Community By Design: New Urbanism for Suburbs and Small Communities Kenneth B. Hall, Jr., Gerald A. Porterfield, 2001-04-02. More than 50% of Americans live in suburban and exurban communities, and populations are increasing as more people seek green spaces, better access to education, retirement living, and homeownership. Yet these communities, with smaller budgets and no long-term growth planning, are unprepared for the problems: traffic congestion, poor air quality, and strip malls, to name a few that are now plaguing them. Community by Design, authored by two specialists in suburban and exurban design and development, shows how to apply good planning practices to these smaller communities.

Bootstrap New Urbanism Joseph A. Rodriguez, 2014-08-26. Joseph A. Rodriguez critically examines the urban design and revitalization initiatives undertaken by both the government and the people of Milwaukee, Wisconsin. In the 1990s, New Urbanists followed a city tradition of using urban design to solve problems while seeking to elevate the city's national reputation and status. While New Urbanism was not the only design element undertaken to further Milwaukee's redevelopment, the elite focus on New Urbanism reflected an attempt to fashion a self-help narrative for the revitalization of the city. This approach linked New Urbanist design to the strengthening of grassroots community organizing and volunteerism to solve urban problems.

Bootstrap New Urbanism: Design, Race, and Redevelopment in Milwaukee uncovers a practice with implications for urban history, architectural history, planning history, environmental design, ethnic studies, and urban politics.

New Urbanism Robert Steuteville, Philip Langdon, 2009. Helps architects, planners, urban designers, landscape architects, builders, developers, public officials, students, and citizens understand how one of the most vital planning movements is reshaping today's cities, suburbs, small towns, and neighborhoods.
