Aristotle used a secondary standard for testing the results of this inquiry namely one which he originally developed for investigations into physically remote meteorological and cosmological phenomena that are not apparent to observation and according to which statements of facts are credible if they are ontologically possible Leunissen thus reconstructs Aristotle's gynecology in the context of his commitments to empiricism and his scientific methods for the fact establishing phase of natural science and elucidates the role his concepts of evidence credibility and signs play in his natural scientific research However through its focus on Aristotle's use of gendered knowledge and his reconstruction of natural phenomena believed to be characteristic of women Leunissen's book also offers a glimpse of the lived experiences and reproductive beliefs of women in Ancient Greece
