Multicultural Literature for Children and Young Adults Mingshui Cai, 2002-10-30 There is much discussion of multiculturalism in education This is especially true of multicultural literature for children and young adults The rise of multicultural literature is a political rather than a literary movement it is a movement to claim space in literature and in education for historically marginalized social groups rather than one to renovate the craft of literature itself Multicultural literature has been closely bound with the cause of multiculturalism in general and thus has been confronted with resistance from conservatives This book discusses many of the controversial issues surrounding multicultural literature for children and young adults The volume begins with a look at some of the foundational and theoretical issues related to multicultural literature The second part of the book addresses issues related to the creation and critique of multicultural literature including the authorship of such works and the role of the reader in determining whether or not a work is multicultural The third looks at the place of multicultural literature in the education of children and young adults Throughout its discussion the book makes extensive references to a large body of multicultural fiction and provides a thorough review of research on this important topic Reflections on Literature for Children Francelia Butler, Richard Rotert, 1984 Verzameling artikelen uit verschillende delen van Children's Literature waarin diverse aspecten van de jeugdliteratuur sinds 1880 belicht worden en een aantal jeugdboekenschrijvers en hun werk besproken wordt text and concentrates on the profound interconnectivity between McEwan's The Cement Garden and Golding's Lord of the Flies. The focus is also placed upon depiction of childhood and in a more general sense human nature by both authors in relation to the literary tradition. The chapter traces various techniques employed by McEwan in the novel in order to refresh the already read and provide a modern vision of childhood and adolescence. The second and the third chapters are devoted to the intertextual discourse with the generic literary tradition namely Gothic fiction and psychological novel of development. Both chapters depict the ways generic conventions are used in The Cement Garden but also portray the author's deliberate departure and inversion of particular attributes of the genres. The author either provides the parody and inversion of the generic conventions or employs particular generic aspects in order to effectively express and emphasize certain issues brought about in the novel. Thanks to the skillful use of the genres and their conventions McEwan achieves an extraordinary effect and invites the reader to explore a complex network of literary allusions.
