on its critical correspondences with a selection of modernist texts ranging from Virginia Woolf to Samuel Beckett The book unearths different possibilities of illness without denying its quite natural association with morbidity pain suffering dying and death It looks at illness and its effects on different bodies phenomenologically with the help of some twentieth century philosophers including Martin Heidegger Jean Luc Nancy Maurice Merleau Ponty Jean Paul Sartre and Emmanuel Levinas The book locates these phenomenological understandings in a reading of some of the important literary works of early twentieth century Europe five literary works from five different genres poetry drama fiction non fiction and epistle critiquing the relevance of the phenomenological body in the literary and narrative world of the texts The author deals with Samuel Beckett's Endgame Franz Kafka's letters Thomas Mann's Death in Venice Virginia Woolf's On Being Ill and T S Eliot's The Wasteland within the aesthetico philosophical space and the epistemic dialogism that modernist aesthetics implies and espouses

Embodiment in Samuel Beckett's Drama Anna McMullan,2020-07-24 The representation and experience of embodiment is a central preoccupation of Samuel Beckett's drama one that he explored through diverse media McMullan investigates the full range of Beckett's dramatic canon for stage radio television and film including early drama mimes and unpublished fragments She examines how Beckett's drama composes and recomposes the body in each medium and provokes ways of perceiving conceiving and experiencing embodiment that address wider preoccupations with corporeality technology and systems of power McMullan argues that the body in Beckett's drama reveals a radical vulnerability of the flesh questioning corporeal norms based on perfectible autonomous or invulnerable bodies but is also the site of a continual reworking of the self and of the boundaries between self and other Beckett's reimagining of the body presents embodiment as a collaborative performance between past and present flesh and imagination self and other including the spectator listener The New
