New Priesthood British Television Today:

The New Priesthood: British Television Today Joan Bakewell, Nicholas Garnham, 1970 Interviews Independent Television in Britain Jeremy Potter, 2016-07-27 The ITV network was designed as a federation of companies different in size and character jointly and severally constructing programme schedules in which strands of entertainment were interwoven with news bulletins drama with sport feature films with documentaries church services with broadcasting for schools The purpose of this volume is to convey some impression of diversity by illustrating and illuminating the rich assortment of companies and programmes making up ITV's overall service to the public in the operation of a plural system on a single television channel during a peak period in British broadcasting Television Toby Miller, 2003 Television Producers Jeremy Tunstall, 2003-09-02 Covering all the major areas of television production this in depth work highlights the widely varying influences difficulties and opportunities at work in the industry Each kind of producer across the seven areas here examined faces the same practical issues of budget talent and equipment resources and end product expectations however the self image of the producers and the creative environment in which they work can differ greatly from one programming sector to the next and whilst their careers may run parallel they are usually cut off from one another ideologically Based on interviews from over two hundred and fifty producers working across a selection of British television channels as well as producers of a number of high profile American shows this book takes in a panoramic view of production models at work today and concludes with some insightful suggestions for the future Personality Presenters Frances Bonner, 2016-05-06 Television presenters are key to the sociability of the medium speaking directly to viewers as intermediaries between audiences and those who are interviewed perform or compete on screen As targets of both great affection and derision from viewers and the subjects of radio internet magazine and newspaper coverage many have careers that have lasted almost as long as post war television itself Nevertheless as a profession television presenting has received little scholarly attention Personality Presenters explores the role of the television presenter analysing the distinct skills possessed by different categories of host and the expectations and difficulties that exist with regard to the promotion of the various films books consumer and cultural products with which they are associated The close involvement of presenters with the content that they present is examined while the impact of the presenters own celebrity on the tasks that they perform is scrutinised With a focus on non fiction entertainment shows such as game shows lifestyle and reality shows chat daytime and talk shows this book explores issues of consumer culture advertising and celebrity as well as the connection of presenters with ethical issues Offering detailed case studies of internationally recognised presenters as well comparisons between national presenters from the UK and Australia Personality Presenters provides a rich discussion of television presenters as significant conduits in the movement of ideas As such it will appeal to sociologists as well as those working in the fields of popular culture cultural and media studies and cultural theory Secular Magic and the Moving Image Max Sexton, 2017-12-14 The power of the moving image to conjure marvelous worlds has usually been to understand it in terms of move magic On film a fascination for enchantment and wonder has transmuted older beliefs in the supernatural into secular attractions But this study is not about the history of special effects or a history of magic Rather it attempts to determine the influence and status of secular magic on television within complex modes of delivery before discovering interstices with film Historically the overriding concern on television has been for secular magic that informs and empowers rather than a fairytale effect that deceives and mystifies Yet shifting notions of the real and the uncertainty associated with the contemporary world has led to television developing many different modes that have become capable of constant hybridization The dynamic interplay between certainty and indeterminacy is the key to understanding secular magic on television and film and exploring the interstices between them Sexton ranges from the real time magic of street performers such as David Blaine Criss Angel and Dynamo to Penn and Teller s comedy magic to the hypnotic acts of Derren Brown before finally visiting the 2006 films The Illusionist and The Prestige Each example charts how the lack of clear distinctions between reality and illusion in modes of representation and presentation disrupt older theoretical oppositions Secular Magic and the Moving Image not only re evaluates questions about modes and styles but raises further questions about entertainment and how the relations between the program maker and the audience resemble those between the conjuror and spectator By re thinking these overlapping practices and tensions and the marking of the indeterminacy of reality on media screens it becomes possible to revise our understanding of inter medial relations

Adapting Science Fiction to Television Max Sexton, Malcolm Cook, 2015-07-01 Before it reached television science fiction existed on the printed page in comic books and on movie screens for decades Adapting science fiction to the new medium posed substantial challenges Small viewing screens and limited production facilities made it difficult to achieve the sense of wonder that had become the genre's hallmark Yet television also offered unprecedented opportunities Its serial nature allowed for longer more complex stories as well as developing characters and building suspense over time Producers of science fiction television programming learned to create adaptations that honored the source material literature comics or film while taking full advantage of television's unique aesthetic In Adapting Science Fiction to Television Small Screen Expanded Universe Max Sexton and Malcolm Cook examine how the genre evolved over time The authors consider productions in both the UK and the United States ranging from Walt Disney's acclaimed Man in Space in the 1950s to the BBC's reimagined Day of the Triffids in the 1990s Iconic characters from Flash Gordon and Captain Nemo to Superman and Professor Quatermass all play a role in this history along with such authors as E. M. Forster and Wernher von Braun The real stars of this study however are the pioneering producers and directors who learned how to bring imagined worlds and fantastic stories into living rooms across the globe The authors make the case that television has become more sophisticated capable of taking on larger themes and deploying a more complex use of the image than other media A unique reappraisal of the history and dynamics of the medium Adapting Science Fiction Television will be of interest not only to scholars of science fiction but to anyone interested in the early history of television as well as the evolution of its unique capacity to tell stories
