Expressionism and Poster Design in Germany 1905-1922 Kathleen G. Chapman,2019-01-21 In Expressionism and Poster Design in Germany 1905 1925 Kathleen Chapman re defines Expressionism by situating it in relation to the most common type of picture in public space during the Wilhelmine twentieth century the commercial poster Focusing equally on visual material and contemporaneous debates surrounding art posters and the image in general this study reveals that conceptions of a modern image were characterized not so much by style or mode of production and distribution but by a visual rhetoric designed to communicate more directly than words As instances of such rhetoric Expressionist art and posters emerge as equally significant examples of this modern image demonstrating the interconnectedness of the aesthetic the utilitarian and the commercial in European modernism

Rethinking Malevich Charlotte Douglas,Christina Lodder,2007-12-31 The Russian artist Kazimir Malevich was one of the great figures of twentieth century art and a pioneer of abstraction whose painting The Black Square of 1915 has become an icon of modernism Yet he is a creative figure about whom much still remains to be elucidated Soviet scholarship ignored him for decades and Western scholars were inevitably only able to work with the limited visual and documentary material that was available to them It was only after the fall of Communism in 1991 that access to such material became easier This book represents the fruits of the research that has been conducted since then by a range of Russian and Western scholars who have been able to shed vital new light on the artist's life, his training, his art, his career, his relationships with other artists and movements and his theories

The Chameleon Effect Dietmar Froehlich, 2018-04-09 Architecture and film have many things in common. Film narratives are embedded in scenes that visually support the story. Sometimes architecture even performs the role of an actor. Conversely, film with its multifaceted, changing atmospheres reveals new layers of architecture which outside the cinema would remain concealed. In conclusion, film as a mass medium influences the way architecture is perceived and its image in society. Since the beginning of cinema, architecture has formed a symbiosis with film. With its systematic analysis, this book offers a scientifically researched history of mutual influence, starting with filmography as a typology of well-known film sets through to the description of the chameleon effect between film and architecture.
