The Void of Ethics Patrizia McBride, 2006 In a pluralistic society without absolute standards of judgment how can an individual live a moral life This is the question Robert Musil 1880-1942 an Austrian born engineer and mathematician turned writer asked in essays plays and fiction that grapple with the moral ambivalence of modern life Though unfinished his monumental novel of Vienna in the febrile days before World War I The Man without Qualities is identified by German scholars as the most important literary work of the twentieth century In a fresh examination of his essays notebooks and fiction Patrizia McBride reconstructs Musil's understanding of ethics as a realm of experience that eludes language and thought After situating Musil's work within its contemporary cultural philosophical horizon as well as the historical background of rising National Socialism McBride shows how the writer's notion of ethics as a void can be understood as a coherent and innovative response to the crises haunting Europe after World War I She explores how Musil rejected the outdated rationalistic morality of humanism while simultaneously critiquing the irrationalism of contemporary art movements including symbolism impressionism and expressionism Her work reveals Musil's remarkable relevance today particularly those aspects of his thought that made him unfashionable in his own time a commitment to fighting ethical fundamentalism and a literary imagination that validates the pluralistic character of modern life

The Novels of Alex Miller Robert

Dixon,2020-07-16 One of Australia's most respected novelists Alex Miller's writing is both popular and critically well received. He is twice winner of Australia's premier literary prize the Miles Franklin Award. He has said that writing is his way of locating connections and his work is known for its deeply empathic engagement with relationships and cultures. This collection explores his early and later works including Miller's best known novels The Ancestor Game, Journey to the Stone Country, Lovesong and Autumn Laing. Contributors examine his intricately constructed plots, his interest in the nature of home and migration, the representation in his work of Australian history and culture and key recurring themes including art and Aboriginal issues. Also included is a memoir illustrated by photographs from his personal collection in which Alex Miller reflects on his writing life. With contributions from leading critics including Raimond Gaita, Peter Pierce, Ronald A. Sharp, Brenda Walker, Elizabeth Webby and Geordie Williamson, this collection is the first substantial critical analysis of Alex Miller's work. It is an invaluable resource for anyone teaching and studying contemporary Australian literature. The Manufacturers of Literature George Justice,2002-02 The book combines an examination of the network of material conditions of authorship and publishing during the century with literary readings in order to explore the mutually constitutive nature of literature, the material forces that influence its production and the social world of readers. Alasdair MacIntyre's Engagement with Marxism,2008-03-31 Although Alasdair MacIntyre is best known today as the author of After Virtue (1981), he was in the 1950s and 1960s one of the most erudite members of Britain's Marxist Left, being a militant within first the Communist Party, then the New Left and finally the heterodox Trotskyist International Socialism group. This selection of his essays on Marxism from that period aims to show that his youthful thought profoundly informed his mature ethics and that in the wake of the collapse of the state capitalist regimes in Russia and Eastern Europe, the powerful and optimistic revolutionary Marxist ethics of liberation he articulated in that period is arguably as salient to anti-capitalist activists today as it was half a century ago. Self-reflection in Literature,2019-12-16

Self reflection is fundamental for human thinking on many levels. Philosophy has described the mind's capacity to observe itself as a core element of human existence. Political and social sciences have shown how modern democracies depend on society's ability to critically reflect on their own values and practices. And literature of all ages has proven self reflexivity to be a crucial trait of cultural production. This volume provides the first diachronic panorama of genres, forms and functions of literary self reflection and their connections with social, political and philosophical discourses from the 17th century to the present. Far beyond the usual focus on postmodernist opacity, these contributions present a rich tradition of critical transparency. Literary texts that show us what is behind and beyond them. Reading Adorno Amirhosein Khandizaji,2019-06-27 This book draws on core concepts coined by Adorno such as identity thinking, the culture industry and his critique of the autonomous and rational subject to address the ills that plague neoliberal capitalist societies today. These ills range from the risk of a return to totalitarian tendencies to the global rise of the far right and anti feminist conceptions of motherhood Subsequent chapters outline the ways in which Adorno s thought can also be seen to redress the challenges of modern societies such as the critical function of artworks and the subversive potential of slow food and popular music The important underlying concern of the book is to highlight the continuing relevance of Adorno both in dealing with the failures of neo liberal capitalist societies and in his applicability to a wide range of disciplines

Portals of Promise Debbie Pushor, the Parent Engagement Collaborative the Parent Engagement Collaborative, 2013-10-30 Working with parents is a significant aspect of educators roles yet it is rare to find curriculum in teacher education programs designed to prepare individuals to consider in philosophical theoretical and pedagogical ways who they will be in relationship with parents and why Schools therefore remain hierarchical structures in which parents are marginalized in relation to decisions affecting teaching and learning This book begins with Pushor s conceptualization of a curriculum of parents a curriculum which explores beliefs and assumptions about parents a vision for education in which educators work alongside parents and family members in the learning and care of children and a desire for reform She describes a curriculum of parents in the form of three graduate teacher education courses which she lived out in relationship with students Graduate students then capture their experiences immersed in this curriculum what they each took up how it shaped their knowledge attitudes and practices and how they lived it out as they returned to their classrooms schools and early learning centres This book is a storied account of their intense immersion in a curriculum of parents and the resulting impact living that curriculum has had on who they are in relation to parents and families It is an honest and vulnerable account of their shared and individual journeys They puzzle over the complexities and the successes of their work and the resulting impact This is not a book of best practice but an invitation to other educators to consider as they did what they do and how it could be different
