Moving/Still Lindsay Price,2007 Softimage Ingrid Hoelzl,Remi Marie,2015-09-01 With today s digital technology the image is no longer a stable representation of the world but a programmable view of a database that is updated in real time It no longer functions as a political and iconic representation but plays a vital role in synchronic data to data relationships It is not only part of a program but it contains its own operating code the image is a program in itself Softimage aims to account for that new reality taking readers on a journey that gradually undoes our unthinking reliance on the apparent solidity of the photographic image and building in its place an original and timely theorization of the digital image in all its complexity one that promises to spark debate within the evolving fields of image studies and software studies

We Should Not Be Afraid of the Sky Emma Hooper, 2022-08-09 LONGLISTED FOR THE 2023 CAROL SHIELDS PRIZE FOR FICTION An epic boundary pushing tale of five young women rebelling against an era that relies on their submission from the acclaimed author of Etta and Otto and Russell and James During the golden age of the Roman Empire five girls enjoy a modest childhood in their small Portuguese village They race each other through lemon orchards and pick fresh fruit for the commander who overlooks his people from a large house on the hill Though the girls are all raised by different families there is one thing they know without a doubt they are sisters What they don't know is that their simple existence is about to be irrevocably changed When soldiers abduct them from their village and bring them to the commander the sisters are suddenly forced to confront long buried secrets that reveal their lives to be anything but ordinary Burgeoning on womanhood just as the Empire begins to show signs of crumbling around them they soon find themselves at the centre of a deadly standoff and must part ways to fight their own battles in order to survive One of Emma Hooper's most compelling novels yet We Should Not Be Afraid of the Sky is bursting at the seams with abstract miracles devastating tenderness hope desire and treachery with life and death in all their glory Demonstrating both the force and fragility of human nature Hooper urges us to consider how we'll each face our own final hour to examine what the end really means is it something to fear or is it a daring leap into the blaze of a new beginning

Cameras at War John Wade, 2020-07-30 A comprehensive history of the development and use of cameras in recording British military conflicts from the 1850s to the 1950s Books about war and the pictures that came out of conflict usually concentrate on the picture content But behind every picture there is a camera and that's what this book is about Profusely illustrated throughout with pictures of the cameras rather than the pictures they took it looks at one hundred years of conflict from the Crimean War to the Korean War It begins in the days when a photographer needed to be more of a scientist than an artist such were the difficulties of shooting and processing any photograph It ends with the cameras whose compact dimensions versatility and ease of use meant that photographers could largely forget the science and concentrate on the art Some cameras simply recorded events Others defined and changed the way those events proceeded These were the cameras that went to war and this is their story Praise for Cameras at War An amazing collection of superb photographs beginning with some from the Crimean War coupled with a brilliant narrative that emphasizes the use of photography to record conflict Where would we be without such evidentiary mementoes Books Monthly UK
