The Secret Cemetery Doris Francis, Leonie Kellaher, Georgina Neophytou, 2020-07-12 Burial sites have long been recognized as a way to understand past civilizations Yet the meanings of our present day cemeteries have been virtually ignored even though they reveal much about our cultures Exploring an extraordinarily diverse range of memorial practice Greek Orthodox Muslim Jewish Roman Catholic and Anglican as well as the unchurched The Secret Cemetery is an intriguing study of what these places of death mean to the living Most of us experience cemeteries at a ritualized moment of loss What we forget is that these are often places to which we return either as a general space in which to contemplate or as a specific site to be tended These are also places where different communities can reinforce boundaries and even recreate a sense of homeland Over time ritual artefact and place shape an intensely personal landscape of memory and mourning a landscape more alive more actively engaged with than many of the other places we inhabit The Secret Cemetery Doris human life noted in the creeds his conception birth suffering death and burial are events which would likely appear in a syllabus for a course in social anthropology for they are of special interest and concern in human life and also sites of contention and controversy where what it is to be human is discovered constructed and contested In other words these are the occasions for profound and continuing questioning regarding the meaning of human life as controversies to do with IVF abortion euthanasia and the use of bodies or body parts post mortem plainly indicate Thus the following questions arise how do the instances in Christ's life represent human life and how do these representations relate to present day cultural norms expectations and newly emerging modes of relationship themselves shaping and framing human life How does the Christian imagination of human life which dwells on and draws from the life of Christ not only articulate its own but also come into conversation with and engage other moral imaginaries of the human Michael Banner argues that consideration of these questions requires study of moral theology therefore he reconceives its nature and tasks and in particular its engagement with social anthropology Drawing from social anthropology and Christian thought and practice from many periods and influenced especially by his engagement in public policy matters including as a member of the UK's Human Tissue Authority

Sidaway, 2016-05-13 Death is at once a universal and everyday but also an extraordinary experience in the lives of those affected Death and bereavement are thereby intensified at and frequently contained within certain sites and regulated spaces such as the hospital the cemetery and the mortuary However death also affects and unfolds in many other spaces the home public spaces and places of worship sites of accident tragedy and violence Such spaces or Deathscapes are intensely private and personal places while often simultaneously being shared collective sites of experience and remembrance each place mediated through the intersections of emotion body belief culture society and the state Bringing together geographers sociologists anthropologists cultural studies academics and historians among others this book focuses on the relationships between space place and death bereavement in western societies Addressing three broad themes the place of death the place of final disposition and spaces of remembrance and representation the chapters reflect a variety of scales ranging from the mapping of bereavement on the individual or in private domestic space through to sites of accident battle burial cremation and remembrance in public space The book also examines social and cultural changes in death and bereavement practices including personalisation and secularisation Other social trends are addressed by chapters on green and garden burial negotiating emotion in public private space remembrance of violence and disaster and virtual space A meshing of material and more than representational approaches consider the nature culture economy and politics of Deathscapes what are in effect some of the most significant places in human society Birth and Death in British Culture Anette Pankratz, Claus-Ulrich Viol, Ariane de Waal, 2012-04-25 Why discuss birth and death when they lie outside discourse And why look at them together when they are so much unlike each other one the moment of fresh beginnings joys and the relative certainties of existence the other the moment of life's end grief and the relative uncertainties of non existence Because it turns out that both events while virtually unrepresentable have spawned a host of representations narratives rites and attempts at making sense of them and because they may have more similarities than appears at first sight The 13 interdisciplinary articles collected in this volume prove that looking at the two phenomena in tandem throws into sharp relief the distinct patterns and functions of each while also highlighting some of the fundamental historical developments cultural functions and socio political issues shared by both The contributions take stock of the discourses of birth and death prevalent in British and Western culture probing into the way the two phenomena have been subjected to strategies of medialisation commodification and bio politics Secret Chicago: A Guide to the Weird, Wonderful, and Obscure Jessica Mlinaric, 2018-03-15 Embark on a scavenger hunt to the unknown and unusual corners of Chicago This endlessly interesting
