Psychology and Social Responsibility Sylvia Staub, Paula Green, 1992-06 This book brings together for the first time many of the leading writers and thinkers from the psychological and mental health fields Contributors include Robert Jay Lifton Joanna Macy Roger Walsh and others The Peace Psychology Bulletin, 1992 The Psychology of Environmental Problems Deborah Du Nann Winter, Susan M. Koger, Deborah Dunann Winter, 2014-04-04 A revision of Winter's Ecological Psychology 1996 this book applies psychological theory and research to environmental problems After outlining current environmental difficulties the authors demonstrate how 6 major approaches in psychology social psychological psychoanalytic behavioral physiological cognitive and holistic can be applied to environmental problems The authors demonstrate why it is critical to address environmental threats now and offer ideas on how psychological principles can contribute to building a sustainable culture Personal examples engage the reader and provide suggestions for changing behavior and political structures Reorganized and updated throughout the second edition features a new chapter on neuropsychological and health issues and a list of key concepts in each chapter Cartoons and humorous analogies add a light touch to the book's serious message Written for psychology and environmental studies students the book is an excellent teaching tool in courses on environmental conservation or ecological issues found in departments of psychology sociology environmental science and biology It will also appeal to anyone interested in psychology's potential contributions to mounting ecological difficulties World Yearbook of Education 1998 David Hicks, Richard Slaughter, 2012-09-10 One of the central roles of education is to prepare students for the future and yet its study is often a neglected issue This work focuses on the future's field as an educational resource using case studies from around the world and on the nature of education for sustainability Participation in Environmental Organizations Benno Torgler, Maria A. Garcia-Valiñas, Alison Macintyre, 2010-07-02 For decades social scientists have searched for factors that shape pro environmental behaviour However only a few studies have investigated the causes and consequences of participation in environmental organizations This book fills the gap by analysing in detail the determinants of environmental participation and its consequences in different parts of the world Benno Torgler Maria A Garcia Valinas and Alison Macintyre seek the answer to several questions regarding who is working towards positive outcomes for our environment what sort of social and institutional context will assist voluntary participation what sort of attitudes are related to positive environmental behavior and which countries are active on the intergovernmental stage By focusing on voluntary participation in environmental organizations we are able to determine the level of willingness to work towards a solution for environmental problems This allows an insight into the motivations and attitudes of individuals and nations and how these factors can affect environmental cooperation Participation in Environmental Organizations sheds light on who is liable to participate and will help to see whose priorities and values are forwarded through voluntary activities and to what extent voluntary participation can become representative Thus the book provides a unique examination of citizens willingness to participate in environmental organizations The book will be of interest to Economics students and researchers alike who seek a deeper understanding of the theory and practice of environmental participation Collective Consciousness and Gender Alexandra

Walker,2018-08-22 This book explores collective consciousness and how it is applied to the pursuit of gender justice in international law It discusses how the collective mode of behaviour and identity can lead to unconscious role playing based on the social norms expectations or archetypes of a group Alexandra Walker contends that throughout history men have been constructed as archetypal dominators and women as victims In casting women in this way we have downplayed their pre existing innate capacities for strength leadership and power In casting men as archetypal dominators we have downplayed their capacities for nurturing care and empathy The author investigates the widespread implications of this unconscious role playing arguing that even in countries in which women have many of the same legal rights as men gender justice and equality have been too simplistically framed as feminism and women s rights and that giving women the rights of men has not created gender balance This book highlights the masculine and feminine traits belonging to all individuals and calls on international law to reflect this gender continuum Engaged Buddhism in the West Christopher S. Schmid, Diego Salmerón, 2013-03-09 Hans van Ginkel Rector United Nations University The challenges of the world's future are linked to the growing share of the global population that will reside in urban areas UN projections indicate that by 2030 the world's urban population share will rise to 60 percent Of the two billion added to the global population 99 percent will be added to the urban areas of the world Of this number 95 percent will be in countries of the developing world As most people will live in urban areas we had better work to build and organize them as both attractive and less resource consuming places That is to promote sustainable urban development is to promote the creation of dense human settlements that are livable and have reduced their impacts on larger scale ecosystems While much attention has been focused on the mega cities those with a population of over 10 million the amount of people living in these places will remain almost constant while the smaller and medium size cities will be the great absorbers of the world s urban population Indeed it is predicted that while the absolute number of people that will live in urban centers of 10 million or more will increase from approximately 263 to 375 million between 2000 and 20 IS their share of the total urban population will only increase from 9 2 percent to 9 8 percent a 6 34 percent increase
