New Public Management Tom Christensen, Per Lægreid, 2018-03-31 This title was first published in 2002 These papers examine the dynamics of comprehensive civil service reform in Norway Sweden New Zealand and Australia The book challenges the globalization thesis which maintains that New Public Management is spreading fast around the world and generating convergence between civil service systems The authors argue that administrative reforms are transformed by a complex mixture of environmental pressure policy features and historical and institutional contexts and that this transformation implies substantial divergence and organizational variety and heterogeneity There is therefore a need to look behind the new NPM orthodoxy and to develop a more differentiated view of the problems of governing the public sector Three forms of NPM are studied in the text First the transformation of the reforms themselves which is examined by focusing on NPM reform processes ideas and content Second the transformation of administrative systems the effects of NPM reforms on political administrative control organized interests policy capacity and governmental culture Third the transformation of theory and the implications of NPM for reform theory and democratic ideas

Administrative Culture in Developing and Transitional Countries Ishtiaq Jamil, Steinar Askvik, Farhad Hossain, 2016-03-17 The book explores theoretical methodological and empirical underpinnings of administrative culture as well as prospects and challenges associated with it in the context of and across developing and transitional countries Referring to dominant norms and values in public organizations administrative culture is about the attitudes and perceptions of public officials In many countries civil servants are criticised for being corrupt incompetent unreliable and self centred Their attitudes norms and values and the way they act are in constant conflict with rule of law Recently the virtues of the Weberian model of bureaucracy have been reclaimed as an alternative to New Public Management NPM i e as a model which emphasizes impartiality rule following expertise and hierarchy rather than manipulation of incentive structures and market competition In particular it has been argued that a system of meritocratic recruitment and predictable long term careers increases the professional competence of the bureaucrats and fosters a culture of professionalism among them Still it is unclear how and under what conditions such a model can be adopted Among main hindrances seems to be established power structures and the existing political and societal culture which undermine the effective implementation of the Weberian model This book was published as a special issue of the International Journal of Public Administration Handbook on the Politics of Public Administration Ladner, Andreas, Sager, Fritz, 2022-10-13 This innovative Handbook puts the politics of public administration at the forefront providing comprehensive insights and comparative perspectives of the different aspects of the field New Steering Concepts in Public Management Steven Van de Walle, Sandra Groeneveld, 2011-10-17 Multifaceted social problems such as safety social inclusion poverty mobility rural development city regeneration or labour market integration require integrated approaches to steering This book looks at various organisational arrangements and mechanisms including whole of government collaborative governance and outcome steering Autonomy and Control of State Agencies K.
