New Trends Of Architecture In Europe:

New Trends and Opportunities for Central and Eastern European Tourism Nistoreanu, Puiu, 2019-12-13 Within the past decade there has been a re emergence of tourism in Europe especially in the central and eastern regions With socialism becoming a distant memory these former communist countries are now attractive destinations for travel Research on this current phenomenon is essential as professionals and scientists must stay informed on the modern development of this global region New Trends and Opportunities for Central and Eastern European Tourism provides emerging research exploring the theoretical and practical aspects of contemporary tourism in Eastern Europe and its effect on economics and sociology Featuring coverage on a broad range of topics such as monument protection economic features and socialist architecture this book is ideally designed for travel agents tour developers restaurateurs hotel management economic analysts government officials policymakers tourism journalists tourism practitioners researchers and professors seeking current research on the development of travel in Eastern and Central Europe Hunch Berlage Instituut, 2002-02

Global Trends in Eastern Europe Nikolai Genov, 2016-04-22 Eastern Europe was once clearly defined by the centralized political and economic organization of the societies in the region They shared the same official ideology and were members of the same alliances After 1989 the region collapsed in an economic political and cultural implosion What were the moving forces of this profound change What are its consequences Could we try to reasonably foresee any future developments In this thought provoking book Nikolai Genov presents a systematic description and explanation of Eastern European societal transformations after 1989 They are interpreted as adaptations to four global trends upgrading the rationality of organizations individualization spreading of instrumental activism and universalization of value normative systems Adaptations to these trends have generally been successful However Genov notes that the process is marked by many failures as well They are mostly caused by path dependency in the societal development and by the varying quality of relevant decisions other destructive developments are due to contradictions in the global trends themselves Guided by the assumption that the societal and supranational integration mechanisms in Eastern Europe before 1989 could not resist the overwhelming power of global trends Genov's controversial findings question visions about the end of history and simultaneously strengthen the confidence that most complex macro social processes can be rationally managed A timely book allowing for a much needed engagement in contemporary debates on the controversial processes in Eastern European transitions

Uncharted: The New Landscape of Tourism Juan Elvira, David Goodman, 2022-02-25 UNCHARTED New Landscapes of Tourism has a two fold objective to explore new avenues of thought in design teaching and to do so through research that deals with new architectural landscapes that are linked to tourism Publishing the Undergraduate Final Projects from IE University's Undergraduate Architecture program responds to the desire to highlight the importance of design strategies in the process of reformulating the tourist offering within the framework of an open debate about new models for development The infrastructural nature of architectural design imbues the architect's creative capacity with the healthy ambition of transforming the territory into new landscapes for touristic opportunities These new landscapes have been categorized here as productive urban industrial extreme and reversible UNCHARTED includes additional contributions on architecture tourism and teaching by Jos Miguel Iribas Elia Zenghelis and Eleni Gigantes □□□□□, 2005-04 Includes special issues and extra issues

O'Donnell + Tuomey Sheila O'Donnell, John Tuomey, Hugh Campbell, David Leatherbarrow, 2007 In today's Ireland it's not only the economy that's booming Dublin based architects O'Donnell Tuomey have brought a wealth of exciting buildings to the Emerald Isle for the past seventeen years Their striking modernist works show their appreciation for Ireland's rich cultural historic and civic identity without falling into the trap of typical pitched roofs gables slate and brick Instead the firm chooses less conventional but more fitting materials that seem to express something not quite visible about their sites O'Donnell Tuomey the first monograph on the firm presents fifteen of their institutional and residential projects in an arresting collection of color photography plans and drawings The book includes the controversial Irish Pavilion at the Irish Museum of Modern Art the Ranelagh Multidenominational School the Irish Pavilion at the 2004 Venice Biennale and their recent Glucksman Gallery at the University College Cork which was one of six buildings shortlisted for the 2005 Stirling Prize

Muhammad 'Ali's Soft Power in Europe Hala Ghoname, 2024-12-16 The profusion of literature on Muhammad Ali's Egypt 1805-1849 makes the British epoch significantly well documented however one facet is perceptibly brushed out or rather overlooked Published in 1945 Gaston Wiet's Mohammed Ali et Les Beaux Arts has been the only book deliberating the visual and artistic aspects of Muhammad Ali's reign and while it offers an extended survey of the Ottoman governor's iconography and visual relics the book wants the rudiments of critical analysis The trivial number of works covering this facet of the British sovereignty has made it barely examined rendering the research field with a significant epistemological gap namely regarding art and historiography patronage for political triggers Embarking from where Wiet's work has halted this book attempts to critically analyze the artistic component of Muhammad Ali's reign by dealing with the pictorial crops of the nineteenth century's orientalist travelers assessing their role within the context of contemporaneous trends in Ottoman and European diplomacy and tracing Muhammad Ali's early attempts for using pictorial propaganda and historiography in order to claim political legitimacy and to attain European recognition The book conducts an in-depth analysis of the British historiographic making process with a focus on how text worked art and visual politics The book takes an innovative and interdisciplinary approach which commingles tools of visual analysis and contextual investigation in its consideration of the aspects of Muhammad Ali's foreign policy this book closely examines topics associated with cultural systems modernization traditionalism and changeability in Egypt of the nineteenth century while assessing the impact of global connectedness not only on Muslim cultures and societies but also on European public opinion through highlighting how Muslim rulers had adapted appealing themes and employed cultural magnets in their visual propaganda to fit within the

Belgique, Nouvelles Architectures, 2001 Design Innovation for the Built Environment Michael Hensel, 2013-03-01 Today architecture and other fields in the built environment face the steep task of answering complex questions pertaining to sustainability performance and adaptability How are these disciplines to accomplish these difficult tasks at such an immense pace How might architectural practice renovate itself accordingly Worldwide it is becoming increasingly clear that different modes of research are emerging which are triggered directly by the need to renovate practice One significant prevailing mode is what has come to be known as research by design This book delivers an overview of this pluralistic domain Bringing together a range of leading architects architectural theorists and designers it outlines the developments in current practice from leading individuals based in the USA UK Australia Japan and Europe Edited by a recognized expert this book exposes the undercurrent of research which is taking place and how this will contribute to the renovation of architectural practice

New Trends of Architecture in Europe and Japan Louis Comfort Tiffany Foundation, 2000

Europe Meets America Gaia Caramellino, 2016-08-17 An analysis of the New York professional milieu between the Wall Street Crash of 1929 and the aftermath of WWII reveals an unexpected scenario in which diverse branches of technical culture and professional and institutional spheres often overlap and initiatives in the field of architecture are characterised by tensions between designers and technicians which pave the way for issues of architects autonomy responsibility and social roles in the New Deal From an initial portrayal of William Lescaze

1896 1969 as an unconventional figure straddling two continents this book challenges a long established interpretation that sees Lescaze exclusively as promoter of the International Style canons in the United States Moving beyond it this book focuses on the role that the Swiss architect played in defining the main features of New York social housing and in the evolution that marks the encounter between European modernity and an American federal scene still profoundly tied to local conventions From an initially difficult status as an migr to his involvement in decisional processes and bureaucratic organisations Lescaze s professional progress coincides with the gradual acceptance of European forms and models which little by little became part of the institutional language related to public housing which would remain prevalent in New York City until the end of WWII Drawing from yet unpublished archival sources pertaining to two fields housing and architecture which have traditionally been separate in American historiography this book sheds light on many crucial issues in a branch of architecture that is particularly relevant today
