the origin of present day ELINT ELectronicINTElligence Modified RAF B 24D Airborne Electronic Reconnaissance Liberators codenamed Ferret were Radio Counter Measures and Electronic Intelligence aircraft that played a major role in European air operations During 1942 the AAF became interested in aerial refueling as a means to bombing Japan A shorter range B 17E was selected as the receiver aircraft while the more spacious B 24D acted as the tanker Although these tests were considered to be successful the availability of longer ranging B 29s and bases ever closer to Japan diminished the urgency of wartime aerial refueling During the war eighty three B 24s crashed or made forced landings in Switzerland sixty in Sweden and several in Russia Spain Portugal and Turkey Many of these Liberators landed undamaged or were repaired to be flown by these nations Of particular interest are the six Liberators that were captured and flown by the Luftwaffe Packed with a unique collection of photographs Special Operations Consolidated B 24 Liberators reveals the most unusual and little known facets of the Second World War s most versatile bomber Secrets of Q Central Paul Brown,Edward Herbert,2014-11-24 A quiet market town with no military presence was chosen as the secret communications centre for Britain as the country prepared for war with Germany in 1937 When hostilities began Q Central attracted a dozen other clandestine operations set up to defend the country or designed to confuse and undermine enemy morale The headquarters of radar RAF Group 60 also came to Leighton Buzzard to be hidden from German attack and to be close to the telephone and radio communications needed to run its vast chain of radar stations These directed the defending fighters that saved the country in the Battle of Britain and then took the bombing war to Germany Close by for the same reasons of secrecy and safety were the satellite stations of Bletchley Park the now famous code breaking centre the Met Office at Dunstable which gave the all clear for the D Day landings Black Ops units that set up false radio stations and wrote propaganda to confuse the enemy and airfields used for dropping agents behind enemy lines At Q Central itself was the largest telephone exchange in the world with more than 1 000 teleprinters communicating with all the armed services in every theatre of war and directing the operations of the secret services Now the restrictions of the Official Secrets Act have been lifted enabling eight members of the Leighton Buzzard and District Archaeology and History Society to piece together this compelling story for the first time The B-24 Liberator Haulers William Wolf,2024-09-30 With iconic images depicting it in the skies over Occupied Europe or the Far East the B 24 Liberator is remembered for its part in the Allies bombing campaigns during the Second World War But there was another part to this famous four engine aircraft one that is less well known While the Douglas C 47 Dakota is deservedly celebrated as the most important twin engine transport aircraft of the war the early use of the four engine Consolidated B 24 Liberator bomber as a passenger carrier is virtually unknown but was as important Since the B 24 had more interior room than the B 17 it could be more easily be converted into a personnel carrier These early Liberators operated America s and Britain s early diplomatic missions and then were to be extensively flown by the Atlantic Ferry Organization and the Transport Commands on missions that opened the world to air transport as never before Several B 24s were converted for VIP personal and diplomatic use which included Harriman's Moscow and round the world diplomatic mission and those used by Churchill and Eisenhower to get around. To meet the need for a cargo and personnel transport which had longer transoceanic range and improved high altitude performance than the C 47 in early 1942 the C 87 a hastily designed B 24 derivative was placed into production. By installing a built up floor section that replaced the bomb bay doors the C 87 could carry six tons of cargo loaded through a cargo door cut into the side of its fuselage or through a special hinged door in its nose. Most C 87s were operated by the US Ferrying Command and Air Transport Command by the late summer of 1943 they were extensively operating regular routes from the United States to the world's most remote areas. To meet this increased requirement for air transport the ATC was forced to turn to four civil commercial airlines for help operating the system. Of the 287 purpose built C 87s 24 were transferred to the RAF under Lend Lease for RAF Ferry and Transport Command. The C 87 would remain as a prime mover until the dedicated C 54 Skymaster four engine transport came into service. The 218 C 109s were fuel tanker conversions of completed B 24 bombers which had all armament removed and extra fuel tanks added to carry fuel from India for B 29s based in China. Due to the lack of C 47s after D Day conventional B 24s were again converted for transporting vital supplies and bulk fuel to troops in France. Once Allied troops broke out of the Normandy beachhead converted Liberators flew Trucking supply drop operations delivering emergency fuel and supplies to Patton's fuel starved armies racing across France. Later these B 24s supplied the ill fated Operation Market Garden at Arnhem. Squadron of Deception Stephen M. Hutton, 1999. Here at last is the exciting detailed story of the U S Eighth Air Force's only Radar Countermeasure squadron that flew from England during World War II. This book tells of the men of the elite 36th Bomb Squadron and the special operations they flew in modified B 24s to jam the German radar which controlled the fighter and flak batteries. Here too is the story of the men behind the scenes who sought to develop an extension of modern air warfare into the electronic arena and keep ahead of German scientists in the War in the Ether. This chronological account gathered from secret records, personal diaries and interviews with the Old Crows describes the night missions with the Royal Air Force and the daylight missions with the Eighth. The first jamming mission on the morning of D Day contributed materially to the success of the landings on the beachhead. Later missions during the Battle of the Bulge involved trickery, ingenious deception, spoofs and tank communications jamming. This squadron flew on bad weather days when the rest of the Eighth Air Force stood down and paid its price in blood. Before the war in Europe ended the 36th Bomb Squadron screened Eighth Air Force radio transmissions to stop the enemy from learning important mission details. Here now is the story of how this secret squadron saved many Allied lives during World War II. Included are over 330 rare photographs and illustrations never before published. British Propaganda in the Twentieth Century Philip M. Taylor, 2019-08-08. Philip M Taylor analyses the period from World War One to the present day and demonstrates how Britain has established a model for the dissemination of democratic propaganda world wide. His writing covers films, radio, television and the press. A - Airports British Library, 2012-05-21. No

Bowman,2010-09-30 Relates how the American Eighth Air Force bombers helped Britain's Royal Air Force in fighting Germany during World War II ProtoView From the beginning of World War II the RAF's Bomber Command had been the only means of striking Hitler's Reich and its war machine But the entry into the war of the United States and the subsequent arrival in the UK of the Eighth Air Force would more than double the Allied capability The Flying Fortress and Liberator heavy bombers were mostly flown across the Atlantic by their young green aircrew and many succumbed en route and never arrived Flying in northern Europe was a different ball game from American skies and it took a considerable time before the crews familiarized themselves with the vagaries of fog low cloud rain and snow The American bombers bristled with defensive armament and elected to fly in close defensive formation during the day leaving the RAF to carry out nighttime raids With the arrival of long range protective escort fighters the task became a little easier This book is the story including many firsthand accounts of how the American bomber force helped fight to eventual victory by decimating German industry and transport systems and breaking the Nazi war spirit Bomb Group Paul Bingley,Mike Peters,2022-11-03 The authors do a good job using the diaries interviews and books written by group members to convey a vivid sometimes too vivid picture of war at its most elemental The Journal of the Air Force Historical Foundation In February 1942 a reconnaissance party of United States Army Air Force officers arrived in England Firmly wedded to the doctrine of daylight precision bombing they believed they could help turn the tide of the war in Europe In the months that followed they formed the Eighth Air Force an organization that grew at an astonishing rate To accommodate it almost seventy airfields were hastily built across the eastern counties of England At the heart of the Eighth Air Force was its bombardment groups each equipped with scores of heavily armed four engine bombers These Boeing B 17 Flying Fortresses and Consolidated B 24 Liberators were soon punching through the enemy's defenses to bomb targets vital to its war effort They were crewed by thousands of young American airmen most of whom were volunteers This book tells the story of just one Bomb Group the 381st which crossed the Atlantic in May 1943 Arriving at RAF Ridgewell on the Essex Suffolk border its airmen quickly found themselves thrown into the hazardous and attritional air battle raging in the skies over Europe The 381st's path led from its formation in the Texan desert to its 297th and final bombing mission deep into the heart of Hitler's Third Reich This is the remarkable story of one group and the part it played in the strategic bombing campaign of The Mighty Eighth The Aeronautical Journal ,1990 Aerospace ,1990 B-17 Groups of the Eighth Air Force Martin W.
