Médecins Sans Frontières, Evolution of an International Movement: Associative History 1971-2011 Laurence Binet, Martin Saulnier, 2019-06-04 When Médecins Sans Frontières MSF was founded in 1971 it was founded with both international and associative dimensions International because it wouldn't have made sense for MSF France on its own to aid threatened populations around the world and associative because civil law in France especially the 1901 law governing charitable bodies was perfectly suited to the MSF organisation's guiding precepts which are democratic and selfless in nature Yet MSF's development from a small purely French organisation to an international associative movement was never carefully planned or particularly smooth MSF's development was the result of various compromises between the movement's leaders with their individual agendas and the integration of fait accomplis when necessary. The evolving modifications were debated at length to ensure that concerns raised were legitimate and that there was agreement for decisions made. The nature and the validity of MSF's leadership were regularly challenged as was the question of how MSF should grow while remaining true to its humanitarian precepts. This case study elaborates the history of the MSF movement from inception in 1971 through 2011 when MSF legitimised an international governance system and architecture. The study is divided in two episodes. Episode One reviews MSF's first three decades 1971-2000. Episode Two is about the challenges of the early 21st century from 2001 to 2011.

Telemedicine in Low-Resource Settings Richard Wootton, 2015-04-24. Telemedicine networks to support healthcare workers in resource limited settings often for humanitarian purposes have evolved over the last decade or so in a largely autonomous way. Communication between them has been informal and relatively limited in scope. This situation could be improved by developing a comprehensive approach to the collection and dissemination of information. A recent review identified seven telemedicine networks each of which had been in operation for at least five years and which provided store and forward telemedicine services to doctors in low and middle income countries. These networks provide clinically useful services and improved healthcare access. However like much of telemedicine the formal evidence for their cost effectiveness remains weak. Topics of current research interest therefore include the cost effectiveness of telemedicine in resource limited settings. Outcomes data and methods for gathering it such as patient quality of life following a telemedicine episode the knowledge gain of healthcare staff involved in telemedicine and staff recruitment and retention in rural areas are also of interest. Finally there is little published information about the performance of these telemedicine networks and methods for measuring it about how best to manage them and about how to share resources between them. A collection of articles reporting the current evidence supporting the use of telemedicine in resource limited settings would build the evidence base and should provide a focus for future research. It would also serve to raise the profile of this potentially important research field.

Tense, aspect and mood in first and second language acquisition Emmanuelle Labeau, Inès Saddour, 2012-01. Tense aspect and mood have attracted much attention in the areas of both first and second language acquisition but scholars in the two disciplines often fail to learn from each other. Western European languages have also been the focus of most studies but there would be lessons to learn from less studied languages. This volume offers new insights on tense aspect and mood by bringing together the findings of first and second language acquisition and comparing child and adult monolingual and multilingual learning processes that are approached from various theoretical points of view. In addition it spans over a wide range of less studied languages. Bulgarian Hebrew Korean Russian and Western European languages are studied from new angles.
