41 million immigrants in the United States represent 13.1 percent of the U.S. population. The U.S. born children of immigrants the second generation represent another 37.1 million people or 12 percent of the population. Thus together the first and second generations account for one out of four members of the U.S. population. Whether they are successfully integrating is therefore a pressing and important question. Are new immigrants and their children being well integrated into American society within and across generations? Do current policies and practices facilitate their integration? How is American society being transformed by the millions of immigrants who have arrived in recent decades? Resources in Education, 1996 Monthly Catalogue, United States Public Documents, 1994 The Preparation of Teachers of English as an Additional Language around the World Nihat Polat, Laura Mahalingappa, Hayriye Kayi-Aydar, 2021-08-09. This book fills a critical gap in a neglected area in current educational research: international teacher education. It focuses on the preparation of teachers of English as an additional language (EAL) in several world regions. The book consists of chapters by researchers in well established teacher education programs in 11 countries: Brazil, Canada, China, Finland, Greece, New Zealand, Russia, Saudi Arabia, South Korea, Turkey, and the United States of America. It takes a cross national comparative approach around four major focus areas: policy, research, curriculum, and practice, offering critical implications that can help improve EAL teacher education programs in different parts of the world. Teacher education is an area that has great potential for international cross pollination of ideas and actions, and this book represents an important first step along this road.
