New Technologies And The Firm Innovation And Competition:

New Technologies and the Firm Peter Swann, 2018-04-09 Originally published in 1993 this book presents the findings of 14 teams involved in a research initiative to examine the initiation and response to innovation in firms. It draws together the many strands which were discovered to influence the successful generation and adoption of new technologies. The core issues in technology management are looked at including skills and expertise, markets and marketing, finance and the issue of technology collaboration both on a domestic and international basis. Technology is shown to be at the very heart of corporate strategy and policy formation.

New Technology Policy and Social Innovations in the Firm Jorge Niosi, 2014-02-04 In the light of increased discussion of technology policy by all major industrial countries, this volume presents the state of the debates and institutional change in the United States, the United Kingdom, the European Union and Canada. It goes on to present studies of the major changes taking place in these countries with regards to the adoption of new technology and the reorganization of institutions to suit these changes.

Microdynamics of Technological Change Cristiano Antonelli, 2002-01-04 This volume presents a comprehensive assessment of the economic effects of the emerging information and communication technologies associated with a knowledge based economy and looks at how knowledge is increasingly treated as a product in its own right. An original framework is developed to comprehend these fundamental shifts based on three bodies of knowledge: the economics of path dependence and of historical time as they are elaborated in the economics of new technologies; economic topology based on the methodology of network analysis; the new economics of knowledge and the concept of localized technological change. This book provides a unified analytical framework for the study of the transition of advanced economic systems towards a knowledge based economy.

IBSS: Economics: 1993 Vol 42, 1994 This bibliography lists the most important works published in economics in 1993. Financial Strategies in Competitive Markets Hasan Dinçer, Serhat Yüksel, 2021-04-13 As globalization continues to rapidly evolve, economic borders between countries have practically disappeared. One effect is that nowadays companies can access new markets by investing in other countries. This offers an important advantage, especially for international and large scale companies. However, one result is the increased market competition. Small scale local firms and SMEs have to compete with international firms and corporations that have significantly more resources. This competitive environment jeopardizes the sustainability of the smaller companies which often are driven out of business by the more powerful global players. This book discusses financial strategies for small and middle size companies to increase their competitiveness in the global markets.

Innovation, Technology and Hypercompetition Hans-Werner Gottinger, 2013-01-11 Gottinger's previous book did very well in terms of sales. The Studies in Global Competition series is fast becoming one of our leading outlets for new research. Author can draw on Asian and European data as a German national based in Japan.

The Market Power of Technology Mordecai Kurz, 2023-01-03 Since the 1980s the United States has regressed to a level of economic inequality not seen since the Gilded Age in the late nineteenth century. At the same time technological innovation has transformed society and a core priority of public policy has been promoting innovation. What is the relationship between economic inequality and technological change? Mordecai Kurz develops a comprehensive integrated theory of the dynamics of market power and income inequality. He shows that technological innovations are not simply sources of growth and progress; they sow the seeds of market power. In a free market economy with intellectual property rights, firms' control over technology enables them to expand, attain monopoly power, and earn exorbitant profits. Competition among innovators does not eliminate market power because technological competition is different from standard competition; it results in only one or two winners. Kurz provides a pioneering analysis grounded on quantifying technological market power and its effects on inequality, innovation, and economic growth. He outlines what causes market power to rise and fall and details its macroeconomic and distributional consequences. Kurz demonstrates that technological market power tends to rise, increasing inequality of income and wealth. Unchecked inequality threatens the foundations of democracy; public policy is the only counterbalancing force that can restrain corporate power, attain more egalitarian distribution of wealth, and make democracy compatible with capitalism. Presenting a new paradigm for understanding today's vast inequalities, this book offers detailed proposals to redress them by restricting corporate mergers and acquisitions, reforming patent law, improving the balance of power in the labor market, increasing taxation, promoting upward mobility, and stabilizing the middle class.

Technology and Strategy Richard Arthur Goodman, Michael W. Lawless, 1994 Technology and Strategy is a comprehensive guide to creating a strategic plan that incorporates technological growth. Using real-life examples from industries from electronics to bio-technology, the authors present the tools planners need to integrate a firm's technological capabilities with its strategic plan. Importantly, the book also addresses broader questions about the role of technology, clarifying when it aids innovation, when it is evolutionary, and when it is revolutionary. These questions are tested against trends such as Total Quality Management, the resource-based view of strategy, and the increase in external acquisition of technology. Offering clear guidance through an increasingly complex area, Technology and Strategy will be a valuable reference for practising executives, general managers, strategic planners, R&D executives, and manufacturers.
