New State Spaces Urban Governance And The Rescaling Of Statehood:

New State Spaces Neil Brenner, 2004 Simultaneously analysing the restructuring of urban governance and the transformation of national states under globalising capitalism New State Spaces is a mature analysis of broad interdisciplinary interest

New Urban Spaces Neil Brenner, 2019-05-24 The urban condition is today being radically transformed Urban restructuring is accelerating new urban spaces are being consolidated and new forms of urbanization are crystallizing In New Urban Spaces Neil Brenner argues that understanding these mutations of urban life requires not only concrete research but new theories of urbanization To this end Brenner proposes an approach that breaks with inherited conceptions of the urban as a bounded settlement unit the city or the metropolis and explores the multiscalar constitution and periodic rescaling of the capitalist urban fabric Drawing on critical geopolitical economy and spatialized approaches to state theory Brenner offers a paradigmatic account of how rescaling processes are transforming inherited formations of urban space and their variegated consequences for emergent patterns and pathways of urbanization The book also advances an understanding of critical urban theory as radically revisable key urban concepts must be continually reinvented in relation to the relentlessly mutating worlds of urbanization they aspire to illuminate

The Making of Grand Paris Theresa Enright, 2016-07-22 A critical examination of metropolitan planning in Paris the Grand Paris initiative and the building of today's networked global city In 2007 the French government announced the Grand Paris initiative This ambitious project reimagined the Paris region as integrated balanced global sustainable and prosperous Metropolitan solidarity would unite divided populations a new transportation system the Grand Paris Express would connect the affluent city proper with the low income suburbs streamlined institutions would replace fragmented governance structures Grand Paris is more than a redevelopment plan it is a new paradigm for urbanism In this first English language examination of Grand Paris Theresa Enright offers a critical analysis of the early stages of the project considering whether it can achieve its twin goals of economic competitiveness and equality Enright argues that by orienting the city around growth and marketization Grand Paris reproduces the social and spatial hierarchies it sets out to address For example large expenditures for the Grand Paris Express are made not for the public good but to increase the attractiveness of the region to private investors setting off a real estate boom encouraging gentrification and leaving many residents still unable to get from here to there Enright describes Grand Paris as an example of what she calls grand urbanism large scale planning that relies on infrastructural megaprojects to reconfigure urban regions in pursuit of speculative redevelopment Democracy and equality suffer under processes of grand urbanism Given the logic of commodification on which Grand Paris is based these are likely to suffer as the project moves forward

Social Justice draws on the fields of geography political theory and cultural studies to analyze experiments with novel forms of democracy highlighting the critical issue of the changing nature of the state and citizenship in the contemporary political landscape as they are buffeted by countervailing forces of corporate globalization and participatory politics Using interesting case studies the book explores these 3 main themes the meaning of radical democracy in light of recent developments in democratic theory new spatial arrangements or scales of democracy from local to global from streets protests to the development of transnational networks the character and role of states in the development of new forms of democracy The book asks and answers are participatory models of democracy viable alternatives in their own right or are they best understood as supplemental to traditional representative democracy What are the conditions that give rise to the development of such models and are they equally effective at every scale i e do they only realize their radical potential in particular local places A useful text in a broad range of advanced undergraduate courses including social movements political sociology or geography political philosophy

Contradictions of Neoliberal Planning Tuna Taşan-Kok, Guy Baeten, 2011-09-24 This book argues that the concepts of neoliberalism and neoliberalisation while in common use across the whole range of social sciences have thus far been generally overlooked in planning theory and the analysis of planning practice Offering insights from papers presented during a conference session at a meeting of the Association of American Geographers in Boston in 2008 and a number of commissioned chapters this book fills this significant hiatus in the study of planning What the case studies from Africa Asia North America and Europe included in this volume have in common is that they all reveal the uneasy cohabitation of planning some kind of state intervention for the betterment of our built and natural environment and neoliberalism a belief in the superiority of market mechanisms to organize land use and the inferiority of its opposite state intervention Planning if anything may be seen as being in direct contrast to neoliberalism as something that should be rolled back or even annihilated through neoliberal practice To combine neoliberal and planning in one phrase then seems awkward at best and an outright oxymoron at worst To admit to the very existence or epistemological possibility of neoliberal planning may appear to be a total surrender of state planning to market superiority or in other words the simple acceptance that the management of buildings transport infrastructure parks conservation areas etc beyond the profit principle has reached its limits in the 21st century Planning in this case would be reduced to a mere facilitator of market forces in the city be it gentle or authoritarian Yet in spite of these contradictions and outright impossibilities planners operate within contribute to resist or temper an increasingly neoliberal mode of producing spaces and places or the revival of profit driven changes in land use It is this contradiction between the serving of private profit seeking interests while actually seeking the public betterment of cities that this volume has sought to describe explore analyze and make sense of through a set of case studies covering a wide range of planning issues in various countries This book lays bare just how spatial planning functions in an age of market triumphalism how planners respond to the overruling profit principle in land allocation and what is left of non profit driven developments
