Copyright Office, 1978 Performing Memory in Art and Popular Culture Liedeke Plate, Anneke Smelik, 2013-04-02 This volume pursues a new line of research in cultural memory studies by understanding memory as a performative act in art and popular culture The authors take their cue from the observation that art and popular culture enact memory and generate processes of memory They do memory and in this doing of memory new questions about the cultural dimensions of memory arise How do art objects and artistic practices perform the past in the present What is their relationship to the archive Does the past speak in the performed past or do we speak to it To what purpose do objects recall And for whom do they recollect Here authors combine a methodological focus on memory as performance with a theoretical focus on art and popular culture as practices of remembrance The essays in the book thus analyze what is at stake in the complex processes of remembering and forgetting of recollecting and disremembering of amnesia and anamnesis that make up cultural memory Artaud the Moma Jacques Derrida, 2017-09-19 In 1996 Jacques Derrida gave a lecture at the Museum of Modern Art in New York on the occasion of Antonin Artaud Works on Paper one of the first major international exhibitions to present the avant garde dramatist and poet's paintings and drawings Derrida's original title Artaud the Moma is a characteristic play on words It alludes to Artaud's calling himself M mo Marseilles slang for fool upon his return to Paris in 1946 after nine years in various asylums while playing off of the museum's nickname MoMA But the title was not deemed presentable or decent in Derrida's words by the very institution that chose to exhibit Artaud's work Instead the lecture was advertised as Jacques Derrida will present a lecture about Artaud's drawings. For Derrida, what was at stake was what it meant for the museum to exhibit Artaud's drawings and for him to lecture on Artaud in that institutional context. Thinking over the performative force of Artaud's work and the relation between writing and drawing, Derrida addresses the multiplicity of Artaud's identities to confront the modernist museum's valorizing of originality. He channels Artaud's spectral speech and struggle against representation to attempt to hold the museum accountable for trying to confine Artaud within its categories. Artaud the Moma as lecture and text reveals the challenge that Artaud posed to Derrida and to art and its institutional history. A powerful interjection into the museum halls, this work is a crucial moment in Derrida's thought and an insightful unsparing reading of a challenging writer and artist.

Perfume on the Page in Nineteenth-Century France

Cheryl Krueger, 2023-06-26. Despite long-standing assertions that languages including French and English cannot sufficiently communicate the experience of smell, much of France's nineteenth-century literature has gained praise for its memorable evocation of odours. As French perfume was industrialized, democratized, cosmeticized, and feminized in the nineteenth century, stories of fragrant scent trails aligned perfume with toxic behaviour and viewed a woman's scent as something alluring but also something to be controlled. Drawing on a wealth of resources, Perfume on the Page in Nineteenth-Century France explores how fiction and related writing on olfaction meet, permeate, and illuminate one another. The book examines medical tracts, letters, manuscripts, posters, print advertisements, magazine articles, perfume manuals, etiquette books, interviews, and encounters with fragrant materials themselves. Cheryl Krueger explores how the olfactory language of a novel or poem conveys the distinctiveness of a text, its unique relationship to language, its style, and its ways of engaging the reader, its signature scent. Shedding light on the French perfume culture that we know today, Perfume on the Page in Nineteenth-Century France follows the scent trails that ultimately challenge us to read perfume and literature in new ways.
