Shadows and Enlightenment Michael Baxandall, 2017 Shadows are holes in light We see them all the time and sometimes we notice them but their part in our visual experience of the world is mysterious In this book an eminent art historian draws on contemporary cognitive science eighteenth century theories of visual perception and art history to discuss shadows and the visual knowledge they can offer Michael Baxandall begins by describing the physical constitution and different varieties of shadows He then sketches the eighteenth century empirical nativist debate on the role of shadows in the perception of shape Next he surveys modern research by cognitive scientists and machine vision workers explaining how research is divided on the issue of how far and by what means shadows help or hinder perception of shape Baxandall continues his exploration by recounting a neglected episode of shadow theory the observations of a group of mid eighteenth century French scientists and artists on shadows as related to light and space Finally he sets these various shadow universes into relation with each other addressing the special problem of painting shadows and analyzes Chardin's painting The Young Draughtsman in which shadow painting is both medium and theme The book includes an appendix that situates and summarizes the shadow system of Leonardo da Vinci which has had a strong though partly underground influence on thinking about shadows for five hundred years Publisher's description

Shadows Roberto Casati, 2007-12-18 In this original wide ranging and endlessly thought provoking work of popular nonfiction a leading science writer uncovers the pervasive presence of shadows in our world For Plato shadows were the symbol of our limitations For Galileo they knocked the Earth from the center of the cosmos They are a source of fear and a symbol of ignorance and they loom large in art and design mythology and folklore physics and metaphysics and architecture and urban planning From shadows puppets and the psychology of shadows to the role of shadows in astronomy and the influence of shadows on the architectural profiles of our cities Roberto Casati awakens our fascination in this tour de force of investigation and imagination

The Fruits of the Struggle in Diplomacy and War Ahmad ibn al-Mahdi al-Ghazzal, 2016-11-23 In 1766 the Moroccan ambassador Ahmad ibn al-Mahdi al-Ghazzal embarked on an unprecedented visit to Spain during a time of eased tensions between the two countries The sultan Sidi Muhammad ibn Abdallah wanted the return of Muslim prisoners and sacred Islamic texts while the Spanish king hoped to improve trade and security across the Strait of Gibraltar With royal welcome and escort al-Ghazzal traveled for several months in order to meet with Carlos III at his summer palace north of Madrid There they negotiated a historic treaty and then the Moroccan ambassador made his way back to Marrakesh where the treaty was ratified in the presence of the Spanish ambassador Jorge Juan and hundreds of freed Muslim captives In total the trip lasted a year and covered more than fifty Spanish cities and towns Most remarkable however is the fact that al-Ghazzal's travelogue in which he recorded the experience in great detail and moving prose has been lost to history This first full translation with critical introduction recovers his voice It offers insight into the dawn of modern diplomacy and its overlap with literature it looks at eighteenth century Europe through Arab eyes and it explores the deep nostalgia that the Islamic past of Andalusia provoked for a Moroccan traveler who traced his family ties to exiles of the region Finally al-Ghazzal's visit has further significance as the neglected backdrop to one of Spain's most canonical eighteenth century works the Moroccan Letters of Jos Cadalso Thus the world literature approach of the present introduction also reimagines the pluralism of Cadalso's foreign gaze through the encounters of the actual ambassador in his own words
