Reform In Tsarist Russia:

Reform in Tsarist Russia Neil B. Weissman, 1981 Russia in the Nineteenth Century A. I. U. Polunov, Thomas C. Owen, L. G. Zakharova, 2015-02-12 This is a comprehensive interpretive history of Russia from the defeat of Napoleon to the eve of World War I. It is the first such work by a post-Soviet Russian scholar to appear in English. Drawing on the latest Russian and Western historical scholarship, Alexander Polunov examines the decay of the two central institutions of tsarist Russia: serfdom and autocracy. Polunov explains how the major social groups—the gentry, merchants, petty townspeople, peasants, and ethnic minorities—reacted to the Great Reforms and why, despite the emergence of a civil society and capitalist institutions, a reformist evolutionary path did not become an alternative to the Revolution of 1917. He provides detailed portraits of many tsarist bureaucrats and political reformers, complete with quotations from their writings to explain how the principle of autocracy, although significantly weakened by the Great Reforms in mid-century, reasserted itself under the last two emperors. Polunov stresses the relevance for Russians in the post-Soviet period of issues that remained unresolved in the pre-Revolutionary period, such as the question of private property in land and the relationship between state regulation and private initiative in the economy.

Russia's Great Reforms, 1855-1881 Ben Eklof, John Bushnell, Larissa Zakharova, 1994-06-22 The Great Reforms undertaken during the reign of Alexander II represented a unique attempt by the tsarist government to restructure virtually every aspect of Russian life, beginning with the emancipation of the serfs and continuing through reforms of local government, the judiciary, the military, education, the financial system, censorship, and other domains. This volume, the work of an international group of scholars that includes historians from Russia, maps out the major landmarks in the conceptualization and implementation of the Great Reforms during the reign of Alexander II and proposes a variety of perspectives from which to view them. From publisher's description.

was a zone of competition between the Persian Ottoman and the Russian Empires Yet over the course of the century a new generation of Armenian journalists scholars and writers worked to transform their geographically socially and linguistically fragmented communities threatened by regional isolation and dissent into a patriotic and nationally conscious population Lisa Khachaturian seeks to explain how this profoundly divided society managed to achieve a common cultural bond The national project that captivated nineteenth century Eastern Armenian intellectuals was a daunting task especially since their efforts were directed in the Caucasus a territory known for its volatile history its ethnic heterogeneity and its linguistic complexity Although this cultural and social maelstrom was both aggravated and tempered by the new Russian arena of economic growth urban development and heightened technology and communication diversity was hardly a recent phenomenon in the region it had been an endemic part of Caucasian history for centuries Armenians were no exception to this While the Georgians bound to their landed nobility generally lived within kingdoms the Armenians experienced centuries of forced resettlement migration and centuries of habitation among other peoples Some Armenians had settled in faraway countries but many remained in scattered colonies within the boundaries of historic Armenia This is a study of the formation of modern Armenian national consciousness under Imperial Russian rule The Tsarist acquisition of Armenian populated territory and consequent efforts to integrate this territory into the empire imposed sufficient unity to provide a basis for a nascent national movement The particular influences of Russian imperial rule met the Eastern Armenian communities to create a new environment for a modern national revival This book reviews how nineteenth century Armenian intellectuals discussed and conceived of the nation through the formation of the Armenian press This is a rare blend of national culture and communication networking
