Ultimately Schultz finds that U S women s sport has progressed significantly but ambivalently Although participation in sports is no longer uncommon for girls and women Schultz argues that these points of change have contributed to a complex matrix of gender differentiation that marks the female athletic body as different than as less than the male body despite the advantages it may confer

Wounded Lions Ronald A. Smith, 2016-04-15 The Jerry Sandusky child molestation case stunned the nation As subsequent revelations uncovered an athletic program operating free of oversight university officials faced criminal charges while unprecedented NCAA sanctions hammered Penn State football and blackened the reputation of coach Joe Paterno In Wounded Lions acclaimed sport historian and longtime Penn State professor Ronald A Smith heavily draws from university archives to answer the How and Why at the heart of the scandal The Sandusky case was far from the first example of illegal behavior related to the football program or the university s attempts to suppress news of it As Smith shows decades of infighting among administrators alumni trustees faculty and coaches established policies intended to protect the university and the football team considered synonymous with its name at all costs If the habits predated Paterno they also became sanctified during his tenure Smith names names to show how abuses of power warped the Penn State Way even with hires like women's basketball coach Rene Portland who allegedly practiced sexual bias against players for decades Smith also details a system that concealed Sandusky's horrific acts just as deftly as it whitewashed years of rules violations coaching malfeasance and player crime while Paterno set records and raised hundreds of millions of dollars for the university A myth shattering account of misplaced priorities Wounded Lions charts the intertwined history of an elite university its storied sports program and the worst scandal in collegiate athletic history Globetrotting Damion L. Thomas, 2012-09-30

Throughout the Cold War the Soviet Union deplored the treatment of African Americans by the U S government as proof of hypocrisy in the American promises of freedom and equality This probing history examines government attempts to manipulate international perceptions of U S race relations during the Cold War by sending African American athletes abroad on goodwill tours and in international competitions as cultural ambassadors and visible symbols of American values Damion L. Thomas follows the State Department's efforts from 1945 to 1968 to showcase prosperous African American athletes including Jackie Robinson Jesse Owens and the Harlem Globetrotters as the preeminent citizens of the African Diaspora rather than as victims of racial oppression With athletes in baseball track and field and basketball the government relied on figures whose fame carried the desired message to countries where English was little understood However eventually African American athletes began to provide counter narratives to State Department claims of American exceptionalism most notably with Tommie Smith and John Carlos's famous black power salute at the 1968 Mexico City Olympics Exploring the geopolitical significance of racial integration in sports during the early days of the Cold War this book looks at the Eisenhower and Kennedy administrations attempts to utilize sport to overcome hostile international responses to the violent repression of the civil rights movement in the United States Highlighting how African American athletes responded to significant milestones in American racial justice such as the 1954 Brown v Board of Education decision and the passage of the 1964 Civil Rights Act Thomas surveys the shifting political landscape during this period as African American athletes increasingly resisted being used in State Department propaganda and began to use sports to challenge continued oppression The Sons of Westwood some of college basketball's most famous players and its most memorable coach      Baseball Benjamin G. Rader, 2018-10-30
