Leaving Havana Conchita Hernandez Hicks,2011-02 Cuba was a playground for the wealthy in the 1950s It was a place to bask in the sun during the day and enjoy many fine nightclubs restaurants theaters and casinos after the sun went down Many wealthy Americans traveled to Cuba for both business and pleasure In January of 1959 everything changed I was a little girl in Cuba at that time I was living a life of luxury with practically anything that my little heart desired My family had a chauffeur and homes in the city in the country and at the beach I had my own nanny I had parents and grandparents that loved me and lived close by so that I could see them almost every day I was truly living a fairy tale existence In what seemed like the blink of an eye my world came crashing down around me Fidel Castro took over Cuba and made devastating changes to the country and to the lives of those who lived there The fairy tale quickly came to an end Many difficult decisions had to be made by my parents and by many others The world that we knew no longer existed We had to leave loved ones and property behind We had to move forward to a new life in a different country with different customs and a different language and there was no turning back of my lifestories of love exceptional friendships pets raising humans marriage at its best and worst really mean people holiday memories men being men and much more At age fifty eight I discovered I had a message I wanted to share A message that contained memories from childhood to retirement wonderful and sometimes painful life lessons praise and criticism regarding my community and events and people that made me angry and disillusioned I found an outlet for many hurtful experiences Also I found a way to channel my political feelings Writing became my therapist
