capitalism he argues is not a frame of economic organization based on the smooth consistent operation of a series of laws but rather an assemblage of contingent and interrupted logics stitched together into the appearance of a deus ex machina Following this line of thinking Gidwani points to ways in which political economy might be freed of its lingering Eurocentrism raises questions about the adequacy of postcolonial studies critique of Marx and capitalism and opens the possibility of situating capitalism as a geographically uneven social formation in which different normative or value creating practices are imperfectly sutured together in ways that can equally impair and enable profit and accumulation Both theoretically astute and empirically informed Capital Interrupted unsettles encrusted understandings of staple concepts within the human sciences such as hegemony governmentality caste and agency and ultimately does nothing less than rethink the very constitution of capitalism Vinay Gidwani is associate professor of geography and global studies at the University of Minnesota

Forging Democracy Geoff Eley, 2002-04-11 Democracy in Europe has been a recent phenomenon Only in the wake of World War II were democratic frameworks secured and even then it was decades before democracy truly blanketed the continent Neither given nor granted democracy requires conflict often violent confrontations and challenges to the established political order In Europe Geoff Eley convincingly shows democracy did not evolve organically out of a natural consensus the achievement of prosperity or the negative cement of the Cold War Rather it was painstakingly crafted continually expanded and doggedly defended by varying constellations of socialist feminist Communist and other radical movements that originally blossomed in the later nineteenth century Parties of the Left championed democracy in the revolutionary crisis after World War I salvaged it against the threat of fascism and renewed its growth after 1945 They organized civil societies rooted in egalitarian ideals which came to form the very fiber of Europe's current democratic traditions The trajectories of European democracy and the history of the European Left are thus inextricably bound together Geoff Eley has given us the first truly comprehensive history of the European Left its successes and failures its high watermarks and its low tides its accomplishments insufficiencies and excesses and most importantly its formative lasting influence on the European political landscape At a time when the Left's influence and legitimacy are frequently called into question Forging Democracy passionately upholds its vital contribution

Culture, Class, and Critical Theory David Gartman, 2012-11-12 Culture Class and Critical Theory develops a theory of culture that explains how ideas create and legitimate class inequalities in modern society This theory is developed through a critique and comparison of the powerful ideas on culture offered by Pierre Bourdieu and the Frankfurt School thinkers especially Theodor Adorno These ideas are illuminated and criticized through the development of two empirical cases on which Gartman has published extensively automobile design and architecture Bourdieu and the Frankfurt School postulate opposite theories of the cultural legitimization of class inequalities Bourdieu argues that the culture of modern society is a class culture a ranked diversity of beliefs and tastes corresponding to different classes The cultural beliefs and practices of the dominant class are arbitrarily defined as superior thus legitimating its greater share of social resources By contrast the thinkers of the Frankfurt School conceive of modern culture as a mass culture a leveled homogeneity in which the ideas and tastes shared by all classes disguises real class inequalities This creates the illusion of an egalitarian democracy that prevents inequalities from being contested Through an empirical assessment of the theories against the cases Gartman reveals that both are correct but for different parts of modern culture These parts combine to provide a strong legitimization of class inequalities

Dworkin, 2014-05-22 In the 1960s and 1970s the study of history and sociology was heavily influenced by Marxism and theories of class But the collapse of Communism and significant changes in culture and society threw the study of class into crisis Its most basic premises were called into question More recently accelerating globalisation proliferating multinational corporations and unbridled free market capitalism have given the study of class a new significance and caused historians and sociologists to revisit the debate This book looks at the changes that caused the crisis in the study of class and shows how new vibrant theories have appeared that will drive forward our understanding of history and sociology Place and the Politics of Identity Michael Keith, Steve Pile, 2004-11-23 In the last two decades new political subjects have been created through the actions of the new social movements often by asserting the unfixed and overdetermined character of identity Further in attempting to avoid essentialism people have frequently looked to their territorial roots to establish their constituency A cultural politics of resistance as exemplified by Black politics feminism and gay liberation has developed struggles to turn sites of oppression and discrimination into spaces of resistance This book collects together perspectives which challenge received notions of geography which are in danger of becoming anachronisms without a language to articulate the new space of resistance the new politics of identity Reconsidering Social Identification Abdul R. JanMohamed, 2020-11-29 This volume investigates how four socially constructed identities race gender class and caste can be rethought as matrices designed to accumulate various kinds of socio economic values and to translate and transfer these values from one group to another Essays in the anthology also attempt to compare the mechanisms deployed by various groups to consolidate identificatory investments Drawn mainly for the fields of literary and cultural studies the essays are grouped in four categories Essays collected under Theoretical Approaches scrutinize the relative value of various approaches those collected under Considerations of Race Gender and Sexual Orientation examine the interaction between these three categories in formation of identities those grouped under Comparative Analysis of African American and Dalit Writing provide comparative analyses of the literary productions of these two oppressed groups and finally those under The Persistence of Racialized Perceptions focus on the role of ideologically inflected perception of European colonizers and the persistence of such perception in the categorization and treatment of colonial migrants to the metropolis Politics and Popular Culture John Street, 1997 In Politics and Popular Culture John Street explores the debate about the political character of popular culture between those who see it as a form of manipulation and those who see it as populist self expression He argues that such approaches are limited and that we need to alter our perspective on the politics of popular culture He does this by looking more closely at the ways in which the state organizes the production and consumption of popular culture and at how political judgments are part of the creation and the pleasures of popular culture This book will be invaluable for students in cultural studies mass media studies sociology and politics The Return of Radicalism Boris Kagarlitsky, 2000-01-20 The rise of neo liberalism has had a devastating impact on the institutions and organisations with which the left has traditionally been associated Boris Kagarlitsky examines this crisis and explores areas of opportunity for the left He begins by focusing on the decline of trade unions in the West and the attempts to revive them contrasting this with the rapid growth of unions in the nations of the developing world and the new industrial countries He argues that trade unionism has a vital role to play in the twenty first century Kagarlitsky then provides a critique of the post modernist left arguing that the experiences of Eastern Europe and of the Third World demonstrate the vital need for a universal left as the only viable alternative to the emerging new barbarism The state of the contemporary left is explored with an assessment of the contributions of the third left and third socialism and the new wave of left parties and movements such as the German Party of Democratic Socialism the Workers Party in Brazil and the Zapatistas in Mexico
